JUDGMENT VACATED AND GURNEY'S FINES GIVEN BACK TO HIM

Justice Phelps Expresses Regret
That He Did Not Know the Law.

Ambassador's Attention to Be Called to Breach of American Laws.

Boston, Sept. 29.—After allowing time for the communications in the Phelps-Gurney case to reach Washington, Governor Bates today made public various letters bearing on the matter. The governor informed the state department that the judgment against Gurney has been vacated and the fines imposed returned. He says that Judge Phelps had expressed regret to the secretary by letter, a copy of which he forwards, together with a statement by Judge Phelps, Governor Bates suggests that the attention of the British ambassador be called to the breach of the laws of Massachusetts, under the belief that the ambassador will take such action as the case demands.

PRINCE SVIATOPOLK-MIRSKY ASSUMES HIS NEW POSITION

Will Make Clean Sweep of Old Von Plehve Regime.

New Minister Refuses to Have Any Connection With Police.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 29.—Prince Peter Sviatopolk-Mirsky assumed active direction of the ministry of the interior today. It is already apparent that there will be almost a clean sweep of the old Von Plehve regime. A number of the old lieutenants of the former minister have resigned. Both the chief of the gendarmes and the secretary of state for Finland, which powerful offices the late Von Plehve accumulated, will be divorced from the ministry of the interior, the new minister having firmly refused to have any connection with the police. Mr. Stitschinsky, who, as under secretary of state and director of the land department, had an advisory capacity in dealing with the Zemstvos will, it is understood, be appointed secretary of state for Finland. He is distinctly a man of moderate views. Gen. Kidevsky, it is also believed, will be chief of the gendarmes, which will become an independent department. Kidevsky has just resigned the position of chief secretary of the ministry of the imperial household in order to be able to accept the position of chief of the gendarmes.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 29.—The speech of Prince Sviatopolk-Mirsky, Russian minister of the interior, at his reception of officials of the ministry of the interior today is held to have made a deep impression in Russia and be interpreted as the harbinger of a mild and broad

DECISION NOT YET RENDERED

Wisconsin Politicians Still Compelled to Wait Court's Convenience.

Madison, Wis., Sept. 29.—The decision was not rendered in the La Follette case this morning and the politicians of both factions are compelled to wait with what patience they can summon for another twenty-four hours at least.

Judge Cassoday is still unable to attend court, and Judge Marshall was also absent this morning, when court opened. He was engaged in other work, however, and expected to occupy his seat later in the day. The judges held a long conference yesterday and it is possible that some action may be taken in the case tomorrow or even as late as Saturday.

NEARLY $1,500,000 of Steel Preferred Stock Is Bought in San Francisco.

San Francisco, Sept. 29.—Charles M. Schwab and the members of his party have departed for the North and East in a special car. A flutter of excitement was caused on the stock market by the buying of nearly $1,500,000 of preferred stock of the United States Steel corporation. With the greatest possible secrecy is being maintained as to the identity of the purchaser and the block of steel preferred, it is the gossip of local financial circles that the stock was bought for Mr. Schwab's account.

In all twenty thousand shares were purchased and the buying advanced the market from $71.50 to 72.50.

Washington, Sept. 29.—The only new turn in the case of Magistrate Phelps, of Lee, Mass., who fined Secretary Gurney, of the British embassy for refusing his automobile, was the reception today at the state department of some mail from Acting Governor Gifford of Massachusetts. This relates entirely to the first stage of the case, and nothing more than an elaboration of the facts set out in the telegram already received. The further report promised by Governor Bates, embodying the evidence of the case, is to be the offense alleged to have been committed by Mr. Gurney, has not yet been received here.

Nothing Occurred to Mar
the Success of the Launching.

New York, Sept. 29.—As the bands on the several warships at the navy yard played "The Star Spangled Banner," a new United States battleship slid down the ways into the water today at 11:36, and Miss Alice Welles, granddaughter of President Lincoln's secretary of the navy, broke a bottle of champagne over the vessel's prow, naming it "Connecticut." Many thousands of people witnessed the launching of this, the first battleship built in a government yard since the ill-fated Maine, large crowds gathering at the navy yard and at various points on the Manhattan and Brooklyn sides of the East river. More than thirty thousand invitations were issued and but few were not used.

On this bridge just below the christening stand, Naval Constructor Baxter, in charge of the launching, was connected by telephone with all parts of the ship and on hearing that everything was ready he gave the signal to the workmen, passed the word to Miss Welles, who broke the bottle of wine against the bow, and the great steel hull was on its way to the water. The last plate was riveted on the after turret yesterday and early today Assistant Constructor Robinson with a force of men began work removing the after blocks and the crib work under the turret and repacking them by tumbling shot, which furnished support to the weight, but when the ship started to move, automatically relieved themselves.

A chorus of whistles from the vessels in the harbor drowned the strains of the national anthem, which was played by the warship's bands and the big steel hull rode safely on the water. The last plate was riveted on the after turret yesterday and early today Assistant Constructor Robinson with a force of men began work removing the after blocks and the crib work under the turret and repacking them by tumbling shot, which furnished support to the weight, but when the ship started to move, automatically relieved themselves.

BROTHERHOOD OF ST. ANDREW

Begin Nineteenth Annual
at Philadelphia.

Philadelphia, Sept. 29.—The nineteenth convention of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew began here today. Prominent clergymen and delegates from every section of America are in attendance. Delegates are also present from England, Scotland, Canada and other foreign countries.

The convention was called to order by E. C. Denton, Rochester, N. Y., acting president of the Brotherhood. As soon as organization had been perfected, committees were appointed and reports from the general council, the treasurer and the standing committees were received. Greetings were received by the convention from England, through George A. King, first vice president of the Brotherhood in England, and Rev. John H. Ellison, vicar of Windsor and chaplain to the archbishop of Canterbury and King Edward, from Canada by James A. Catts, president of the Brotherhood in Canada, from Japan by F. E. Wood and from Scotland by Arthur Giles.

FIRES STILL RAGES.
Hamilton, Mont., Sept. 29.—Reports from the bitter root forest reserve say that fire is raging in the timber of the reserve with great destructiveness, despite the fact of the recent rainfall. No lives have been killed.

FIREFMAN KILLED IN WRECK.
Charleston, S. C., Sept. 29.—The Atlantic Coast lines Florida limited today collided with a local passenger train out of Charleston, five miles from the city. A fireman was killed and several people were injured.

Great Ship Built By Government at New York Navy Yard.

New York, Sept. 29.—Survivors of the General Slocum excursion steamer fire, and those who were bereaved by the horror of last June, to the number of more than 200, have held a meeting to protest against the decision rendered by the local steamboat inspectors in their recent investigation. The meeting was held under the auspices of the organization of General Slocum survivors. Resolutions were adopted denouncing the report of inspectors James A. Dupont and Thomas H. Barrett, and calling for the punishment of those responsible. The organization represents 200 survivors and the families of 600 dead. The report was denounced as unjust and unfair to the stricken families, and resolutions were adopted declaring that the whole responsibility rests with the board of directors and officers of the steamboat company. A copy of the resolutions will be sent to President Roosevelt.

Fully one-third of those at the meeting were women, who, without exception, were in deep mourning. Many wept and the men were hardly less affected as the story of the disaster was told over again by those who had passed through the catastrophe. The Connecticut was built in a government yard and under government supervision, while the Louisiana was built by a private shipbuilding firm at Newport News, Va. The construction of both ships has been followed with keen interest as it was recognized that it was a test of the government's ability to cope with private enterprises. Much depended on this competition of construction, for if the Connecticut is completed before the Louisiana, then most of the government shipbuilding will be done by the latter, and it is expected the New York navy yard will be the shipbuilding center for government work. The Connecticut when finished will be the finest and most powerful boat in the American navy and will rank with the most powerful battleships of other nations. Notwithstanding the fact that a new plant had to be created for the construction of the Connecticut, this vessel is but 8 per cent behind the Louisiana although it has two months later. The last vessel of any size constructed at the New York navy yard was the ill-fated battleship Maine. The keel of the Connecticut was laid down on March 10, 1904, the stem was erected on July 28, the first armor plate placed aboard April 24, and the hull hoisted on July 7.

The Connecticut is of steel, with a trial displacement of 10,000 tons and a maximum displacement of 11,700 tons. The vessel is 460 feet on the load water line, 464 feet over all, 75 feet beam and 24 feet draught. The engines will be of the twin screw, vertical, 4-cylinder triple expansion type, with a combined horse power of 16,500, and these will accumulate a speed of 18 knots. The Connecticut will carry three main and two secondary turrets, and a main deck central battery, and a main deck secondary battery. The armor has a total weight of 392 tons. On each side amidships there is a steel belt 198 feet long, 9 feet 3 inches wide and 11 inches thick. Forward and aft of this belt is another 9 inches thick, covering the magazines. This is ended by 6-inch bulkheads. In the lower deck for 24 feet the armor is 6 inches thick, and on the main deck for 100 feet, where the central battery is, the armor is 7 inches thick. Are in the Hands of Japs.

Kuropatkin Is Drawing Forces to Less Mountainous Country.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 29.—News has been received here from Mukden to the effect that the Japanese have at last begun the offensive. They have captured Da pass and are pressing on Gen. Kuropatkin's left flank. The war office is unable to confirm this officially, because Kuropatkin's dispatches are following the emperor, but the Associated Press is informed by the general staff that all indications point to the news being correct. It is believed the Russians abandoned Da pass without serious resistance. Several other passes of the Da range, eastward of Bentiansutze (twenty miles southeast of Mukden) are also in the hands of Japanese.

Kuropatkin is evidently drawing in his forces to the less mountainous country in the northwestward, where he may decide to give battle. In the meanwhile sharp fighting is regarded as imminent southeast of Mukden, whence the Japanese are expected to deliver their main attack, the flank movement from the west being of secondary importance.

Da pass, or Ta pass, meaning great pass, is situated about forty-five miles southeast of Mukden and about the same distance northwest of Liao Yang. It is about twenty-five miles south of the Hun river. The Japanese attacked Da pass, which was occupied by troops of Generals Mischenko and Samsonoff on Sept. 24, but according to distances from Harbin were twice repulsed.

OVER A MILLION MEN Is Russia's Calculation of Japan's Fighting Strength.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 29.—The Russian makes calculation of Japan's fighting strength from which it concludes that the Japanese have a reserve of 1,000,000 men upon which to draw to fill up their battalions decimated in the field. It says the critics have been all along deceived both by the difference in the Japanese army on a war and on a peace footing and by the fact that the able-bodied men fitted to respond to a call for military service. Russia, the Russ says, must reckon upon an effective force over 1,000,000 strong when organizing her forces to meet the Japanese in the far East.

OUTPOST SKIRMISHES
Now About the Only Movement about the Front.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 29.—Movements at the front, so far as disclosed by the meager dispatches received here, are confined almost to continuous outpost skirmishes, by means of which Gen. Kuropatkin is keeping in close touch with the Japanese along the whole of the front. The Japanese are making advance appears to be extremely deliberate. There are no indications as yet that he has begun to overlap Russian positions. The superiority of the Russian cavalry is beginning to be apparent. They have had the best of it in a number of minor encounters. It appears that Gen. Rennenkampf's movement to the southward, on Sept. 19, extended beyond the distance indicated by first reports. His Cossacks made a rapid sweep on Sept. 22 and struck a Japanese force at Bentsib, threatening their communications and causing considerable excitement. Reinforcements are rapidly arriving.

CONSUL GENERAL GOODNOW TO RETURN TO ANSWER CHARGES

Is Granted Permission By the State Department to Come to Washington From Shanghai and Be Heard Personally on the Matter.

Washington, Sept. 29.—Acting Secretary of State Loomis has cabled Consul General Goodnow at Shanghai, permitting him to return immediately to the United States to answer charges preferred against him, and the administration of the affairs in his office. All the papers in the case are in the hands of Mr. Pierce, the third assistant secretary of state, who has just begun the preparation of a report to the president on the subject. The effect of the decision to allow Mr. Goodnow to be heard personally will be to postpone final action in his case until the end of the year. Meanwhile Mr. Pierce will devote himself to the preparation of that part of the report dealing generally with the subject of needed reforms in the American consulates in the Orient, for it is clear to the assistant secretary from his personal observations of conditions there last summer that the whole consular system requires most radical changes. To inaugurate these will require congressional action and the president's approval.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 29.—As the result of District Attorney Cossack's investigation of charges of alleged "grafting" on the part of city officials, three present aldermen and four former aldermen have been indicted. All the indicted men were arraigned in court today and pleaded not guilty. Bail was fixed at $1500 each and was furnished by all.

CONDICIONS IN PERU Are Most Favorable at the Present Time.

New York, Sept. 29.—Conditions in Peru, political and industrial, were never more favorable than now, according to Irving B. Dudley, the American minister to that country, who has just returned to spend a few weeks at his home in California. Toward the United States there is an especial feeling of good will, he says. Commerce with this country, already one of Peru's largest interests, is steadily on the increase.

GATHER IN DULUTH

Congregational Ministers of State to Meet Here Next Week.

One Hundred Fifty Delegates Expected to Be in Attendance.

The forty-ninth annual meeting of the General Congregational Association of Minnesota will be held in Duluth next week at the Pilgrim Congregational church, Lake avenue and Second street, starting Tuesday, Oct. 4, and coming to a close Thursday evening. From 150 to 200 delegates usually attend these annual conventions, but meetings of national Congregational associations to be held in Iowa next month will, it is believed, lessen somewhat the number of delegates who would otherwise attend the Duluth meeting. It is expected, however, that fully 150 ministers from different parts of the state will be present. Probably only portions of the extreme southern part of the state will be affected by the Iowa conferences, for as the Duluth meeting is concerned. The Minnesota Christian Endeavor Union will hold its biennial convention in this city, Sept. 29 to Oct. 2. By joint application the Congregational ministers have secured the one and one-third rates for the round trip for both meetings upon a certificate plan, plus twenty-five cents for expense and joint agent. Tickets will be on sale on all roads entering Duluth from Sept. 29 to Oct. 5, and good for return until Oct. 10.

An enthusiastic and successful meeting is looked for. A special effort will be made by the local church authorities to entertain the delegates while in the city, and plans are being made for their pleasure while here. The committee of arrangements is composed of Rev. Alexander Milne, Messrs. Ward, Ames and W. W. McMillan, Rev. W. A. Warren and Rev. W. A. Shaw make up the business committee, and the officers of the state association are as follows: Moderator, Hon. A. A. Miller, Crookston; assistant moderator, Rev. George R. Merrill, Pine; secretary, Rev. Samuel J. Rogers, Minneapolis; scribe, Rev. F. L. Meske, Orville.

The program for the several sessions is interesting, and will include addresses by foreign missionaries. The meeting will open Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock with "The Bible Hour," conducted by Rev. George R. Merrill, and this will be followed by a brief intermission and handshake, when organization and business of the convention will be taken up. The assignment of places for entertainment will be made before adjournment. In the evening Hon. A. A. Miller will deliver the moderator's annual address, to be followed by Prof. Graham Taylor, D. D., of the Chicago Theological Seminary, with an address on "The Emphasis which Evangelism Lays Upon Nature." Prof. Taylor is a man of national reputation and conducts the Chicago Commons, one of the Windy City settlements established for the betterment of the masses. His chief work is among the masses, expending efforts towards the uplifting and advancement of the moral and spiritual interests of the working man. Wednesday morning will be given up mainly to discussions on special evangelism, and there will be addresses by Rev. Richard Brown, Rev. John Lloyd and Rev. S. V. S. Fisher. Wednesday afternoon will be taken up by the Minnesota Women's Home Missionary Union and the Minnesota Home Missionary Society work. There will be reports of committees, election of officers, a review of the work of the past year, etc.

The feature of the evening will be the annual sermon, delivered by Rev. L. H. Hallbeck, D. D., pastor of the Plymouth Congregational church, Minneapolis, and a man well known all over the state. Thursday morning Rev. E. L. Heermance will speak on the "Secret of Success in the Christian Endeavor Society," and Rev. James E. McConnell will deliver an address on "The Proposed Union of Denominations." President J. H. George, D. D., of the Chicago Theological Seminary, will speak on "Christianity and Intellectual Movements." Prof. George is also a man of the highest standing, with a fame extending far beyond the limits of his own state. He was at St. Louis for a time as pastor, and at one time went to the Montreal college.

Thursday afternoon, devoted almost entirely to the missionaries, will be of special interest. Miss Emily S. Hartwell, of Foo Chow, China, daughter of the oldest missionary in the Orient, will deliver an address. She will also be in the city next Sunday and make an address at the church on "China as Affected by the Boxer Troubles." Devotional exercises will be conducted by Miss Cora Nason, of Caesarea, Turkey, and addresses will be made by Miss Elita Moulton, of Wai, India, and Rev. A. N. Hitchcock, district secretary for the American Board of Christian Foreign Missionaries. The feature of Thursday evening will be an address, "The Kingdom of God a Reality and Power in Human Society," by Rev. Samuel G. Smith, pastor of the People's Congregational church of St. Paul.

The Minnesota Women's Home Missionary union will hold an important business meeting in the parlors of the Pilgrim church at 3 p. m. Thursday. This meeting of Congregational ministers has nothing whatever to do with the assignments of pastors. It is more in the nature of a reunion of ministers for mutual profit and pleasure, for study and a friendly exchange of ideas.

WANTS PART OF ESTATE.

Dr Zeigler Asks $100,000 of McVicker Money.

Chicago, Sept. 29.—Dr. L. C. H. E. Zeigler will lay claim to a royal suit of the estate of Mrs. James H. McVicker. This was the sum of his claim against the estate of the woman he served as medical attendant for five years, made by Dr. Zeigler. He will base his claim on an alleged contract for that amount, entered into between himself and Mrs. McVicker when he first entered her service in 1899. Dr. Zeigler, who has maintained the strictest secrecy regarding the existence of the contract and its provisions, showed the paper yesterday. It is signed "Harriet G. McVicker," bears a notary's seal, and is witnessed. The instrument bears date of Dec. 19, 1899, and provides that $100,000 is to be paid to Dr. Zeigler out of the state of Mrs. McVicker after her death. It further provides that no payments for medical services shall be made during the lifetime of Mrs. McVicker. Dr. Zeigler says he will file his claim in the probate court when the case is reopened for hearing.

TAKES $45,000 SUITE.

E. R. Thomas Gets Royal Accommodations at Hotel.

New York, Sept. 28.—E. R. Thomas, the racing man, has taken a royal suite at the Hotel St. Regis, for which at the regular rate he will have to pay more than $5,000 a year. The suite, which will be occupied by Thomas and his wife, is on the fifth avenue side of the hotel and consists of a salon, library, dining room, two bedrooms and two bathrooms. The daily rate for the suite is $125. It is probably the most expensive and handsomely equipped suite of its size in the world. All the rooms are supplied with filtered air, which may be warmed or cooled to the desired temperature.

MORGAN IS ASKED

By Syndic of Ascoli to Restore Cope.

New York, Sept. 28.—A special cable dispatch from Rome says that the famous case of the Ascoli cope was again brought to public notice through a statement that the photographer, Raccigliani, who committed suicide after the theft of the cope had been laid at his door, took his life because of financial troubles, and that the theft had nothing to do with his suicide.

RUINED BY DRUGS.

College Graduate Is Arrested at Ann Arbor.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Sept. 28.—The pathetic story of a college graduate, once rich and honored, but ruined by morphine, was unfolded in Justice William G. Doty's court. He was picked up on the street, wandering about and talking incoherently. After a night in jail, he pleaded guilty to being "drunk," and a 30-day sentence was suspended on him. The prisoner said his name was Dr. John McDowell. He was a student in the university of Michigan in 1883 and '84. He took his degree of doctor of medicine from Rush medical college, Chicago, in 1886, and practiced his profession in Bay City for fifteen years. He had become addicted to the morphine habit in Bay City and gradually his business dropped off. He went to Detroit to begin all over again, but could not keep away from the drug. A month ago he left Detroit to seek medical books throughout the state. "I guess I'm gone," he said; "I took the Kewley cure for morphine once, but I went back to the stuff. I have been taking it for fifteen years now."

TWO NEGROES HANGED.

Philadelphia, Sept. 28.—James Oscar Webb and Samuel Archer, negroes, were hanged here today. Webb was executed for the murder of his wife and her mother in June, 1902, and Archer paid the death penalty for killing Policeman John Donohay, who was attempting to arrest him for robbery.

ITALY GETS ASHES.

Rome, Sept. 28.—There has been a plentiful fall of fine ashes or sand in South Italy, which is attributed to the eruption of Mount Vesuvius, or to the strong winds from the African desert.

She Prayed for Death.

Remarkable Experience of Mrs. Hezekiah Buckhorn, a Kansas Woman.

WONDERFUL EFFECT OF THE NEW DISCOVERY, CHRYSTAL TONIC, IN SUSTAINING AND PRESERVING LIFE.

It is a Predisposed Liquid Food That Builds and Restores All the Tissues of the Body and Thus Arrests and Prevents the Process of Natural Decay Incident to Old Age—By Means of Its Marvelous Properties Life Can Be Prolonged Indefinitely.

Mrs. Hezekiah Buckhorn, for many years a leader in the religious and social life of the metropolis of the Jayhawk state, but who has for the past twenty-two years been a confirmed invalid, suffering from nervous and female disorders, has established her friends and acquaintances by a complete and marvelous recovery. Let her tell her own story.

MRS. HEZEKIAH BUCKHORN.

"Now that I am restored to health and no longer a sufferer from those torturing ailments peculiar to women, I don't mind stating that years ago I became so worried and discouraged that I prayed to God to release me from my suffering. He certainly answered my prayer, but I paid the price. One day my husband brought me a bottle of Chrysal Tonic, but I had done myself with so many useless medicines that I would not try it until he almost made me do it.

"In half an hour I felt better, and that night I had the first unbroken sleep for more than twenty years. That first bottle set me on my feet again, and within two weeks I was able to go to church for the first time in sixteen years. I am now completely cured. My appetite is normal, I sleep well and I never felt better in my life. God answered my prayer with Chrysal Tonic.

One single dose of Chrysal Tonic will make you feel better. Within fifteen minutes after you have taken it you will feel new life in your blood, the nerves will tingle with new rich life, and all feeling of melancholy and depression will pass away.

Continuing to use it, your digestion will improve, you will be able to sleep sound, dreamless sleep that rests and refreshes every atom of your body.

Work that has been impossible will be easy within your reach—brain and body will cooperate naturally to produce the best.

Chrysal Tonic cures rheumatism, constipation, consumption, torrid liver, kidney trouble, Bright's disease, heart disease, neuritis, nervous exhaustion, male and female weakness, bad blood, headache, loss of appetite, indigestion, nervousness, general debility, tired brain and any run-down condition of the system.

Chrysal Tonic is not a combination of dangerous drugs. It is a predisposed liquid food that rebuilds and restores all the tissues of the body and thus arrests and prevents the process of natural decay incident to old age. By means of its marvelous properties life can be prolonged indefinitely.

It gives sound, refreshing sleep, aids digestion, cures constipation and biliousness and drives impurities from the blood.

It ought to be in every family all the time—as good for young as old, because it prevents and cures disease.

Don't take our word for what Chrysal Tonic will do for you, try a bottle today. If, after using it, you are not delighted with the results, write the company at Marshall and they will refund your money. What could be larger?

Get Chrysal Tonic from your druggist at $1 a bottle or from the Chrysal Tonic Company, Marshall, Mich., prepaid, on receipt of price.

WORKMAN KILLED

Laborer Falls From Roof of the New Masonic Temple.

Died Shortly After Reaching Hospital—Is Without Family.

After falling headlong down through the beams and girders of the new Masonic temple, from the roof to the basement, Charles Turin, a laborer, was picked up in an unconscious condition and taken to St. Luke's hospital. He died not long after reaching there.

Turin was employed as a laborer on the new building. He was walking on the roof of the building, and stepped on one of the roof joists. As he was carrying a heavy board, a strong puff of wind caused him to sway and the joist being lightly held toppled over and down he went. He struck the beams of the first and second floor in his descent and fell on some rocks on the basement floor.

He was unconscious when his fellow workmen reached him. The ambulance was immediately summoned and the man taken to St. Luke's hospital, it was found that no bones were broken but that he was severely cut and bruised and injury to the brain was also feared.

Not long after he reached the hospital he died and without retaining his senses.

Little was known of Turin by his fellow workmen. He is a man of about 25 or 26 years of age, and unmarried. He has been boarding at the home of Mrs. Johnson, at Sixth avenue east and Sixth street.

One of his relatives has in this city a married sister. She was found and taken to the hospital in time to be with him when he died.

SENTENCES DIFFER

One Thief Escapes Free and Second Goes to Jail.

Judge Windom Holds That Circumstances Alter Cases.

The saying that "circumstances alter cases" was never better proven than this morning in the municipal court when one self-acknowledged thief escaped with a suspended sentence, while a second was given a $50 fine with the alternative of spending 90 days on the rock pile.

Walter White, a young man about twenty years of age, was arrested for stealing $20 from a woodsman in a Bowersky saloon. He pleaded guilty to the charge, and told a very straightforward story of the manner in which it had happened.

He was employed as a waiter in a Bowersky restaurant, and last evening one of his customers invited him to go to an adjoining saloon for a drink. The man was intoxicated and threw a roll of bills down beside the bar. White picked the bills up and retained two of them. He later returned one to the owner, and when the officer arrested him handed over the other.

"You have told a very straightforward story," said Judge Windom in passing sentence. "I don't believe you had formed and definite plan to rob that man, but it is a serious crime nevertheless. Had the sum been a little larger and had you been before the district court it would probably have resulted in a sentence of four or five years in the penitentiary."

White was the first step and in hanging around saloons you lose your respect for the rights of others and look upon theft as a small matter.

"You look like a young man who had had a good education, and who comes from a respectable family. Now is the time for you to bring yourself up short if you don't want to end your present way. Pretty soon you will have a jail sentence now would, I believe have the effect of hardening you in your present ways. Pretty soon you will have a jail sentence now would, I believe have the effect of hardening you in your present ways."

William Hamilton was arraigned a moment later on the same charge. He was charged with stealing a watch from an Indian on the plea that he would pawn it and give the Indian the money. The watch was valued at $100 and Hamilton was charged with stealing it from the Indian.

TRADE TOO SMALL

Dealing In Futures In Durum Wheat Offers No Attraction.

Market Would Be Too Narrow For Hedges For Millers.

The appeal of H. C. Plumley, of Fargo, to the St. Paul chamber of commerce for action looking to the establishment of a contract grade and option market for durum wheat, was met with a flat refusal.

Commercial club, does not receive much encouragement from members of the Duluth board of trade, by whom, of course, the contract grade would have to be fixed and the dealing in futures done.

The trading in durum wheat is too small and the market is too narrow to permit of dealing in futures. The business would be so very small as to be not worth the trouble.

The small crop raised would defeat the very object the millers desire in dealing in futures. A miller in placing his hedge, which means the selling of an option, wishes a market as nearly stable as possible, so that he can manipulate the price of the grain.

The durum wheat of the Northwest is under an option to hedge nevertheless. The percentage would be of the grade that might be fixed as contract. The corporation would be too narrow as that necessarily, would be so easy as to subject it to constant manipulation, and no miller would dare to place his hedge in it.

Grain men assert, too, that while there is no fixed difference between the price of ordinary spring wheat and durum wheat it is possible for a miller grinding durum to hedge nevertheless.

It is also asserted that the North Dakota miller who is grinding durum wheat can find elevators in North Dakota that will sell him plenty of durum wheat as he may desire at a fixed price, to be delivered in monthly installments as he may desire. This would give him a definite basis from which to work and would overcome the drawback of not having elevator capacity to store the wheat.

THE STORY OF FATHER JOHN'S

An Interesting History of 50 Years.

In 1848 Rev. Father John O'Brien, a noble man, came to Lowell, Mass., to do the Master's work in St. Patrick's Parish. In 1851 Father John, as he was fondly known to his people, was attacked with a serious cold which, developing into a stubborn cough and affliction of the lungs, caused the greatest alarm for the health of the beloved clergyman.

Medical skill seemed unable to stay the progress of the disease. Finally, an eminent specialist was consulted, who gave Father John a prescription to cure the cold and remove the lung trouble, as well as to build up and strengthen the body. The clergyman took the prescription to the old drug store of Carleton & Hovey, Lowell, Mass., the firm by whom Father John's Medicine is prepared. The cough soon disappeared and his people rejoiced when he declared that he had been made as well and strong as ever.

Father John recommended the medicine to his parishioners and friends, and thousands were made well and strong by taking it. In fact, this prescription has been called "Father John's Medicine," and so it was named by the people, and advertised—all with the approval and sanction of Rev. Father O'Brien, because he knew of its merit and desired that all who were ailing might benefit by its power to cure.

This old-fashioned wholesome remedy is unexcelled as a body builder and tonic. It restores health and strength to all run down systems. Its gentle laxative effect strengthens the stomach and corrects the digestion. It drives out all impurities. It is a food medicine and contains only pure nourishment. It is not a patent medicine, and it is free from opium, morphine or poisonous drugs in any form, which are found in the majority of patent preparations.

While it is not a "cough syrup" or "balm," nothing equals this prescription for coughs, colds, bronchitis, asthma, consumption and all throat and lung troubles. It has a most soothing and healing effect, and at the same time builds up the body and makes strength.

We have permission to refer to the Sisters Superior at the following Homes and Hospitals where Father John's Medicine is in use: Sisters of Charity, St. John's Hospital, Lowell, Mass.; Notre Dame de Lourdes Hospital, Manchester, N. H.; Sisters of Mercy, St. Patrick's Orphanage, Manchester, N. H., and many others. No names of which we shall be pleased to furnish upon application. When you ask your druggist for Father John's Medicine, remember that the 31 bottles contain three times the quantity of the recent size. Father John's Medicine is for sale by all druggists; the L. W. CASHIER IN HOTEL

Mistakes Secretary Shaw For Dancing Teacher.

Chicago, Sept. 29.—Secretary of the United States Treasury Leslie M. Shaw experienced a little difficulty in having a check cashed at the Auditorium hotel last night. The cashier told him he would have to be identified before he would honor the check.

"Don't you know him, or have you not heard of Mr. Shaw?" asked the secretary's companion.

"I have seen his dancing school advertised," replied the cashier, mistaking Mr. Shaw for a dance instructor.

The cashier then handed him a card, and Mr. Shaw, vainly attempting to persuade the young woman to cash the check.

The secretary went to Clerk Ketter and said: "What is the name of the man who has a little of the money I can't get Washington?"

"The name is Mr. Shaw," said the clerk, and Mr. Shaw, instructed the cashier to honor the check, and a moment later Mr. Shaw, smiling and counting his money, hastened from the desk.

CHORUS GIRLS SCARCE.

Too Many Spectacular Shows on the Road.

Chicago, Sept. 29.—Chicago has a chorus girl famine on its hands. Theatrical agencies report that not enough can be found to fill one side of a stage.

The agents report also that all the inmates at the Old People's home are contented and there appears no source from which to draw.

One cause for the famine given is the unusually large number of spectacular shows and operas that are touring the country. It is certain to continue until the roads get good at least.

One agent is offering $25 a week and shoes and stockings for a small chorus to sing at the pump in a rural musical drama, but he still has difficulty in getting enough girls.

N. E. A. MEETING

At Portland or Asbury Park Next Year.

Winona, Minn., Sept. 29.—Dr. Irwin Shepard, secretary of the National Educational association, will leave next week for the East for conference with President William H. Maxwell, and matter of selection of a place for next summer's convention having been referred to these two at a meeting of the executive committee of the association at St. Louis last night.

At that time because definite information from the railways regarding rates was not hand, there appeared to be quite a sentiment in favor of going to Portland, Ore., as the association has not been on the Pacific coast for some years.

The meeting will be at Asbury Park. It will depend very largely on the railway rates offered.

THE LIARS.

An Up-to-Date Society Comedy.

Town Topics: Scene—The drawing room of Mrs. Sozuhl Strifur at Newport.

Mrs. Sozuhl Strifur—Oh, yes; we are all perfectly delighted. Lord Gosling is everything desirable from both personal and financial standpoints, and he is a really worthy fellow.

Mrs. Millyuns—How sweet! And when is the engagement to be announced?

Mrs. Sozuhl Strifur—Why, my dear, we've only just begun denying it.

Mrs. Millyuns—Of course. How foolish of me!

Mrs. Sozuhl Strifur—Eloquent demands at least a month's denial before making the announcement. How's your baby, dear?

Mrs. Millyuns—Perfectly heavenly, thanks. A horrible reporter came letters of recommendation. Detectives hunted for Mr. Fanning without success and Bilson & Clark had to charge the delinquent up to the police station, not even the gratification of revenge.

Capt. Carr resumed his post as chief of the wharves belonging to the firm.

I met a modern little girl. With eyes as blue as heaven; I asked: "How many young men do you have?" She answered, "We are seven."

"And who are they, my little maid?" I asked, as on we rattled.

"My three mamma and three papas, Besides myself," she prattled.

"And where are they?" I asked, "who are they?"

"To make your happy quota?" "One to Chicago went," she said, "And three to South Dakota."

"But that can only leave you three," I said, "your woes to heaven."

"Two throwing words away, for still She answered, "We are seven!"

HAPPENINGS IN DAKOTAS

Three Men Charged With Robbing Train Are Bound Over.

NORTH DAKOTA. Grand Jurors—C. H. Hicks, G. H. Bradford and C. H. Foster, charged with robbing W. J. Perry, a Montana man, of $25 while in a mail coach, and also with robbing a week ago, were held to the district court and bonds in each case fixed at $100.

The three are in the county jail.

Depositions were taken in this city today in the case of R. Wardner against the Great Northern Railway company.

Wardner has brought an action to recover $40,000 for injuries received on the Third Street railway crossing in this city May 21. This is the largest sum that has been demanded in a railroad suit in many years in this part of the Northwest.

The suit of Mrs. Emma Bruyere against the Great Northern Railway company for damages is asked, has been transferred from the district court of this county to the United States district court, on motion of the railroad company.

Mrs. Bruyere says that in driving over a crossing a half mile east of Larimore, which was defective, she was thrown and received what she claims are permanent injuries.

Fargo—W. H. Burd, who was the greatest trouble maker in having trouble here. He came to Fargo three years ago as professor of mathematics in the high school, and also as coach of the high school football team. For some months he has been the cause of domestic trouble. His wife alleged he was too fond of one of the girls who was graduated from the high school last year.

The situation reached the acute stage recently when Mrs. Burd's wife, Mrs. Mary Burd, was told that she was to be divorced.

An adjustment of some financial considerations is all that remains. It is understood that Burd will marry the girl in the case as soon as Mrs. Burd secures a divorce.

Burd was permitted to continue his work in the school room until Tuesday, when Mrs. Burd, present of the board of education, informed him he was no longer needed.

The school lands of this county have been leased by Land Commissioner Laxdal for the coming year. The event was

STAND BY THE TRIBUNAL

Long and Stormy Session of the Knights of Pythias.

Minneapolis, Sept. 28.—The grand tribunal of the Knights of Pythias will continue. This decision was reached at the convention yesterday after a long and stormy session. For a time it looked as if the "ants" would win, but towards noon there was a weakening in the ranks and the grand lodge finally declared that it declined to receive any motion to do away with the tribunal.

Other business was the election of officers and the sending of a letter of sympathy to C. H. Tasker, of Minneapolis, a former grand chancellor, who is too ill to attend the convention. There was practically no contest in the election of officers. The roster for next year will be:

C. S. Hartman, St. Paul, grand chancellor; Thomas H. Hine, Minneapolis, vice-chancellor; Rev. C. R. Taylor, Litchfield, grand prelate; Fred S. Wheaton, G. R. S.; Charles U. Farwell, Minneapolis, grand master of exchequers; L. H. Schackford, St. Paul, grand treasurer; Fred A. Class, Hibbing, grand inner guard; H. E. Shedd, Red Wing, grand outer guard; and W. N. Hyatt, Mankato, trustee for two years.

At the close of the session an informal reception was held for John A. Johnson, of St. Peter, Democratic candidate for governor. The greatest enthusiasm prevailed and there was a rush to grasp his hand and wish him success.

THE COAL SEASON

Near at Hand and Household-ers Figure Coal Bills.

How Stovepipes Can Be Saved From Rust Destruction.

This is the season when the householder who uses a coal stove begins to huddle that very necessary article out of the back shed or basement and set it up preparatory to the cold weather which has given unmistakable signs of being near at hand, also to figure his winter coal bill. Some have already had stoves in position and maintained a little fire during the damp chilly days of the past week as a precaution against cold.

When some of the old stove pipe which has been in use for years, perhaps, has been dug up from its summer hiding place, the owner has been annoyed to find that it has become so eaten with rust that there seems to be little of the pipe left and he is forced to get to the expense of new pipe.

This rusting of stove pipe, under shelter, in buildings where antirust coal is used is not generally understood by the public and an article which appeared in the Scientific American, recently, written by J. M. Blake, throws considerable light on the matter, both as to the causes of the rust and the remedy, or rather the precautions which may be taken to preserve new stove pipe.

Pipes that have been in use for two or three years are said to become so eaten with rust that they will crush easily in the hand, the rusting process being much more rapid and complete than where the pipe is exposed to weather rust. While the cause has been said to be due to sulphur acid, Mr. Blake claims that experiments made by him show the sulphur to have little to do with the injury. He says the true cause is the production of ammonia compounds during combustion, both the chloride of sal-ammonia and the sulphate are formed in the pipe and mix with the ashes and soot. It remains harmless during the dry cold weather, but readily absorbs moisture by contact with damp air as warm weather comes on, its action begins, and continues so long as the cause remains.

The effect of sal-ammonia in rusting iron is probably more generally known. It is well known that soft, or bituminous coal, gives off ammonia when distilled. The removal of ammonia salt is said to be attended with some difficulty. If all the particles of dust are removed and new stove pipe before the dampness has been absorbed, the removal will be complete. It is claimed, and no harm will ensue. However this is claimed to be a Minnesota people are often obliged to keep their stoves and furnaces going through the first warm damp days of May and sometimes in early June. When rust has once commenced and, particularly in the case of neglected pipes, the rust of the rust is said to persistently hold the ammonia salt.

Two ways are suggested for its removal. The first is to immerse the pipes and thoroughly soak the separated sections for several days in warm running water if possible; and second, by roasting the pipes over a fire to red heat. Both methods are said to have been tried with satisfactory results.

SEIZED BY ALARM

Over the Governorship Outlook Are the Dunn Managers.

Verity and Heatwole Are Dropped and Martin's Aid Enlisted.

St. Paul, Sept. 28.—The managers of Bob Dunn's campaign for governor are alarmed over the widespread dissatisfaction among the Republicans in all sections of the state. They have found that even in St. Louis county, which was supposed to be strongly for Dunn, many Republicans have announced their intention of voting for Johnson. The bitterness engendered by the throwing out of the state convention of the Collins delegation from Minneapolis still continues, and now an effort is being made to whip all the Collins men in line. With this object in view, James A. Martin, who was manager of the Collins campaign, has been induced to lend his aid, and at a meeting of the state central committee yesterday afternoon, Martin was elected a member of the committee in place of Kay Todd, of St. Paul, who resigned.

William E. Verity, of Wadena, secretary of the committee, also resigned by request, and was succeeded by Charles H. Warner, of Alitka, formerly assistant land clerk in the auditor's office. Verity is also close friend of Joel P. Heatwole, and as it is claimed the latter aspires to succeed Moses E. Long, of the United States senate, the friends of Clapp protested against Verity being kept in a position where he would be able to influence the outcome of the Collins campaign. It was decided to drop Verity and Heatwole, and to enlist the aid of James A. Martin and other Republicans.

Mr. Verity addressed the following letter to the committee: "I have been informed that because of my attitude of friendship towards Joel P. Heatwole my services as secretary of this committee are no longer desired. Much as I deplore the situation which has brought about this condition, I yet feel that I have, at all times, performed the duties of my post in a loyal and harmonious and Republican success. I hereby tender my resignation as secretary."

Another evidence of the Dunn managers' alarm over the situation is found in their decision to keep the Senate race and Clapp on the stump in Minnesota during the rest of the campaign. On this point the Minneapolis Journal says: "The Dunn managers have been crowing for two months, predicting 50,000 to 75,000 majority, and they are still keeping up their predictions. They are now being forced to work like beavers to patch up the breaches in their campaign. The state committee has declared there is urgent need of their services to save the nomination for governor. This is one evidence of the panic which has struck the organization. She was a woman who considered it her duty to be faithful to her husband, and though a chattering woman, there was considerable personal grievance. The quarrel grew up between her and her husband, and she was angry and struck her with the object nearest her hand, which happened to be a hairbrush. When the woman rose from the hall to the bathroom to wash her face, she found her face covered with bruises she wept bitterly over her wrongs. She then returned to the bathroom and found afterward that her nose was broken. She was so badly hurt that she was unable to reach the ears of the colored stable boy through the wall which separated the two rooms.

Meantime, it is conceived that the husband, who is a man of considerable personal resources, Consciousness of his brutality did not prevent him from continuing to beat his wife. Finally, his wife returned from the bathroom bruised and disfigured, she, too, was angry. She took a hairbrush and struck him. She had seen a baseball bat belonging to a neighbor and had taken it. She ran out into the street with his handsome head between her hands and struck him about the streets with his handsome head between her hands. She was so angry that she did not know what she was doing. She was so angry that she did not know what she was doing.

The young man said he knew but would not say. Cortelyou didn't want to be bothered by every Tom-Dick-and-Harry.

"Get on the telephone," commanded Tawney.

After many protests the tall young man picked up the telephone.

"Hello, Mr. Chairman," said Tawney over the telephone. "This is Tawney. Mr. Cortelyou said you were, of Minnesota, in charge of the speakers' bureau of Chicago. You telephoned me to come here. Now ask me how you want."

"Why, how do you do, Mr. Tawney," came the reply from Cortelyou.

"I really am too busy now. Go back to Chicago and I'll write you."

OVER DEATH OF ITS VENERABLE SENATORFor Third of Century Had

on His Death.

Worcester, Mass., Sept. 30.—The tolling of the bells of the church towers and fire stations of Worcester communicated to his fellow-citizens the intelligence of the passing of United States Senator George Frisbie Hoar, whose death occurred at 1:35 a. m. today. At 2:35 o'clock the chiming on Plymouth church played "Nearer, My God to Thee." Five minutes later flag on a manufacturing plant, the first one to be half-masted, was raised. The tolling bells were heard throughout the city, and within a few minutes numerous inquiries were made at the newspaper offices by telephone. The people of Worcester, to whom Senator Hoar was endeared in a measure beyond that ever given to any other man, anxiously followed the course of his sickness for six weeks and hundreds of calls on the telephone had been made daily at the local newspaper offices by persons who desired to hear the latest news from the bedside.

The state of profound stupor, which was an indication of the approach of death, embraced the senator for forty hours. The patient had expressed the wish early in his illness that he might die peacefully and without a struggle. Such a death came to him.

Besides Dr. Gilman, the senator's two children, Rockwood Hoar and Miss Mary Hoar, who sat at the bedside until the end.

E. W. Doherty, the messenger of the committee on judiciary of the senate, of which Mr. Hoar was chairman, came to Worcester yesterday to be with the senator in his last hours. Early in the week Rev. Dr. Edmund Everett Haff, an intimate friend, came from Boston, but was not admitted to the sick chamber, nor was Senator Henry Cabot Lodge admitted when he called on Wednesday. The physician was afraid that the least commotion would have a fatal effect.

During the last few days pictures of Senator Hoar have been prominently displayed in shop windows throughout the city, and today many of those photographs were identified with the interest of Worcester. He was the principal figure in the public library, and later a reading room. He was foremost in placing the Worcester Polytechnic institute on a solid foundation, and for many years was one of its trustees. He was a warm friend of Clark university, being its vice president and, at the death of Jonas G. Clark, its head. Mr. Hoar became president of the board of trustees, a position he held until his death. For many years he was trustee of Leicester academy. The Worcester Art society and the Worcester club were founded by his efforts. He was an honorary life member of the Worcester Mechanics' association and member of the Republican club of Massachusetts. He was the oldest member, saving two, of the American Society of Antiquity. He also held membership in the New England Genealogical society, was a former president of the American Historical society and was active in the Massachusetts Historical society.

Senator Hoar was a trustee of the Peabody trust fund for the promotion of education in the south. He was a member of the Smithsonian institution at Washington and was prominent in the humanitarian movement during the hundreds of messages of condolence were received at the family residence on Oak avenue.

It is understood that the funeral will be held Monday from the Church of the Holy Trinity, and that Rev. Edward Everett Hale, chaplain of the United States senate, will be asked to officiate.

Boston, Sept. 30.—News of the death of Senator George F. Hoar was received with great regret by all classes of citizens. In politics he had no enemies in this state and Democrats were not behind the members of his own party in paying tribute to his worth. Soon after daylight the flags on the state house were half-masted and later similar tokens of mourning were displayed on the city hall and other buildings throughout the city. Governor John L. Bates issued a proclamation announcing the death of the senator and saying:

"A great man has gone from us. He lived and died in the service of Massachusetts. Five times he was commissioned by his Commonwealth to represent her in the highest council chamber in the nation and under those commissions he served longer than any other man who has represented this state. The character of that service may be measured by the highest standards, and it will not be found wanting. It made him a national figure for a generation. By great abilities and unswerving rectitude, he won the respect of the nation and established himself in the hearts of his fellow men. They gladly honored him because they believed in him. He was a scholar of deep learning, an orator of impassioned power, but above all, a sincere man wholly devoted to conscience, hewing close to the line, scorning the arts of the demagogue, not anxious to please men but to serve them, not seeking to be popular but determined to be right. Intensely conscious of the loss our state has suffered, we find even in the hour of extreme sorrow, a great cause for gratification in that the record of his

BRIGHTER DAYPassing of the Von Plehve Regime
a Blessing to the Russians.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 30.—The war in the far East has been momentarily thrown in the shade by the universal acclaim with which the Russian press this morning greets the accession of Prince Sviatopolk-Mirsky to the office of minister of the interior, as marking the inauguration of a liberal regime. All the papers print the minister's speech at the reception yesterday of the officials of the ministry, and by the side of it, by special authorization of the minister of the interior, the interview of the Associated Press with the minister at Vilna, Sept. 28. Many of the papers also print the emperor's manifesto of 1903. The editorials all breathe a tone of relief at the passage of the Von Plehve regime and intense satisfaction at the dawn of brighter days.

The interview of the Associated Press with the minister of the interior is accepted as amplification of the minister's words to his associates. The press entitles its editorial, "A System of Confidence," and says:

"The year and a half have elapsed since the manifesto was issued, but the former minister was far from encouraging the co-operation of the people concerned. He deliberately excluded them and fostered an atmosphere of mutual suspicion. The new minister realizes that the only way to obtain actual results is to give lasting effect to the liberal pledges contained in the manifesto, take the people into his confidence, and ask for the hearty co-operation of all classes. There is no necessity for pointing out that this method of applying the manifesto is a natural sequel. In the minister's interview with the Associated Press his words were addressed primarily to the nation at large. They must make the first response. He says:

"I believe in the Zemstvos and am convinced that they can render the greatest service."

"It is undoubtedly the mission of the government in the truest sense of the word to strive for their success and not to hinder them."

"These are golden words, which will go down to history. The welfare of the people. Such is Russia's motto now."

The confidence thus expressed towards the Russian nation and the Russian press will not be betrayed."

The Gazette says Prince Mirsky's words yesterday and his statements to the Associated Press at Vilna, augur tranquility, progress, mutual confidence and unremitting labor, adding:

Nations.

Washington, Sept. 30.—A petition calling upon the president to intervene in the affairs of the Congo Free State in the interests of civilization, was presented to President Roosevelt at 1 o'clock today by E. B. Morel, who was accompanied by the White House by Acting Secretary of State Loomis. The petition is inscribed: "Memorial to the president of the United States of America, concerning affairs in the Congo Free State, by the Congo Reform association, supported by the British and Foreign Anti-Slavery society and the Aborigines Protection society."

This is numerously signed by men whose names are known throughout the world, the list being headed by the earl of Aberdeen, while among the other signers are the Lord bishop of Liverpool, Sir Gilbert Parker, Earl Norbury, Lord Kinnaird, Lord Denman, Sir J. H. Hennaway, Charles Kingsley and W. T. Stead. The signers appear to be about evenly divided between the Conservative and Liberal parties in England. The memorialists say that they are "seeking the assistance of the president of the United States, the first citizen of the American republic, which has ever interested itself powerfully in the cause of civilization. It is a matter of honor for all nations and individuals in a way responsible for the creation of the Congo state, to do all possible toward the removal of the system which has grown up under the governing power and the abuses committed under it."

The memorialists, as a basis for their requests, recite the act of the house of commons of May 20, 1902, requesting the British government to confer with the other powers "to abate the evils prevalent in the state and declare that before all other nations interested it is within the privilege and the faithful national services of the United States to promote such an inquiry, seeing that on its action is based the claim of King Leopold, as sovereign of the Congo state, that it is an important and self-governing state."

Family Was Driving.

St. Paul, Sept. 30.—(Special to The Herald.)—Jewelry, estimated to be worth $4000, was stolen from the house of E. H. Saunders, president of the Northwestern Fuel company, 323 Summit avenue, last night while the family were dining. Sneak thieves secured an entrance through a basement doorway, gained the second floor, and so quietly conducted their operations that the family did not know that the house had been robbed until about 9:30 o'clock when Mrs. Saunders found a pasteboard box which had been in her dresser lying in the middle of the floor of her room.

A hasty search of the premises showed that the rooms on the second floor had been looted and jewelry and plate of costly quality taken. The search had evidently been hasty, as several articles of value had been overlooked, one of which was a necklace, with a large diamond pendant, of high value. An unknown quantity of jewelry owned by the Misses Saunders was taken but the exact amount taken from the house has not been divulged, and it is expected that it is not known.

Governor of Arzila
Murdered by Natives.

Tangier, Morocco, Sept. 30.—The governor of Arzila, who was the father-in-law of the former war minister Elmer Buhl, has been ordered at Arzila by people of the surrounding tribes. The murder was committed out of revenge for the action of the governor in implementing the demands of the natives for the release of the prisoners and killed many of the townspeople.

Great alarm prevails at Arzila and the authorities there have appealed to Mohammed El Torres, the representative at Tangier of the sultan, to send them assistance.

Still Remains Near the City.Japanese Were Repulsed In General Assault on Port Arthur.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 30.—From a reliable source the Associated Press hears that sharp fighting has occurred near Mukden, resulting in the Japanese driving in Gen. Kuropatkin's outposts. Important dispatches have been received and transmitted to the emperor. They are believed to confirm the Associated Press information. The general staff, however, is unable at present to go beyond the positive assurance that the main Russian army is still at Mukden.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 30.—The general staff has received news that in the general assault on Port Arthur from Sept. 20 to Sept. 26, the Japanese were everywhere repulsed.

Vladivostok, Sept. 30.—Private reports from Port Arthur say that the garrison there is confident of being able to hold out until the beginning of next year. The report is confirmed of the loss of three Japanese torpedo boats and the damaging of a Japanese cruiser by coming in contact with Russian mines. All is quiet at Vladivostok.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 30.—The war expert of the Novoye Vremya says he believes that a battle at Mukden is possibly days, and even weeks, distant. He recalls that two months elapsed between Chancellorsville and Gettysburg. The Novoye Vremya continues to urge that Gen. Kuropatkin be appointed commander-in-chief, intimating again that he has been embarrassed heretofore by Viceroy Alexieff.

Making Losses Good.

Reason of Delay in Marshal
Oyama's Aggressiveness.

Mukden, Sept. 30.—The delay in the resumption of the aggressive by Field Marshal Oyama, according to the best information, is due to the necessity of making good the losses which he sustained at Liao Yang and to the bringing up of stores and munitions. But the preparations for an active forward movement of the Japanese now seem to have been completed and a serious

POSTMASTER GENERAL PAYNE'S CONDITION IMPROVES SLIGHTLY

Washington, Sept. 30.—The physicians in attendance upon Postmaster General Payne, at 9:30 o'clock this morning, issued the following bulletin:

"The postmaster general had a very restless night and is very weak. His condition is serious. He is resting quietly at present and free from pain. Dr. Magruder remained with Mr. Payne all of last night and was joined in consultation early this morning by Surgeon General Rixey and Dr. Grayson, both of the navy. The postmaster general's ailment is heart trouble, a new development from his recent illness."

Following the issuance of the bulletin Dr. Magruder said that the attack of heart trouble had been very severe, beginning night before last and continuing all day yesterday and during last night. He expressed himself as being extremely anxious concerning his patient's condition. The greatest trouble has been to get Mr. Payne to take nourishment and retain it although he did take some nourishment this morning. He has rallied slightly, which Dr. Magruder said, gave some encouragement.

Dr. Magruder left the bedside shortly before 1 o'clock and said that there had been an improvement in Mr. Payne's condition since the morning bulletin and that he was now doing nicely. The nourishment given is being retained. When asked as to the treatment that had been administered, Dr. Magruder said he and his associates were meeting conditions as they arose. Dr. Rixey remained in the sick room.

President Roosevelt called at the Arlington hotel about noon. He saw Mrs. Payne and remained about ten minutes. The president is kept constantly advised as to Mr. Payne's condition. At 12:30 o'clock, Private Secretary Whitney stated that Mr. Payne was about the same.

President Roosevelt returned to the hotel at about 1:40. He remained in Mr. Payne's apartments but a few minutes and when he came out said the doctor had reported that there were real grounds for encouragement. Mr. Whitney, his private secretary, also announced that there was a decided improvement in Mr. Payne's condition.

Firemen Fight Stubborn
Blaze in Packing Houses

New York, Sept. 30.—Nearly a quarter of a million dollars' loss was caused by a fire in the big block of meat packing houses and refrigerating plants in Tenth avenue, between Thirteenth and Fourteenth streets. The fire started late last evening and burned steadily through the night before it was brought under control. The heaviest loss was in the three-story building occupied by the Cudahy Packing company, the T. A. Wheeler & Co., and Conroy Bros. dealers in poultry. The fire also damaged or practically destroyed two four-story buildings occupied by T. A. Wheeler & Co. and the G. H. Hammond company. The loss to the Cudahy company is estimated at $125,000, and that to the others between $75,000 and $100,000.

Fire Chief Croker came near meeting death by falling through a floor weakened by the flames into a cellar under collision is regarded as imminent. Gen. Kuropatkin today reviewed several detachments of troops which have just arrived here and conferred the St. George cross upon eighteen officers who distinguished themselves at the battle of Liao Yang.

HAS TWO WARS.
Russians Comment on Hostility of Other Powers.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 30.—The Novoye Vremya, commenting upon the hostility shown by other powers toward Russia, says:

"Russia is now carrying on two wars—the sanguinary conflict in the far East and a bloodless, diplomatic one in the courts of Europe." The article concludes thus:

"All these talks of peace conferences and intervention are simply dangerous maneuvers—dangling, turning movements, so to speak. But when the nations of the world cry out against the inhumanity of this war they must remember that we did not start it. It is unnecessary for us to shake or soften the pictures of the horrors now being enacted in the far East. Let us only hope our diplomatic battle will be won unaided as surely as the other. Bismarck, when he battled, did not fight without ultimate compensation. What was possible for Germany to accomplish we ought to be able to do at the conclusion of the war in the Orient."

The Novoye Vremya in a significant article this morning, reviews the history of the military progress in the Orient, and says the formation of a second Manchurian army is Russia's pledge to the world that Japan shall be confined to her original frontier. The editorial calls upon the other powers to take cognizance of the "yellow peril" and agree that China must not be allowed to become a military power, but must not fall under the domination of Japan.

TERRIFIC EXPLOSION OF GAS.
Cleveland, Sept. 30.—A two-story brick building at the corner of Fleet street and Independence Road, used by the East Ohio Natural Gas company as a distributing station, was demolished today and two men probably fatally injured as a result of a terrific explosion of gas. The cause of the explosion

WAGER ON ELECTION Cost St. Louis Man His Right to Vote.

St. Louis, Sept. 30.—Because he wagered $500 that Joseph W. Folk will be Missouri's next governor, Former Lieutenant Governor John B. O'Meara has lost his chance to vote for his favorite candidate. There is a provision in the new election law barring from registration persons who have made bets on the outcome of the election. When O'Meara presented himself for registration he was asked the question prescribed for all applicants. He replied that he had made a wager. "I had no desire to win money on the election," Mr. O'Meara explains. "I happened to be with a party of men who were ridiculing Mr. Folk's chances some months ago, and I offered to bet them to silence them. There were five of the men, and I took $500 worth of bets in all." Mr. O'Meara says the winning of $500 will not compensate him for the loss of his vote.

OLD SOLDIER, Listed Dead Twenty Years, Causes a Sensation.

Springfield, Mass., Sept. 30.—Jefferson Rowe, of Stoughton, who has been on the rolls of the Forty-sixth Massachusetts regiment for twenty years as dead, created a sensation by appearing at the annual reunion of the regiment at Springfield.

At the close of the civil war he enlisted in the navy. Recently he read a notice of the annual reunion of the Forty-sixth to be held in this city. He had difficulty in convincing his former comrades that he was not an impostor.

RUSSIAN GUNBOAT IN ALASKAN WATERS.

Bellingham, Wash., Sept. 30.—Members of the crew of the Pacific Packing and Navigation company's tug Cherry, just arrived from Alaska, report sighting a Russian gunboat.

A heavy storm prevailed during the second day out from Nushaki, and in the evening the captain of the Cherry decided it was best to tie up for the night rather than run the risk of being beached in the uncertain waters. At Unimak pass anchor was dropped. The Russian gunboat was anchored in the same pass not half a mile from the Cherry and was plainly visible to the crew of the American vessel. The Russians there seemed to take no notice of the boat. In the morning the anchor of the Cherry was lifted and she continued on her way to this port, leaving the gunboat still in the pass.

A LETTER TO OUR READERS.

53 Cottage St., Melrose, Mass.
Dear Sir: Jan. 11th, 1904.
"Ever since I was in the army, I had more or less kidney trouble, and with in the past year it became so severe and complicated that I suffered every thing and was much alarmed—my strength and power was fast leaving me. I saw an advertisement of Swamp Root and wrote asking for advice. I began the use of the medicine and noted a decided improvement after taking Swamp Root only a short time. I continued its use and am thankful to say that I am entirely cured and strong. In order to be very sure about this, I had a doctor examine some of my water today and he pronounced it all right and in splendid condition. I know that your Swamp Root is purely vegetable and does not contain any harmful drugs. Thanking you for my complete recovery and recommending Swamp Root to all sufferers I am,
Very truly yours,
J. C. RICHARDSON.

You may have a sample bottle of this wonderful remedy, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp Root, sent absolutely free by mail, also a book telling all about Swamp Root. If you are already convinced that Swamp Root is what you need, you can purchase the regular fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles at the drug stores. Remember the name, Swamp Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

NO TROUBLE ANTICIPATED

Chinese Officials Say Present Unrest Is Largely Revolutionary.

Peking, Sept. 30.—Foreigners lately have been much preoccupied owing to the growing unrest in the southern part of China province and in Shantung and Hunan provinces. They were informed at the offices of the foreign board that the agitation is largely revolutionary and anti-dynastic, thus differing from the boxer movement of 1900, which was chiefly anti-foreign. Ministers of the powers have been approached the foreign board with the view to inducing officials to take effective measures. The board replied that strict orders had been given to Yuan Shi Kai, viceroy of China, and his subordinates to suppress the revolutionary movement, and that the Chinese government was anxious to suppress the revolutionary movement, and that the Chinese government was anxious to suppress the revolutionary movement.

The native papers of Peking and elsewhere are utilizing the Coolie question as a means of agitation. Pamphlets and hand bills are also distributed, complaining of the alleged cruelties which the Coolies in the Transvaal are subjected to. The Chinese government apparently has not attempted to counteract or check these mischievous statements. It is difficult to ascertain the precise object of the agitation, but the foreigners regard the situation as being distinctly disquieting. It is learned that the dispatch of Tseu Shao Ki, the viceroy of Yunnan, to Tibet is connected with the British Tibetan treaty recently signed at Lhasa, which in some respects is detrimental to China. His mission, however, is also connected with other matters.

WILL NOT INTERFERE

President Refuses to Be Drawn Into Wisconsin Trouble.

Washington, Sept. 30.—President Roosevelt reiterated today to Representative Cooper, of Wisconsin, his expressed determination not to participate in any way in the factional trouble now in progress in that state. At the conclusion of the interview, Mr. Cooper said: "The president said to me, 'I propose to take no part in the unfortunate contest which now is in progress within the Republican party of Wisconsin. That is my policy and my determination. It has not been departed from in the past and it will not be in the future.'"

SCHOOL GIRLS BALK

New York, Sept. 30.—Loyalty to the school and pride in its colors stop short of a willingness to express their sentiments in bloomers with the girls in the Curtis high school, St. George, S. L. Red is the school color, and the principal, Oliver Clark, issued an order that the girls must wear red bloomers in the gymnasium. Every girl stood against the order.

CAT'S ATTACK

On a Babe Makes the Mother Insane.

Butte, Mont., Sept. 30.—Love for her child crazed Mrs. Hannah Gibbons, a young mother, and she was pronounced insane by a commission in Judge McClellan's court yesterday and committed to the state asylum. Fright at the result of an attack upon her child by a cat made her insane. Mrs. Gibbons became a mother in June and lavished all her affections upon her first-born. A few weeks ago a cat jumped upon the face of the infant while it was asleep and the shock from the fright she received undermined her reason.

GETS FINE BOAT

Life Saving Crew Provided With Speedy Gasoline Launch.
Gives Splendid Service In Case of Bay Accidents.

The local life saving station, in charge of Captain McLennan, has been provided with a serviceable and speedy gasoline launch, of the standard type, which is now being used effectively by the life saving crew in picking up yachtsmen who come to grief in the bay. The launch is 22 feet over all, with an engine developing six horse power, the boat and engine coming from the Pearson Boat Construction company's plant on Park Point. It is guaranteed to make over eight miles per hour.

Although the boat was delivered only two weeks ago it has already demonstrated its utility on several occasions. The speedy aid which it affords to yachtsmen who get in trouble either through shipwreck or overturning in the bay, is very much appreciated by those who are engaged in the yachting sport during the season.

Yesterday the new launch gave a practical demonstration of its usefulness by making a swift run through a heavy sea down the bay to a point nearly opposite Oatka beach and picking up the crew of a sailboat that became unmanageable through loss of its center-board. A breeze that amounted almost to a gale was blowing from the southwest and the sailboat was drifting rapidly down toward Alton bay. Captain McLennan and his engineer were only a few minutes in going to the rescue and the plucky little launch towed the heavier sailboat with its crew clear back to the boat clubhouse riding the big waves like a duck and exerting a steady and strong pull against the wind.

In cases of accidents on the bay either in smooth or rough water the new launch will enable the members of the life saving crew to go to the rescue much faster than with the cutter and dory, and there are times when a few minutes quicker service means a great deal to persons in distress.

WARM GAME IS EXPECTED Between Duluth and Hibbing at Range Town on Sunday.

Hibbing, Minn., Sept. 30.—(Special to The Herald.)—Manager Brady of the Hibbing base ball team has made all sorts of inducements to the Duluth team to play here to give that team a chance to get into the final contest for the championship of amateur baseball teams of Northern Minnesota. The Fashion Hotel, yet after a time sent to Mr. Brady the line-up that the management of that team proposed to palm off on the Hibbing team as the Fashion team, and in that list were the names of four of the best players of the White Sox, the Duluth team of the Northern league, among them being Gehring, who pitched last two losing games the past season. Mr. Brady refused to consider this bunch as the Fashion, and refused to play them for the championship under that name but would play them for $100 or more under the name of White Sox, and the Fashion, as a team, management after considerable deliberation, and the Fashion, as a team, eliminated from the game, being afraid to meet the Hibbing team with their line-up. The Fashion team gives the Hibbing team an unquestioned right to the amateur championship of Northern Minnesota.

The game here Sunday will be one of the warmest of the season. The Duluth team will pick up the best at the head of the lake, and the home team may be reinforced some. The line-up is as follows:
Duluth—left field, Dwyer; center field, Bennett; right field, Gieseman; first base, Carroll; second base, Gulligan; third base, A. H. Kline; short stop, first base, Carroll; pitcher, F. Kline; catcher, Freeman; substitute, Symmons. Metcalf is the only player on the Hibbing team that has not played more than three games with the home team this season. Symmons pitched during the absence of Freeman with Superior, so he is considered being a member of the team. This is a game for money and it promises to be the warmest one on the range this season.

STUCK KNIFE INTO FRIEND

Matt Hikkala on Trial For Assault In Second Degree.

Matt Hikkala, an Austrian, charged with stabbing Oscar Ranta, a countryman, at Tower, Aug. 12, is on trial in Judge Dibell's room under indictment for assault in the second degree.

As is the usual thing about the range assault cases, intoxicating liquor appears at the bottom of all the trouble. The fracas is said to have started in the saloon of Charles Miksa, at Tower, where during a drinking bout Hikkala and Ranta became involved in a quarrel over some trivial matter. Ranta, it is claimed, left the saloon and was walking away when he was overtaken by Hikkala, who is alleged to have followed him a short distance and put a knife into him.

The witnesses connected with the case cannot talk English and an interpreter is employed. Hikkala is defended by W. B. Moer.

HEATWOLE'S PLAIN WORDS

He Explains Why Dunn Had to Throw Him Over.

Northfield, Minn., Sept. 30.—Joel P. Heatwole made the following statement yesterday:

"The explanation of recent sensations caused by the ruction in the state central committee which resulted in the enforced resignation of Secretary Verity because he was a friend of mine is so simple that it seems almost a waste of words to discuss the matter.

I have no word of fault to find with Mr. Dunn's attitude in view of the circumstances which surrounded him and the situation which confronted him. He had no choice. To be concise, Mr. Dunn was compelled either to renounce a disinterested friend, or go down to what seemed certain defeat. Large corporate and financial interests which are dependent upon and are usually essential to political success were lined up solidly for Senator Moses E. Clapp. As between Mr. Clapp and Mr. Dunn these interests decidedly favored the senator. The re-election of Mr. Clapp is deemed by them a necessity. Mr. Dunn's candidacy is secondary. Therefore the situation resolved itself into the position that Mr. Dunn could not obtain financial support and the support of the numerous other influences exercised by these interests unless he threw me overboard and endorsed Mr. Clapp for reelection. In such a juncture it can hardly be denied that Mr. Dunn made the very best possible choice he could for his own material benefit. In carrying out the program, which was most carefully planned by corporation agents, no attempt was made to deny the fact that my influence with Mr. Dunn might be considered inimical to the interests of the corporations, and therefore against Senator Clapp. The deal was put up in cold blood and carried out in the most high-handed manner.

I have known for months that I might expect something of this kind. The agents of the corporations and the managers of Senator Clapp have repeatedly threatened me with political annihilation. I persistently refused to enter into any deal which in my opinion would jeopardize the interests of the people. I have given Mr. Dunn not only the support of my newspaper, but my personal support and my friends have stood loyally by him. Large numbers of my friends supported him at my request and sometimes under protest and whatever regret I may feel at the developments of yesterday, it is chiefly because of the position in which my friends are placed through me. Understanding fully the most awkward predicament in which Mr. Dunn found himself, I shall continue to do whatever is in my power to assist the success of the Republican ticket this fall notwithstanding.

NEGRO WANTS DAMAGES Because a Chinaman Would Not Serve Him.

Chicago, Sept. 30.—Justice Underwood yesterday was called upon to decide the relative social standing of a Chinaman and a negro. The justice did not decide. He asked for a week's time for considation and is hoping that a compromise may be effected. John Grant, a negro, is the complainant in the case, and Jack King the defendant. It is chiefly because of the position in which my friends are placed through me. Understanding fully the most awkward predicament in which Mr. Dunn found himself, I shall continue to do whatever is in my power to assist the success of the Republican ticket this fall notwithstanding.

"What you want?" says I. "Well, some of dat chop suey," says I. "Well, looks at me. Den he says, 'The white folks, I is. I don't like you.' An, Judge, just as sure as I see settin' in dis chair, he goes right off an' done come back no mo'. Judge, I see just as good as dat 'ar yallar man, and I want damages.' That was all the evidence that was heard. The Chinaman professed to be unable to talk English or understand it, and as there was no interpreter present it was impossible to hear his side of the story, and the justice decided that he would study the law on the question.

OIL FOUND IN MISSOURI.

Fine Quality Is Struck In Nodaway County.

Burlington, Junction, Mo., Sept. 30.—A high grade of paraffine oil has been found here. After prospecting for six months the Nodaway Valley Oil, Gas and Mineral company has struck a fine quality of paraffine oil at a depth of 1500 feet. The only question is how great the flow will prove to be. Water has run into the well, nearly filling it, and the oil comes up through this, though as yet not in paying quantities. The oil can be taken from the water bailed out in great quantities. It is a heavy, light red oil, and has been tested by experts, who have pronounced it to be the highest grade of paraffine oil, the best oil that the earth produces.

At 1500 feet the drillers have struck solid rock. The water must be eased off the rock drilled through and the well shot before it can be known just what the well will produce. Work will be pushed night and day.

Burlington Junction is in Nodaway county, Mo., at the intersection of the Nodaway valley branch of the Burlington railroad, running from St. Joseph to Villisca, Iowa, and the main line of the Wabash from St. Louis to Council Bluffs. The well is known as the Mary Frances, named for Mrs. Mary Frances Caldwell, of Shenandoah, Iowa. Preparations are being made to open other wells throughout this region.

Interesting Telling and Selling of CLOTHING

In this age of progress there is little room or time for the commonplace. The active brain of an expectant and ambitious public demands matter of interest—therefore the selling of merchandise is promoted by the interesting telling of it. Our clothing talks are as different from the ordinary as our clothing is itself. Back of interesting clothing news is interesting clothing at interesting prices. This clothing business is different from any other in Duluth, and it is that dissimilarity that invests it with character, appeals to the discriminating, and at once elevates it to the position of distinction. Nine-tenths of the clothing advertising is as bad as the clothing it advertises. But we'll not essay. It is that you're interested in. We hold our $10, $12 and $15 Suits and Topcoats as criterion of the Oak Hall's values. We hold them up for comparison.

At $10.00 about 20 styles in suits. At $12.00 and $15.00 about 40 styles at each price. And in topcoats more than a dozen different kinds at each price. In what other store will you find half so many styles and kinds?—NONE—for the business of no other house would justify so extensive a stock.

Boys' and Children's Clothing Dept.

Complete line of the famous XTRA GOOD Clothes for boys and children. This famous make, in all the latest styles, in both suits and overcoats, that appeal to the parents in workmanship, fit and price—ranging from $1.38 for suits up to $10.00; overcoats, $1.48 up to $9.88—and the best values in the city. BOYS' SWEATERS—strictly all wool, pure worsted—$1.00 to $2.50.

RUGBY FOOTBALL FREE

With all sales of $5.00 or over, in the boys' and children's department.

EGGS FOR WINTER

Heavy Speculation in Cold Storage Eggs Among Local Dealers.

Higher Prices for Cheese and Butter—Business Active.

During the last two weeks large quantities of eggs have been placed in cold storage for the winter. The Duluth cold storage warehouses are now claimed to be filled to their capacity.

There are two seasons in the year when eggs are placed in cold storage. April and September. In these two months the egg receipts are the heaviest and the price generally the lowest.

Last winter some of the dealers made small fortunes out of egg speculation. Eggs which they placed in cold storage at 14 and 15 cents a dozen, cleared a profit in some instances of as high as $3 a case.

This year there are many who would emulate their example, and the owners of cold storage warehouses in the city are said to have disposed of all their available space. Eggs have been placed in cold storage this season at 15 and 16 cents per dozen, which is from a cent to three cents higher than last year. Fresh eggs are now selling on the market for 15 cents.

Large quantities of butter have also gone into cold storage during the last two weeks, and the price is also high. Creamery prints are selling for 22 cents and fancy dairies for 18 and 17. The price of packing stock has risen from 11 to 12 cents per pound.

The cheese market has stiffened during the week. The price of cheese took a tumble last spring after the breaking of an attempted corner in the Northwestern market and since then there has been little or no change in the price. The market took an upward turn during the week, however, and the prices have risen from half a cent to a cent a pound on the different varieties of cheese.

No material changes have taken place during the week in the prices of fruits and vegetables. Potatoes are still selling for the low price of 40 cents a bushel.

"Business has been very good during the past week," said the manager of one of the branch packing houses yesterday afternoon. "The colder weather always increases the demand for meats, and we have had a good trade both in the city and the ranges. I anticipate a good winter's business."

West Duluth

Only a few campers now remain along the banks of the St. Louis river above West Duluth and in the vicinity of Spirit Lake. They were more numerous than ever before during the summer months, but as the season advanced, bringing with it cold nights, tents were taken down and their occupants betook themselves back to the city.

The few campers now along the river are for the most part hunters. Ducks are reported to be quite plentiful, and on the banks of the stream grouse and chickens are to be found. The campers, however, almost without exception, are after ducks, and the reports of their guns may be frequently heard early in the morning and about the time the sun is setting, for it is then that the ducks are flying. In the vicinity near the wild rice beds the hunters may easily get to them and be on hand during the morning and evening flights. The multi-colored autumn leaves now make the banks of the river more beautiful than at any other season of the year, although this fact is not generally appreciated by the city people.

THE NATION MOURNS OVER DEATH OF ITS VENERABLE SENATOR.

noble life will ever remain to us as a precious legacy.

The governor directed that the state departments be closed on the day of the funeral, requested that the flags throughout the commonwealth be placed at half mast and that the people by such other appropriate methods as may suggest themselves, express their respect for Senator Hoar's memory.

Washington, Conn., Sept. 30.—United States Senator Orville Platt, who has been Hoar's most intimate associate in the senate, today offered this tribute:

"The news of Senator Hoar's death will be received throughout the whole country with a sense of personal sorrow and loss. It will be very keenly felt by his associates in the senate. Few men have impressed themselves more fully on the history of our country than he. For more than a third of a century he has shared conspicuously in the solution of many difficult questions, which have arisen and by his great learning, ability and patriotism largely influenced their settlement. His life was pure, noble, forcible and grand."

Washington, Sept. 30.—The president pro tempore of the senate has designated the following senators as a committee on the part of the senate to attend the funeral of Senator Hoar, who died this morning at his home at Worcester, Mass.: Lodge, Hale, Dewey, McComas, Spooner, Foraker, Herridge, Elkins, Dryden, Stewart, Cockrell, Bacon, Blackburn, German and Morgan.

The funeral will be held at the Church of the Unity, Elm street, Worcester, on Monday, at 2:30.

JUMPS FROM MOVING TRAIN

Alonzo J. Whiteman Escapes From Officers Through Window.

Buffalo, N. Y., Sept. 30.—Alonzo J. Whiteman last night covered from Detective Solomon and William H. Field by jumping from a mail train near Dunkirk. Whiteman and the officers were in a Pullman car. Whiteman was lying on a sofa. The train was pulling out of the Dunkirk yards and was running at about thirty miles an hour. Whiteman saw and jumped head first through the car window. Solomon and Field rushed to stop him, but were too late. They saw Whiteman on the ground as the train whizzed by. The two officers demanded that the conductor stop the train. He refused on the ground that the train was carrying United States mails on a fast schedule. The train was stopped at Silver Creek for a moment to allow the detective to get to the train and began a search for Whiteman.

Whiteman was being brought back to Buffalo from St. Louis on a charge of forgery and grand larceny, a grand jury now sitting having returned an indictment against him containing those charges. He is suspected of being implicated in the irregularities in which the Trust company of Buffalo was the victim.

WROTE NOVEL ON A WAGER

Won Bet That Name Alone Does Not Sell Books.

Lafayette, Ind., Sept. 30.—George Barr McCutcheon, the well-known Indiana writer, is the author of "Brewster's Millions."

The true identity of the author of this book was never known until Mr. McCutcheon made this announcement.

The book was written on a $100 wager. A little over a year ago McCutcheon was sitting in the office of the publishers and was talking to Edward Stone relative to the remarkable success of "Brewster's Millions."

"The name of the author is what sells the book," he said, "and I will write you a story to show you that I am right."

The six weeks Mr. McCutcheon had the novel, "Brewster's Millions," on the market and over one hundred thousand copies of the novel were sold in three months.

The book was written in the name of Richard Greaves and received the favorable comment of every literary critic in the country. In fact the book was such a hit that many of the magazines demanded a picture and autobiography of the author. To satisfy these people a picture was obtained of a Chicago clerk and was sent all over the country as Richard Greaves.

Mr. McCutcheon received all the mail addressed to Mr. Greaves and answered the correspondence.

This is the first time in the history of the literary world that anything of this nature has ever been attempted and proves Mr. McCutcheon's statement that a book may sell on the reputation of its author.

HEINZE MINES Likely to Be Sold to the Amalgamated.

Butte, Mont., Sept. 30.—A statement made in an interview with Judge William Clancy, one of the two so-called Heinze judges of Silver Bow county, and known as the mid-time friend and official adviser of the copper mining king, is accepted by people in general that the Amalgamated Copper company has, or shortly will, take over the Heinze interests in this community.

Rumors of a pending deal involving the transfer of the Heinze properties to the Amalgamated have been rife for some time. Judge Clancy's statement is the first from the Heinze interests that has been made. The Amalgamated are on the ground. Mr. Heinze has strenuously denied conducting any negotiations whatsoever with the Amalgamated Copper company. Judge Clancy said: "I believe the Amalgamated are purchasing the Heinze mines, or is preparing to sell its property. Even now, to my personal knowledge, three abstractors are at work examining the records and titles of the company's properties."

This company is the principal Butte corporation of Mr. Heinze, embracing all of the Heinze mines of any note.

WOMEN AS FIREMEN

Thirty Lakeside Ladies Strip Furniture From Burning House.

Leave Card Party to Rescue Property of a Neighbor.

Thirty Lakeside women, dressed in gala attire for a card party, threw down their cards yesterday afternoon, and turned themselves into a salvage corps to rescue the furniture from an adjoining residence, which had caught fire.

The party was given at the residence of Mrs. A. H. Smith, at 4506 London road, and about thirty guests from Lakeside and the East End were present. Six-handed encores were being played, when an alarm of fire came and the guests, rushing to the windows saw smoke and flames issuing from the residence of H. H. Knapp, two or three doors away.

Forgetting their fine clothes, and remembering only that the furniture and property of a neighbor were in danger, the guests rushed from the house and invaded Mr. Knapp's residence in a body. They stripped the two floors of all the furniture, pictures, rugs, curtains and decorations that could be moved, carrying them out into the garden, and depositing them carefully out of danger. In fact they stripped the house clear of all goods.

Meanwhile the firemen had arrived on the scene. The blaze had started in the attic of the residence, and two or three streams of water were soon playing on that part of the house. The flames were quickly gotten under control, but not before the ceilings and walls of the house had been drenched with water and the furniture had been ruined. Had the furniture been allowed to remain in the house much of it would have been ruined, and Mr. and Mrs. Knapp have the ladies to thank for saving them from a serious loss. As it was, the damage was confined to the house, and none of the furniture was touched by either the water or the flames.

Not a single article was broken in the hurried removal, and after the fire had been extinguished the furniture was again restored to the house, and the ladies returned to their card party, none the worse for their adventure. Some of the guests of the ladies looked the worse for wear after the adventure, but the vigorous application of a whisk broom removed all evidence of their fire-fighting.

The card game also showed a tendency to languish, the excitement of talking over the event, but it was completed and the guests returned home feeling that they had shown what they could do in cases of emergency.

UNREST IS INCREASING

Anti-Foreign Element Is Rapidly Gaining In China.

New York, Sept. 30.—Unrest is increasing among the natives in South

Chili, North Honan and West Shantung districts of China, according to a Herald dispatch from Peking. The new anti-foreign society, the Tsaiyuan is spreading rapidly even during the present harvesting of good crops.

The situation is much the same as in 1900, without the famine incentive. The South Chilian mission, or Canadian Presbyterian church, and the mission of the American board are in the infected region.

The placards of the new society being circulated are identical with those once used by the Boxers with the following addition. "If every member will distribute thirty copies we shall over the course of the year have 3,000, without the famine incentive. The South Chilian mission, or Canadian Presbyterian church, and the mission of the American board are in the infected region."

The foreign ministers have confidence in the ability of the viceroys to suppress the infection. That officials is the same who suppressed the Boxers at all druggists.

THE KAISER LEADS BALLET

Shows Dancers How to Interpret Sentiment of "Cophelia."

Berlin, Sept. 28.—Yet once more the Kaiser has proved that his genius is boundless. Seeing this, he said, in a matter-of-fact tone: "Yes, yes, you may look at me, but you know, my interpretation is perfectly correct." When the Kaiser visited Hamburg lately, the Hanseatic city gave a splendid dinner in his honor. At the last moment the five fathers learned from the lord chamberlain that his majesty could not tolerate the sight of a waiter who wears a mustache or beard. Also, only nineteen of the fifty waiters engaged were smooth shaven; the thirty-one heroes who refused to sacrifice their facial ornaments even to please the emperor. After a most exhaustive search a sufficient number of clean-faced waiters was secured. The proud waiters who refused to shave are now men of mark among the socialists of Hamburg.

DOWIE'S AIRSHIP

Said to Be Building One in Secret.

Waukegan, Ill., Sept. 29.—One of the latest schemes of the new apostle, John Alexander Dowie, is said to be to construct an airship. Just what he is to do with it is not known. The report that one is now in course of construction at Zion City has brought forth a denial that work is yet progressing, but it is admitted that such a project is being planned by the overseer. At present there is no ing inflated at Zion a huge balloon which is to be used in taking a bird's-eye photograph of the city. It is also believed that in a few days the announcement will be made of the location in a southern state of another and the second Zion City under Dowie's guidance. Deacon Judd has just returned from the South, where he spent several weeks buying land for the new city.

CROKER IS DRIVEN

From His New Home In Ireland By a Ghost.

Planned to Spend $150,000 on Improvements and Additions.

Dublin, Sept. 30.—Richard Croker, former boss of New York's Tammany Hall, has taken a sudden dislike to his newly purchased home, French house, Glencaine, on the curragh of Kildare, and the report is current in the neighborhood that it is a ghost, or at any rate a superstition, that has driven him from it. About the end of last spring the wife of his stud groom committed suicide at French house. Since that time Croker has manifested a morbid aversion to the place, never having spent a single night under its roof. Despite his iron character, it is said that Mr. Croker is firmly convinced that on account of this tragedy he would never have any luck as long as he remained in French house. It is believed that the many pretty saloons of which the Irish capital can boast.

Since it came into his possession he has paid only flying visits to French house, and it has been the subject of much speculation among his highly-prized sires. American, about twenty broad mares and such young blood stock as exist out of that stage of existence when they are fit to be mated in the stud. Mr. Croker is a very stylish man in white and red—special value..... $3.95

Glencaine was, until the time of his death, owned by Judge Murphy of the Irish supreme court, and the only defect in it was that it was not a sufficient estate to support the family. It is said that Mr. Croker had a large estate of 100 acres of an adjoining property, the whole costing him about $50,000. Experts say it is an ideal spot for the propagation of blooded stock, the soil being rich and composed chiefly of limestone. Mr. Croker has not been slow to recognize the superiority of Irish race horses, and he has been constantly on the leading English racing courses, having been twice in the Easter mile.

TRUNK FULL OF BANK BILLS

Russian Says Landlord Stole Money and Fired House.

Hammond, Ind., Sept. 30.—In order to make the owner of a trunk full of Russian bank notes valued at 10,000 rubles believe that it was burned, instead of stolen, John Holstak and wife, of Miller station, set fire to their home and burned it to the ground. The Chicago detectives, who were scouring the woods in search of hold-up men, declared, Mr. and Mrs. Holstak move to Hammond, Ind., where they found employment in the powder mills.

Monday, Josef Lisowski returned to Miller's station from his vacation. He had been a boarder at the Holstak home and on account of his Russian birth they had made him one of the family. In his room was a leather trunk. Before he left on his vacation he confided to the wife the trunk was full of Russian bank notes and jewelry that had been bequeathed to him in the line of succession from an old family. EDUCATED MARE

In Germany That Is Learning to Talk.

Berlin, Sept. 30.—The educated stallion Hans has been followed by an educated mare, Rosa.

Rosa is a beautiful quadruped, with sleek black skin and intelligent eyes, and performs nightly on the stage of the variety theater here. Her performance consists so far varied as those of Hans; for example, she makes no pretense of understanding the German language, but she can spell single monosyllables, and can distinguish 10 different colors, can add up to 100, can distinguish colors by the photograph and can tell the time by looking at a watch.

Rosa employs her hoof, like Hans, in spelling out her replies, but the owner has pledged himself within three months to put her to shame by the variety and fullness of her knowledge.

Rosa is possessed of a very flexible neck, and her owner is certain that she can be taught to modulate in such a way that she will be able to express all her wants. He assures his friends that there are unrefuted possibilities here, and that, with care and caution, Rosa will develop a language by means of which she will be able to express all her wants and answer all questions.

An amusing controversy has arisen over Hans and Rosa. The sterner sex say that the ability which Hans displays is a further proof of the superiority of the male over the female. The women maintain that Rosa will soon beat Hans hollow.

POULTRY CROP LARGER.

Only Shrinkage Seems to Be In Geese.

Chicago, Sept. 30.—P. H. Sprague, head of local poultry commission, gives the summary of poultry crops throughout Illinois, Iowa, Indiana, Nebraska, Minnesota and the Dakotas:

The crop of about 15 per cent heavier than last year. Our reports in most instances claim large increases in the flocks of turkeys, but some points which raised a good many turkeys last year, report a crop that is unusually light. The season, we look for more turkeys to come to the market during the winter. The season is unusually late, and where in other seasons a good many turkeys have been shipped up to this time, so far this year but few have been received. Then, too, the farmers are blessed with good crops, and in no need for immediate money, can afford to allow their turkeys to run until fall.

"I was flat on my back in Cincinnati. It was after ten long, hard months on the road as adverse agent for theater companies. I had been up early and late, exposed to all kinds of weather; often soaking wet and chilled to the bone. My system could stand it no longer. I caught a heavy cold and it settled on my lungs. Doctors doled me as usual, but I was steadily going to a consumptive's grave."

An old actor friend recommended Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey. I tried it. Felt better the first week. In two weeks the doctor said he needn't call again, to keep on taking 'Duffy's' and I'd soon be cured. And I am cured; strong, lanky, better in my life, and it took only four bottles. Have come through another season in perfect shape." C. PUTMAN, care Billboard Advertising Company, Cincinnati, Ohio, July 30, 1904.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey

Consumption seldom attacks until the system is run down and weakened by sickness, overwork, worry, exposure or inherited tendencies. The secret of the marvelous success of Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey in curing and preventing lung troubles is that it not only checks the ravages of the disease itself, but replaces the weakened, destroyed tissues; helps the stomach to more perfectly digest and assimilate food in order that more, richer and purer blood will come from it, and regulates and governs the heart's action, so that the circulatory system is strong and powerful, carrying health and vigor to every organ and part of the human body. The idea that consumptive's only chance for life is to send him to Colorado or California to fret himself to death is a delusion. Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey is the only successful place to treat lung troubles was right at home, where the disease originated, and that Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey is the most effective means of fighting this awful scourge to the human race.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey is absolutely pure and free from fusel oil—the only whiskey recognized by the government as a medicine. It has been prescribed by doctors of all schools and sold by reliable druggists and grocers everywhere for over fifty years.

CAUTION—Be sure you get the genuine Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey, manufactured by Duffy Whiskey Co., Rochester, N. Y., and put up in sealed bottles, with the "Old Chemist" trademark on the label. Beware of many substitutes and imitations offered by unscrupulous dealers, because of the extra profit. They not only will not cure, but are positively dangerous.

about 20 per cent larger than that last year. Weather conditions were generally favorable. Farmers being in good condition financially, and receiving good prices for their eggs, have perhaps not marketed their stock as early, nor as freely as usual, and indications are that there is a large quantity to come forward. Ducks—Indications are for an increase of about 10 per cent over last year. Late prices encouraging.

Geese—About the same as last year, possibly 10 per cent less. Of late the raising of geese has fallen off considerably, with perhaps the largest shrinkage in Illinois, where the enactment of a law prohibiting geese from running at large has made a very marked difference in the number raised.

BURIED IN SNOW

Seven Days But Their Lives Were Saved.

Geneva, Sept. 30.—M. Albert Senoukies, the famous German astronomer and assistant to Dr. Jansen, was recently injured by a fall from a ladder in the observatory on Mount Blanc, which he had gone to visit, accompanied by a guide. A few days later he was found by a party of all the food they carried, but it saved their lives.

The weather, which was fine on their arrival at the observatory, suddenly changed to a blizzard, and the party was forced to first night, completely burying the building, so that no door or window could be reached in the morning. The storm lasted five days. On the sixth day the prisoners succeeded in breaking down the door and made their escape.

They were, however, caught in another storm, and after 24 hours of terrible suffering, were saved by guides who had gone to their rescue. M. Senoukies is now at a hotel recuperating.

THOUSANDS INTRUSTED

To Seidman Never Received By Relatives, Say Hungarians.

Akron, Ohio, Sept. 30.—After listing his pockets, it is asserted, that Seidman, late of the International Exchange bank in this city, is alleged to have left Akron, obtaining as a parting remembrance about $300 from Michael Doza, to whom he sold the business.

Seidman came from New York last December and established the International Exchange bank and ship agency. He solicited deposits from foreigners desiring to return to their native country and gave them letters of credit. Many Hungarians in this city and elsewhere left money with him to be sent to their relatives in their native country.

Many of these Hungarians claim to have given Seidman sums ranging from $20 to $50 to be sent to Hungary, and although three months have passed since the money was supposed to have been sent by Seidman, not a cent of it has reached its destination as far as can be learned. It is thought by the police that Seidman

SEVEN INDICTED

On Charges of Aldermanic Graft at Buffalo.

Buffalo, N. Y., Sept. 30.—Seven aldermen and former aldermen of this city have been indicted by the grand jury for accepting or demanding bribes and bench warrants for the arrest of the seven are in the hands of the police. The seven men are Former Aldermen Louis G. Roedel, Edward C. Belser, Henry G. Schneider and John G. Busch, and Aldermen Orrin Pierce, J. Thomas Harp and Henry Moest.

The grand jury reported twenty-six secret indictments and they were returned to the supreme court. The seven in the indictments were among them. There is no fear that they will escape or attempt to escape. The police are watching them.

It is known that the accusations pleaded cover the alleged solicitation of a $4000 bribe by two aldermen on contracts, the receiving of $350 by two aldermen to divide among a committee of seven on another, and the solicitation of a bribe of $1500 for the purchase of a school site.

PLANNING SEWERS NOTORIOUS THIEF

City Engineer's Department to Lay Out Four New Systems. Was Picked Up By Detective Terry on Superior Street.

Work Will Keep Surveying Crew Busy Throughout the Winter. Sent to Rock Pile Under the New Vagrancy Ordinance.

Plans for no less than four new sewer systems are now being prepared by City Engineer McGilvray and his assistants.

The districts for which the systems are being planned are as follows: Park Point, south of the canal; Duluth Heights; the district between Eighteenth avenue east and the westerly limit of Lakeside; the small residence district east of Lester river. While it is not the intention to construct any sewers in these districts this year, the systems must be planned in order that when work is commenced it will be done in accordance with the general plan. An immense amount of surveying work will be involved and it will keep the field crew busy throughout the winter months.

Just as soon as the work for the streets is finished, said Mr. McGilvray, this morning, "the field crew will start work surveying and taking levels for the sewer systems. A couple of extra ax men will have to be added to the crew, and there will be no work to keep them busy until spring. The levels of all the streets and alleys will have to be taken every fifty feet. "Septic tanks will have to be provided for the system east of Lester river and the one on Duluth Heights. The former will drain into the Lester river and the latter into Miller's creek. Whether or not we will have to allow for a septic tank in the Park Point system, I do not know. We will have to get the levels before we know.

"We expect to have the plans for all these systems completed by next spring in time for any work the property owners may petition for. The Park Point system involves many engineering difficulties, owing to the fact that the sewers would be practically on a level with the water. A system of forced expulsion by compressed air may have to be employed, but the department will be unable to decide upon any plan until the levels have been taken by the surveying party.

HENRY MILLER NOT COMING

Charles Frohman Cancels Date of the Well Known Star.

C. A. Marshall, manager of the Lyceum theater, received bad news this morning from New York, the booking agency of Charles Frohman writing that the date for Duluth of the play "Entanglements" (Lida, Spong in "Joseph") would have to be canceled owing to Mr. Frohman's decision to have the company return to New York from Powers' theater in Chicago. It had been expected to have the company play one night here and then leave for Chicago, where they would play at Wisconsin points, three nights in Milwaukee and a week in the Lyceum.

Mr. Marshall stated today that the play had been such a great success that Mr. Frohman had decided to put it into one of his New York theaters to fill open time.

"But we hope to have him later," said Mr. Marshall. "I interpret this to mean that Mr. Frohman's company will be done here the first tour it makes into this part of the country, which may be later this season."

"We have other Frohman stars booked, however, such as Willie Foster, Clara Bloodgood, W. H. Crane, John Drew and Southern and Marjorie in "Shakespeare's Repertoire."

The letter received by Mr. Marshall this morning reads as follows: "Bookings Department, Frohman's Empire, Theater, C. A. Marshall, Lyceum Theater, Duluth, Minn.: My Dear Mr. Marshall—I am very sorry, but I am sorry to say that Mr. Frohman has decided to have the company play one night here and then leave for Chicago, where they will play at Wisconsin points, three nights in Milwaukee and a week in the Lyceum."

Detroit Woman Voluntarily Abandoned Title of Countess.

Cleveland, Ohio, Sept. 30.—A Detroit woman who married "Count Otto von Mueller" has voluntarily given up the title of countess and its perquisites. She said today that she no longer considered herself his wife.

"I am going to New York to accept an engagement on the stage," she said. Von Mueller, better known as Kohler, is charged with having two wives. One is a Cleveland woman. Both she and the Detroit wife were in police court when Kohler was arraigned before Judge Whelan on charges of grand larceny, obtaining money under false pretenses and abandoning a minor child. He was bound over.

COMMITTED SUICIDE.

Homesick School Girl Jumped In the Lake.

Chicago, Sept. 30.—The body of Miss Frances Parkhurst, aged 15, who disappeared from Ferry Hall, the girls' school connected with Lake Forest college, was found today in Lake Michigan. Apparent suicide. Miss Parkhurst was a new student, her home being at Danvers, Ill. She disappeared Thursday morning in a party of 100 boys and men searched the woods and ravines all night. Homesickness is supposed to have been the cause of the deed.

had to row nearly 200 yards, and before half the space was covered, the two men had become very weak. They disappeared for some time, and those on the Castleton thought they were drowned. Two of the women passengers, who had been screaming frantically, fainted.

The red hair of the young officer slowly came to the surface just as the lifeboat arrived and Peterson started to pull him over the side. In his arms the young fellow had the unconscious form of the big fireman. Both men were taken to the Castleton, which hurried to St. George. The young fellow soon rounded into shape, but the fireman was in a bad way, and was sent to the hospital.

The young chap was fourth officer, Alexander Campbell, 19 years old. The fireman was John Cavanaugh. The passengers cheered young Campbell, who said: "I would jump overboard for any person. I could never have faced my mother again if I had allowed that fellow to drown."

OIL TO BE PUMPED

Half Way Across the Continent By Christmas.

New York, Sept. 30.—Before Christmas the Standard Oil company will be pumping oil from Indian Territory to Bayona, N. J., a distance of over 1500 miles. This will be the longest pipe line in the world, and has been constructed at the expense of millions of dollars. D. S. Bushnell, assistant superintendent of the National Transit company, a subsidiary of the Standard Oil company, was not prepared to say just how many millions.

The line will run from Red Fork, in the Creek nation, across the Osage Indian reservation into Bartlesville, in the Cherokee nation, up to Chanute, Kansas, and thence by way of Kansas City and Whiting, Ind., to the Atlantic coast.

The only link in this chain which has not been finished is between Kansas City and Whiting. The Indian Territory is in use and pumps are filling it with oil. It will require 20,000 barrels to fill the line before the supply will reach the refinery of the Standard Oil company in Kansas City. Oil from Chanute heretofore has been pumped south to the refinery belonging to the Prairie

Oil company, which is a subsidiary to the Standard Oil company at Neodesha, Kans., and oil from the Osage territory has been pumped north from the same place.

The first effect of the opening of the new line has been an advance in the price paid for oil in the Kansas and Indian Territory fields. The price was reduced early in the year because the storage tanks at Chanute, Kan., were full and the Standard Oil company did not wish to stimulate the production. The tank capacity at Chanute has been increased from 205,000 to 750,000 barrels and plans have been perfected to further increase it to 1,000,000 barrels.

WAITED TOO LONG

To Claim Boy Abandoned When an Infant.

Benton Harbor, Mich., Sept. 30.—Six years ago William Sherwin and his wife suddenly left the home of Charles Kendall in this city. Behind them they left a check, which Kendall declares proved worthless, in payment for their board, and a six-months-old baby. Since then love for her child and solicitude for her husband, whose arrest she feared, waged a battle in Mrs. Sherwin's heart. Mother love conquered at last and Mrs. Sherwin returned to Benton Harbor to claim her child. With her came her husband. He was promptly arrested for forgery of the check which he had presented to Charles Kendall.

The mother found her child now growing into boyhood at the home of Mrs. C. D. Green, a neighbor of the Kendalls. There was no recognition in the child's eye when the mother clasped him in her arms. Screaming "mamma" he ran to the shelter of Mrs. Green's arms.

"I would have come and claimed my child before," she said, but I feared that the police would get trace of my husband and arrest him for forging that check. At last my love overcame my fear, and I determined to get my child. Now, as I feared, my husband has been arrested. I have found my child, but he looks upon me as a stranger, and does not know me and fears me. But I am determined to have my child and teach him to love me."

SECRETARY HAY

To Remain in the Cabinet If Roosevelt Is Elected.

Chicago, Sept. 30.—That Secretary of State John Hay is to remain at the head of the state department in case President Roosevelt is elected in November has been settled according to President Benjamin Ide Wheeler, of the university of California, who was in Chicago today on his way back to California from the East.

In an interview with a reporter of the Associated Press, President Wheeler, at the Auditorium Annex, said: "The best news I had while in the East I had from President Roosevelt to the effect that John Hay has now definitely consented to remain at the head of the state department in case of President Roosevelt's election. This will be heard with satisfaction by all American citizens, who appreciate how important are the international questions likely to arise within the next two or three years. There has been apprehension at various times lest Mr. Hay yielding to his natural liking for the life of scholarly leisure, might withdraw from office. I was, therefore, very much gratified to learn the matter was settled."

HANGED BY HIS HEELS.

Philadelphia Man In Perilous Position For Hours.

Media, Pa., Sept. 30.—Richard Powers, who gave his residence as Philadelphia, last night attempted to scale a high picket fence at the mill of the Blue Carpet company to see a friend, the watchman. He slipped and his feet became wedged in the fence. He hung in this position from 8 o'clock for seven hours, when the watchman heard his groans. Powers was exhausted and no doubt would have succumbed in a short time.

FIGHTS RESCUE BUT IS SAVED

Brave Boy Officer Jumps Into Bay After Crazy Stoker.

New York, Sept. 30.—Just as the ferryboat Castleton, bound for her ship at St. George, Staten Island, passed the Robbins Reef light, the big crowd of passengers on board saw two men scuffling on the deck of the British tramp shipingham Grange, which was at anchor near the lighthouse.

One of the men was a fireman and the other was an officer of the ship, a young, boyish fellow with red hair. The fireman broke away from the grasp of the officer, and running to the side leaped overboard. Without a second's hesitation the boyish officer made a flying dive over the side of the ship and bobbed up in the water close to the fireman, whom he grabbed by the hair and started to swim with him toward the ship.

The fireman, a great big, husky fellow, aimed a vicious blow at the young officer, who struck back with his free hand, but maintained his hold on the other's hair. Both men would disappear beneath the surface for a few seconds and then appear again. The young officer always holding the other, who could be heard yelling that he wanted to end his life.

Capt. Smith, of the Castleton, had reversed his engines the minute he saw the two men go overboard and had a lifeboat lowered. The boat was put overboard quickly and hurried toward the struggling men. Those on the British tramp also tried to lower a lifeboat, but it became jammed in the davits. VENERABLE SENATOR SUCCUMBS AT LAST

George Frisbie Hoar, Senior Senator of Massachusetts, Is Dead.

Was One of the Nation's Greatest and Noblest Men.

Worcester, Mass., Sept. 30.—George Frisbie Hoar, senior United States senator from Massachusetts, died at his home at 1:35 o'clock this morning. Death followed a period of unconsciousness that had continued since early Tuesday, and came so peacefully that only the attending physicians were aware of the exact moment of dissolution.

The attending physicians despaired of the senator's life six weeks ago, but such was the vitality exhibited by the patient that even they were surprised, and the public was at times led to hope for an ultimate recovery.

On Sunday last, however, all hope was abandoned after a last unsuccessful attempt to administer medicine and nourishment. Brief lucid intervals were followed by longer durations of unconsciousness, until Tuesday morning, when the venerable statesman sank into a state of coma, from which all efforts to rouse him proved futile. During the last hours there was not a movement of the body.

There were present at the bedside when death came the senator's son, Gen. Rockwood Hoar, his daughter, Mary Hoar, and Dr. Warren R. Gilman, who for weeks has been in almost constant attendance on the senator. Intelligence of Senator Hoar's demise was first communicated by telephone from the house to the press by Dr. Gilman. Immediately afterwards a prearranged signal was transmitted on the fire alarm system and the long-dreaded news was conveyed to the people of Worcester by the tolling of church bells.

Arrangements were made to inform the public in this manner when the physicians attending him decided that the venerable legislator was on his death-bed.

Senator Hoar had been in ill health since last winter, and even when attending the sessions of the senate he was obliged to exercise extreme care lest his exertions should overcome him. At that time he was troubled with lumbago, and the death of his wife in Washington proved such a blow that he never recovered entirely from its effects.

He had suffered from malaria at times while in Washington, and he occasionally remarked to his friends that this trouble was his greatest enemy at the capitol. His physicians advised him last winter to keep as quiet as possible, to refrain from making long speeches, and not to attend public functions.

Towards the close of the last session of congress he was frequently absent from the sessions of the senate, remaining at his hotel.

He came to his home soon after the adjournment, apparently recovered from the attack of lumbago. He was weak, however, and his physician, Dr. Warren R. Gilman, advised him to refrain during the summer from any mental or physical exertion, in the hope that he might again regain his strength.

He disregarded this injunction on at least three occasions, his love for old associations and his old friends overcoming considerations for himself. Late in May he attended the bi-centennial celebration in the town of Sutton, Worcester county, and made a speech of more than half an hour's duration in the open air. He was especially interested in this celebration, as one feature of it was the dedication of a memorial tablet to Gen. Rufus Putnam on the site of Putnam's birthplace. Mr. Hoar made an historical address, eulogizing Gen. Putnam as one of the country's greatest men. He spoke clearly and logically, but he seemed feeble, and after speaking a minute or two, asked permission to cover his head, as a cool breeze was blowing in his face. He left the speaker's stand as soon as his speech was finished, and was driven directly to his home. It was remarked at the time by those who heard him that it might be his last appearance in public.

A few weeks later Senator Hoar spoke at a special session of court, when eulogies were delivered on the life of Col. E. B. Stoddard, a life-long friend of the senator's, and he also made an informal afternoon address at the English high school on the occasion of the presentation to the city of some copies of Stuart's portrait of Washington by the Daughters of the American Revolution.

This was Senator Hoar's last appearance in public. During the latter part of July and up to Aug. 17 he remained in his home and much of the time stayed in bed. He received visitors daily and dictated many letters to his secretary.

Previous to Aug. 17 reports of his illness were treated lightly by his family and friends. On one occasion when a report was circulated that his condition was serious, he dictated a humorous account of his illness and requested that it be sent to the Associated Press. He attributed his illness to "Washington malaria," and to the effects of the attack of lumbago. He grew weaker gradually and on the morning of Aug. 17 had a sinking turn caused by the weak action of his heart. His condition seriously alarmed his physician and his family.

On Sept. 25 it was announced by his son that he was falling rapidly and he was unable to take nourishment, but his constitution enabled him to resist death for such a length of time that even his physician was surprised.

DISTINGUISHED CAREER.

Long a Prominent Figure in Public Life.

George Frisbie Hoar, United States senator from Massachusetts, since March 5, 1877, when he succeeded Geo. S. Boutwell, was born in Concord, Mass., Aug. 29, 1826, and graduated from Harvard in 1846. He began law practice in Worcester, Mass., in 1850; became chief solicitor of Worcester in 1860—his first public office—and in 1862 entered the Massachusetts legislature as a member of the lower branch, graduating in 1867 to the state senate. He was thereafter elected member of the forty-first, -forty-second, -forty-third and -forty-fourth congresses and declined re-election to the forty-fifth congress. In 1877 he was elected to the United States senate to succeed Boutwell, and was re-elected in 1883, 1889, 1895 and 1901. In 1876 he participated in the famous Belknap impeachment trial, and in the same year was a member of the electoral commission. At various times he held official positions in connection with Harvard college, Clark university, Smithsonian institution and number of historical and educational societies. Such is his career's résumé.

LOOKED LIKE FRANKLIN. In 1898 he was mentioned as a presidential possibility, and it was said of him that "his striking resemblance to Ben Franklin would make his campaign lithographs wonderfully effective all over the country." His biography would read almost as well as those of the Endicotts and Adamses. In 1862 Hoar published "An Autobiography of Seventy Years," discussing his own career and the careers of Grant, Blaine and many other noted men with whom he had associated in his long public life.

"The lesson which I have learned in life," he wrote, "which is impressed on me daily and more deeply as I grow old, is the lesson of good will and good love. I believe that today is better than yesterday, and that tomorrow will be better than today."

ALWAYS AN OPTIMIST. These words are a keynote to his beneficial life. He always lived with his face turned toward the morning. "I account it my supreme good fortune," he continued, "that my public life has been spent in the service of Massachusetts. No man can know better than I do how unworthy I have been of a place in the great line of public men who have adorned her history for nearly 300 years. What a succession it has been! What royal houses, what empire or monarchy, can show a catalogue like that of the men whom in every generation she has called to her high places—Bradford and Winthrop and Sir Henry Vane, Leverett and Sam Adams, and John Adams and his illustrious son, and Cabot and Dexter, Webster and Everett, and Sumner and Andrew."

Hoar devoted one chapter to his maternal grandfather, Roger Sherman of Connecticut, and his family. "My mother was the most perfect democrat in the best sense of the word that I ever knew," he wrote. "It was a democracy which was the logical result of the doctrines of the Old Testament and the New. It recognized the dignity of the individual soul. It was as true in the company of a queen as it would have been in the company of a peasant. It did not see that we gained anything of solid instruction by having them read to us, that we could not have got as well by reading them."

One of the special traditions of Harvard is that of the Greek tutor, Evangelus Apostolides Sophocles, who, as Hoar related, a native of Thessaly, born near Mount Pelion, and of the house of the Greek scholar, was a man of wonderful learning. I dare say the Greek scholar of his generation, whether in Europe or in America."

One entire chapter of the work is devoted to Dr. Edward Everett Hale, whose name, Hoar said, should appear on almost every page if he were to write a truthful account of his life. Hoar became a member of Dr. Hale's church in 1848, at the age of 22, and "wherever he has been, or wherever I have been," writes Hoar, "I have been his parishioner ever since."

He has learned of him the great virtue of hope; to judge of mankind by their merits on Monday; to try to understand that the great current events of history, especially a republic, move especially in our republic, are determined by great and noble motives, and not by mean and base motives."

FRANK TO FRIEND. Hoar was always a Republican. He was opposed to the acquisition of the Philippines and to the "imperialistic" policy of dealing with them, but not sufficiently so to surrender the party ties of a lifetime.

In his last great speech in the senate, that on trusts, delivered in defense of a bill prepared by himself for the purpose of checking these combinations, he gave this key to his political sentiments:

"Greatest wealth should be controlled as the servant of man and of government, and should not be given the reins of control."

In his autobiography, Hoar denounced Ben Butler, his old political foe, thus:

"I repeat what I said of Gen. Butler in his lifetime, when he was at the height of his power with a full knowledge of his vindictive character—that the success of his attempt to use to The Wayside to assist in putting things to order for the Hawthornes on their return from their wedding journey. "The furniture was cheap," he wrote. "But Mrs. Hawthorne had decorated it with drawings and paintings, and on the head board of her bed she painted Guido's 'Aurora,' with its exquisite light figures and horses and youths and maidens flying through the air."

Hoar entered Harvard university in 1846 as a youth of 16 and in the passing years he had for professors, or for college mates, a large number of the most eminent men of the nineteenth century. "We had some delightful lectures from Longfellow on the literature of the middle ages," he wrote. "He read some of his original poems and some beautiful translations. All the substance of these lectures, I think, is to be found in his book entitled 'The Poets and Poetry of the Middle Ages.' I do not see that we gained anything of solid instruction by having them read to us, that we could not have got as well by reading them."

and consolidate the political forces of Massachusetts would have been the corruption of her youth, the destruction of everything valuable in her character, and the establishment at the mouth of the Charles river of another New York with its frauds, Tweed rings and scandals."

Of Blaine, Hoar wrote rings and scandals. "James G. Blaine was a man of many faults and many infirmities. But his life is a part of the history of his country. It will be better for his reputation that the chapter of that history which relates to him shall be written by a historian with a full and clear sense of these faults and infirmities, concealing nothing and extenuating nothing. But also let him set straight down in malice. Mr. Blaine was a brilliant and able man, lovable, patriotic, far-seeing, kind. He acted in a great way, and with great responsibility. He was wise and prudent when wisdom and prudence were demanded. If he had attained to the supreme object of his ambition and reached the goal of the presidency, if his life had been spared to complete it, it would have been a most honorable period, in my opinion, in the history of the country. No man has lived in this country since Daniel Webster died, save McKinley alone, who had so large a number of devoted friends and admirers in all parts of the country."

In his public life Hoar dealt as frankly with friend and foe as he wrote of them in his book.

BEAT FRENCH SAILORS.

New York, Sept. 30.—Four sailors and the ship steward of the French cruiser "Dordogne," now lying at anchor in the North river, were assaulted yesterday on Thirty-fourth street by a gang of seven or eight teamsters and truckmen. Joseph W. Dufour, a Minneapolis bricklayer, died Thursday of injuries as the result of an attack by highwaymen who seized him Monday night and then threw him over a cliff a distance of about fifty feet down to the Mississippi river, where he was found the next morning. The assault occurred near the Washington street bridge.

George Mennie, of Chicago, was given the decision over Gus Gardner, of Chicago, at the end of a 15-round bout at St. Louis Thursday night. Tom Curvey, of Philadelphia, lost to Jack Bryan, of Indianapolis, on a foul in the fifth round of what was called a 6-round bout. Both contests were slow.

Invitations have been issued for a card reception to be given Tuesday at the club house of the Northland Golf club, for the benefit of the Children's home. The affair is under the direction of an auxiliary of the regular board of directors of the home. This auxiliary is composed of the younger matrons of the city, who each year contribute a substantial sum to the work of the home.

Yesterday afternoon Mrs. J. L. Mullin was hostess at a delightful card reception at her home, 128 East First street. The rooms were prettily decorated with autumn leaves, and the cards followed at the pretty tea. The affair was played at seven tables and the favors were won by Mrs. C. H. Merrill, Mrs. J. B. Richards and Mrs. George Winchester.

Plots of Whitecappers Arc Revealed By Clever Work.

Meridian, Miss., Sept. 30.—Governor Vardaman, Circuit Judges Robert F. Cochran of Meridian and D. M. Miller of Jackson are leading the fight to suppress the wave of murder and whitecap outrages, and to clear the state of blind tigers.

The sheriff of Claiborne county reports that 23 murders have occurred in his county in four years and only one hanging has resulted.

The publication of the murder statistics has awakened the entire state. The announcement is made that Gov. Vardaman will find it necessary to declare martial law in Lincoln county at the ensuing term of circuit court when the whitecappers now in jail at Brookhaven are to be tried. Open threats have been made by the whitecap bands to prevent the trial of their imprisoned members, and the large membership of the band causes grave apprehension.

The three whitecappers, Will and Oscar Franklin and Will Porter, were committed to jail without bail on preliminary examination. So intense was the excitement that, on the representations of the law and order league and Justice Dougherty, the trial judge, Gov. Vardaman ordered Col. D. D. Exum to call out Company H, and the soldiers were held in reserve in the courtyard.

The feature was the exposure of a plot of the whitecappers to assassinate Attorney Thomas N. Brady, chairman of the law and order league, and special prosecuting attorney for the state. One of the whitecappers, Henry Liffon, a turk who stated he was a member of the murder of Henry List, a negro farmer near Brookhaven, by the band. The negro's offense was the purchase of a farm, which enraged the whitecappers.

Another member of the band, J. E. Willis, swore that he was induced by his attorney, Judge W. P. Cassidy, of Sumner, to join the organization in order to prevent the whitecappers from driving negroes from Judge Cassidy's plantation in Franklin county. Willis since served Gov. Vardaman as a detective to unearth the secrets of the whitecappers and reveal them to the grand jury of Clarke county has stirred the state. "I have received information from nearly every county in the tenth circuit," declared the judge, "that blind tigers are simply holding high carnival. There seems to be a perfect epidemic of them. If the blind tigers have come to run the country, I give notice that a battle against them has commenced, and they will be shown no quarter."

The grand jury of the United States district court adjourned after returning thirty indictments against persons for selling whiskey without license. Ten blind-tiger keepers were arrested and fined in the Meridian city court. In Jackson the grand jury has been busy grinding out indictments against the blind-tiger keepers.

Hundreds of Mississippians swarmed to Meridian to attend the trial of the first peonage cases prosecuted by the government in Mississippi, and which were continued until March, 1905. United States District Judge H. C. Niles, judge of the court, presided over the cases against the two Pickett brothers and against the three Leggett brothers and Irving Henderson of Kemper county, continued, for the reason that the celebrated peonage cases from Alabama, Florida and Georgia are now pending before the United States supreme court, on the question of the constitutionality of the act of 1867, under which the indictments of the planters were obtained. Until the highest tribunal passes on the constitutional question the Mississippi cases will be postponed. The present grand jury refused to render the six Mississippi planters, which the government sought to have done on account of the much-feared weakness of the pending indictments.

One of the prosecuting attorneys, Thomas M. Tamm, of DeKalb, was recently killed by Irving Henderson, one of the indicted planters, the murder growing out of the peonage prosecutions. The three Leggetts and Irving Henderson are charged with kidnapping a negro, Sherie Griffin, and holding him in bondage against his will. The negro, who is in jail here, claims that he escaped from the Leggetts plantation in Kemper county and fled to Neshoba county, where he alleges the Leggetts and Henderson followed and captured him, administering a severe beating to him, placing a rope about his neck, dragging him twenty miles back to Kemper county, where he was again beaten and threatened with death if he ever divulged the circumstances.

The deputy United States marshals who secured Griffin, in order to escape assassination had to slip into Kemper county at night and get out before daylight. To secure the negro's testimony and prevent his assassination Griffin is lodged in jail here. The Pickett brothers are charged with holding in bondage a negro named Dag Harrington.

A preacher and a prominent planter of Lowndes county have issued a writ of habeas corpus over a small dispute. Rev. E. M. Younghouse and John Harris were the participants in the dispute, which was a serious wound, and is nursing it in jail at Columbus.

DEATHS.
Deadwood—The city council has finally arrived at a decision on the water question which has agitated the city for many years. The water will be brought in from Elk creek by gravity a distance of twelve miles, and a cement reservoir will be constructed on the crest of one of the hills overlooking the city. The cost of the project is estimated at $100,000, and the council has voted to accept the proposition. The project will be a great benefit to the city, as it will provide a constant supply of water to all points. The council has called a special election to be held Tuesday, Oct. 27, when the electors will vote upon a proposition to amend the charter of the city so as to cover the cost of introducing the proposed waterworks system. The council has the assurance that these bonds may be disposed of readily, as one contracting firm has agreed to accept them in payment for the work of construction. The greater part of the supply of water will be obtained from the creek, and the remainder will be obtained from the well. The council has called a special election to be held Tuesday, Oct. 27, when the electors will vote upon a proposition to amend the charter of the city so as to cover the cost of introducing the proposed waterworks system. The council has the assurance that these bonds may be disposed of readily, as one contracting firm has agreed to accept them in payment for the work of construction. CONTRACT IS LET Sang & Preston Will Construct the Aerial Bridge Approaches.

Seven Local Contractors Submit Bids For the Work.

Bids were opened this morning by the board of public works for the construction of the approaches to the new aerial ferry bridge. No less than seven contractors submitted bids for the work, their estimates ranging from $345,225 to $629,175. The contract was awarded to Sang & Preston for the former figure.

The other bidders were L. D. Campbell, George R. King, P. McDonnell, Fitzgerald & Norris, John Lory and J. D. Hilliard.

The contract will be submitted to the council Monday night for approval.

The approaches will be constructed of concrete. A seventeen-foot roadway for teams will be constructed in the center, paved with granite blocks, and provided with a sandstone curb. On each side of the roadway there will be an eight-foot sidewalk for foot passengers.

Iron gates will be placed at the end of the roadway and the sidewalks to prevent accidents when the car is not in position. Railings will also be constructed along the sides of the approaches.

Work will be commenced as soon as the contract has been confirmed by the council, and the preliminary arrangements completed, so that the approaches will be ready for use by the time the bridge is finished.

The money for the approaches will be paid from the permanent improvement fund.

Meanwhile the work on the bridge itself is making good progress. The men are now employed in bolting together the big timbers for the false work, preparatory to raising it into position.

The present period of fine weather is very welcome to the engineers and those in charge of the work. The weather of the last two weeks has delayed the work and they are hoping for a continuation of the present conditions.

LIBRARY ROOF IS LEAKING

City Engineer Reports That New Covering Is Necessary.

An entire new roof will probably have to be constructed on the public library building at once.

The present roof is leaking in a dozen different places, and there is not a room in the building to which the water does not penetrate during a storm.

City Engineer McGilvray inspected the roof this morning, at the request of the library board, and reported that there is not enough "pitch" to the present roof. The water stands in little pools among the tiles and works its way through. Unless the roof is mended at once the steel ceiling will become rusted and will have to be renewed.

The city engineer will confer with manufacturers of various kinds of roofing materials, and will submit an estimate of the cost of a new roof to the board within a few days.

CLARK CALLS ON PARKER.
New York, Sept. 30.—Judge Parker received a call today from Senator W. A. Clark, of Montana. He talked to Judge Parker concerning the situation in the West and said the Democrats will certainly carry Montana and he thought, Colorado and Nevada. Senator Clark made an appointment for former Lieut.-Gov. A. B. Striggs, of Montana, who will call on Judge Parker and give him details regarding the Northwestern campaign.

FIVE days out from Honolulu, we caught sight of the small, reef-enclosed sand-dune which is known, on account of its geographical position, as "Midway"—the smallest bit of land, perhaps, over which the stars and stripes float, and certainly the most dreary and desolate place inhabited by man in all the broad Pacific, says George Kennan in the Outlook. Before the acquisition of the Philippines, not one American in ten thousand, probably, was aware of the fact that the United States owned territory in the middle of the Pacific ocean, nearly thirty-five hundred miles west of San Francisco, and yet the little spot then known as "Brooks Island" had been required to us for nearly forty years. It had no inhabitants, and therefore required no colonial administration, but it was, nevertheless, the first colonial possession that we acquired in the Pacific, away from the mainland, and for many years it was our remotest outpost in the direction of the Orient.

Five days out from Honolulu, we caught sight of the small, reef-enclosed sand-dune which is known, on account of its geographical position, as "Midway"—the smallest bit of land, perhaps, over which the stars and stripes float, and certainly the most dreary and desolate place inhabited by man in all the broad Pacific, says George Kennan in the Outlook. Before the acquisition of the Philippines, not one American in ten thousand, probably, was aware of the fact that the United States owned territory in the middle of the Pacific ocean, nearly thirty-five hundred miles west of San Francisco, and yet the little spot then known as "Brooks Island" had been required to us for nearly forty years. It had no inhabitants, and therefore required no colonial administration, but it was, nevertheless, the first colonial possession that we acquired in the Pacific, away from the mainland, and for many years it was our remotest outpost in the direction of the Orient.

low, undulating drift of marble dust diversified with rounded, bush-covered hillocks, and encircled by a barrier-reef of jagged coral rock, ten or twelve miles in circumference, over which the huge Pacific rollers break incessantly in clouds of spray and mist. Between the reef and the island there is a shallow lagoon to half a mile to a mile across, whose tranquil water varies in color from sea-green to a brilliant peacock-herald, and contrasts strangely with the dark ultramarine blue of the outer ocean. The low island which lies within these concentric circles of green water and flashing surf is composed wholly of disintegrated coral; and if it were not for the blackish, bush-covered hillocks which relieve, to some extent, its glaring whiteness, it would suggest a long, undulating line of Siberian snow transported in some miraculous way to the tropics, and set afloat in a smooth, green, reef-enclosed lagoon under the burning sun of the equator. The highest part of the island is only forty-three feet above the level of the sea, and if it were not enclosed and protected by the rocky circle of the barrier-reef, the great seas raised by tempests in this part of the Pacific would go entirely over it.

The life of the cable operators on this remote, venturesome sand-dune in mid-ocean is perhaps more lonely and dreary than that of any other telegraphers in the world. They are off the regular routes of both steamers and sailing vessels; they are visited by government transports or supply ships only at long and uncertain intervals; and for many months at a time they see nothing but sand and water, and hear nothing but the cries of sea birds and the eternal crashing of the surf on the great circle of the barrier-reef. They are almost as completely isolated from the world as if they were so many shipwrecked Crusoes; and yet all the news of the world passes through their hands. If this little colony on Midway island is to be supplied with food by government transports going to and from the Philippines, it seems to me that it should be equipped with a suitable steam launch capable of running out through the opening in the barrier-reef in all ordinary weather, and of towing, if necessary, a good

CONTRACT IS LET

Seven Local Contractors Submit Bids For the Work.

Bids were opened this morning by the board of public works for the construction of the approaches to the new aerial bridge. No less than seven contractors submitted bids for the work, their estimates ranging from $248,250 to $426,175. The contract was awarded to Sang & Preston for the right of way.

The other bidders were L. D. Campbell, George H. King, P. J. McHugh, Fitzgerald & Norris, John Lory and J. D. Hillard.

The contract will be submitted to the board Monday night for approval. The approaches will be constructed of concrete, a seven-foot roadway for teams will be constructed in the center, paved with sandstone blocks, and provided with a sandstone curb. On each side of the roadway there will be an eight-foot sidewalk for foot passengers.

Iron girders will be placed at the end of the roadway and the sidewalks to prevent accidents when the car is not in position. Railings will also be constructed along the sides of the approaches.

Work will be commenced as soon as the contract has been confirmed by the council, and the preliminary arrangements completed, so that the approaches will be ready for use by the time the bridge is finished.

The money for the approaches will be paid from the permanent improvement fund.

Meanwhile the work on the bridge itself is making good progress. The men are now employed in bolting together the big timbers for the false work, preparatory to raising it into position.

The present period of fine weather is very welcome to the engineers and those in charge of the work. The delay of the last two weeks has delayed the work and they are hoping for a continuation of the present conditions.

LIBRARY ROOF IS LEAKING

City Engineer Reports That New Covering Is Necessary.

An entire new roof will probably have to be constructed on the public library building at once.

The present roof is leaking in a dozen different places, and there is not a room in the building to which the water does not penetrate during a storm.

City Engineer McGilvray inspected the roof this morning, at the request of the library board, and reported that there is not enough "pitch" to the present roof. The water stands in little pools among the tiles and works its way through. Unless the roof is mended at once the steel ceiling will become rusted and will have to be renewed.

The city engineer will confer with manufacturers of various kinds of roofing materials, and will submit an estimate of the cost of a new roof to the board within a few days.

SUPPLIER NOT OBTAINING.

St. Paul, Sept. 30.—A special to the Dispatch from Grundy Center, Iowa,

A DESERTER SURRENDERS

To Police and Asks to Be Restored to Navy.

"Do you take deserters here?" asked a young man clad in the uniform of a naval cadet, as he walked into police headquarters last evening.

Secret Thompson looked him up as a cadet, and held him to await advice from the department at Washington, which was communicated with last evening.

The young man gave his name as Fred Smith. He stated that he had enlisted from Morris, Minn., about three years ago, and had been in the cutter Minnesota at Philadelphia last winter. He made his way to Duluth and has been employed in and about the city since that time, working during the last few months on the pier at the Sinter suit entry.

He stated that he longed for the old life and came back to him, and unpacking his things, he found that he had a letter from the navy department, which he had just received. "All I ask," he said, "is that after punishment for my desertion they will restore my rank as second apprentice and give me back my citizenship."

FOUND HIS DAUGHTER.

Had Searched the World Over Five Years.

Sayre, Pa., Sept. 30.—After years of search, Col. Henry H. Andrew, a New York millionaire, found his little daughter in school here. He was married first to a Southern girl. They had two children, both girls. Five years ago he obtained a divorce and the court granted him the custody of both children. Mrs. Andrew threatened suicide and threatened the father to violent. He gave her the youngest child to keep temporarily on condition that the baby would be properly supported and that she would be returned to him when he requested. From that time until yesterday he did not see his little daughter.

The divorced wife to San Francisco, Cal., leaving behind no trace of her baby.

QUARLES WRAHTY.

Rages Against La Follette and Author Stephens.

Kenosha, Wis., Sept. 30.—The article entitled "Wisconsin," by Lincoln Stephens, published in McClure's Magazine for October, has stirred one Wisconsin senator to wrath and has provoked him to violent denunciation of the author and of Governor La Follette, whom he holds accountable for the spirit of the article. The senator is John V. Quarles of Milwaukee, who opened the student campaign for the Wisconsin Republicans in Kenosha Wednesday evening before 100 persons—the largest crowd that ever attended a public meeting in the city. He denounced the largest crowd that ever attended a public meeting in the city. He denounced the largest crowd that ever attended a public meeting in the city. SEVEN MEN TOIL

To Rescue Fat Woman From Burning House.

Rockville, Pa., Sept. 30.—The rescue from her burning home of 400-pound Mary Shadler, who lay helpless on her back in a room on the first floor, was a task that tested the combined strength of seven men. Three months ago Mary Shadler was taken to the Harpeth hospital, where she was treated for obesity, her abnormal weight of 400 pounds having rendered her helpless. After a futile effort had been made to cure her, it required a furniture wagon to carry her away.

TO RECLAIM 33,000 ACRES

By Drainage, Green River Canal Is to Be Constructed.

Five days out from Honolulu, we caught sight of the small, reef-enclosed sand-dune which is known, on account of its geographical position, as "Midway"—the smallest bit of land, perhaps, over which the stars and stripes float, and certainly the most dreary and desolate place inhabited by man in all the broad Pacific, says George Kennan in the Outlook. Before the acquisition of the Philippines, the United States owned territory in the middle of the Pacific ocean, nearly thirty-five hundred miles west of San Francisco, and yet the little atoll then known as "Brooks Island" had been brought to us for nearly forty years. It had no inhabitants, and therefore required no colonial administration, but it was nevertheless, the first colonial possession that we acquired in the Pacific, away from the mainland, and for many years it was our remotest outpost in the direction of the Orient.

Captain N. C. Brooks, of the American ship Gambia, discovered it in 1858, and although it was a mere sand-dune, less than two miles across, and seemed to be absolutely worthless, he prudently annexed it, in the name of the United States, and took such formal steps as were necessary to establish a national claim to it.

For the next thirty years it remained uninhabited and almost invisible, but in 1887 it was examined by Captain Reynolds, of the United States cruiser Albatross, and in 1888, if I remember rightly, a Norwegian ship was wrecked on it, and her survivors lived there for a period of about two years, gaining scanty subsistence by collecting birds' eggs and catching fish. They were finally seen and taken off by the crew of a Japanese merchant vessel, who were cruising about in that part of the Pacific in search of guano deposits. Before their rescue, they had drawn up and buried in a bottle a brief record of their experience, with directions for obtaining blackish but drinkable water, and the names of three or four castaways who had already perished from hardship and exposure. This record was written doubtless, at a time when they had no expectation of ever being found. It was discovered, long afterward, by the officers of one of our naval vessels who were engaged in making a survey of the little atoll and running a line of soundings around its barrier-reef. Shortly before the annexation of the Hawaiian group, the Pacific Mail Steamship company caused an examination to be made of the island with view to its possible utilization as a coaling station; but this idea was finally abandoned on account of the difficulty of taking lighters in and out through the narrow, reef-constructed channel which breaks the circle of the reef on the western side, and affords the only means of access to the shallow water of the lagoon. When the trans-Pacific cable was projected, however, this insignificant bit of United States territory in the vast water solitude of the western ocean suddenly acquired importance and value; and in 1896—more than forty years after its discovery—it was made a cable repeating station, and became for the first time, an inhabited place. It now has a population of ten or twelve men—nearly all cable operators—and one solitary woman.

As seen from a distance of three or four miles, Midway Island looks like a low, undulating drift of marble-dust diversified with rounded, bush-covered hillocks, and encircled by a barrier-reef of jagged coral rock, ten or twelve miles in circumference, over which the huge Pacific rollers break incessantly in clouds of spray and mist. Between the reef and the island there is a shallow lagoon half a mile to a mile across, whose tranquil water varies in color from sea-green to a brilliant peacock-blue, and contrasts strangely with the dark ultramarine blue of the outer ocean. The low island which lies within these concentric circles of green water and flashing surf is composed wholly of disintegrated coral; and if it were not for the blackish, bush-covered hillocks which relieve, to some extent, its glaring whiteness, it would suggest a plain, receding, receding lagoon under the burning sun of the equator. The highest part of the island is only forty-three feet above the level of the ocean, and if it were not enclosed and protected by the rocky circle of the barrier-reef, the great seas raised by tempests in this part of the Pacific would go entirely over it.

The life of the cable operators on this remote, venturous sand-dune in mid-ocean is perhaps more lonely and dreary than that of any other telegraphers in the world. They are on the regular routes of both steamers and sailing vessels; they are visited by government transports or supply ships only at long and uncertain intervals; and for many months at a time they see nothing but sand and water, and hear nothing but the cries of sea birds and the eternal crashing of the surf on the great circle of the barrier-reef. They are almost as completely isolated from the world as if they were so many shipwrecked Crusoes; and yet all the news of the world passes through their hands. If this little colony on Midway island is to be supplied with food by government transports going to and from the Philippines, it seems to me that it should be equipped with a suitable steam launch capable of running out through the opening in the barrier-reef in all ordinary weather, and of towing, if necessary, a good-sized surfboat or lighter. If the islanders had a powerful steam launch of their own, their knowledge of the reefs, channels, and local conditions would enable them to run out to a transport in any ordinary weather, get their stores, and land them on the island without serious difficulty or risk; but if the present method be followed, there is more than a possibility that a boat crew from a transport will sooner or later be lost on the barrier-reef.

It seems to me, furthermore, that Midway Island should be provided with a light. It is so low and so nearly invisible at night that a captain who has not had an observation in the darkness, no prudent captain, of course, would run for such an island the night if he believed himself to be anywhere near it; but the determination of one's position by astronomical observation is not always possible, dead reckoning is untrustworthy, and more than one American ship has been wrecked in the night on such low-lying atolls as Ocean Island and Midway. A second-class light on a skeleton frame would not cost much, and it might pay for itself over and over again by being instrumental in saving a first-class transport with hundreds of soldiers on board.

A MILLION SHORT

Is Texas Cotton Crop and Planters Ask High Prices.

Boll Worm and Boll Weevil Cut Yield One-Third.

Temple, Texas, Sept. 20.—The cotton situation in this section of the state this season has been a peculiar one, its parallel never having been known.

This is the southern section of what is known as the black waxey belt, conceded to be the best cotton-growing land in Texas.

On the first day of August, if the prospect then existing could have made good, there would have been three-fourths of a bale per acre made around this vicinity. Then came a series of showers when the dry weather was needed. Rank vegetation and moist ground is what the boll weevil and the boll worm make a living on, and soon they were present in numbers. It took some time to discover the effects of their destructiveness and many a farmer would sweep his gaze over a field that was beautiful to look upon, unconscious of the enemy that was at work reducing his year's toil to naught.

There is a certain state at which cotton boll arrives when it is proof against the worm and the weevil, and it was only such bolls that had arrived at that point that made what cotton there is in the state today. To the eye a field would look most promising, the plant loaded down with bolls and every indication of a tremendous crop. But after a while the farmers began to grow uneasy and it was not long before they were going through their fields applying the knife test to the bolls picked at random. The knife test consists in picking a boll and cutting it in half and laying them open with the knife. In half of the bolls tested would be found the boll worm.

In the meantime the boll weevil was busily at work stinging the tender blossoms and squares from which the bolls would form and causing them to rot and fall.

In the space of a few weeks was witnessed the decline of a possible Texas crop of 2,000,000 bales to one that will scarcely equal the 1,000,000.

A loss of 1,000,000 bales of the cotton crop at eight cents per pound means a loss of $42,500,000; at nine cents it means a loss of $48,250,000, and at ten cents, the prevailing price today for good cotton, a loss of $53,000,000.

On the first day of September the farmer viewed the question of gathering the crop with complacency.

There came three terribly hot days, and the farmers woke up on the morning of the fourth day to discover that cotton was exhibiting a determination to open at once.

On one Sunday there were 200 farm wagons in Temple for the purpose of getting cotton pickers and taking them out to the farms. The price soon went to 25 cents per hundred and boards with specifications as to what the latter should consist of. A stipulation was that all pickers must be paid in cash on Saturday afternoon and brought to town; that on Sunday night the farmers' wagons should call for them at their homes and take them out ready to commence their work on Monday.

A cry went up for more pickers and inducements were offered negroes in other counties to come here and help gather the crop. Agents sent into the black counties returned with empty hands. The farmers of those counties wanted to hire negroes themselves, and in many cases warned the emissaries off with shotguns. In a county in south Texas a few days ago one farmer killed another because he had endeavored to entice away the other's cotton pickers.

One colored boy in a north Texas town last week picked 3150 pounds of cotton at 75 cents. He received for his week's work $23.50 in cash and his food and shelter for that time. There not being enough negroes to go around, numbers of white people have gone to the fields. School boys have made enough to buy their clothes and books and pay their schooling expenses for the year. Clerks from the stores have left the counters and gone into the cotton fields, where they can earn $25 and $3 a day. Many a World's Fair trip has been made possible this year with cotton-picking money. The negro cooks and washer-women abandoned their stoves and washboards and hied themselves to the white patches.

The farmers are able as a rule to hold their cotton for a high price. They made good grain crops and got high prices.

HOGG JOSHES NEW YORKERS

Only Gotham Baby He Found Was In an Incubator.

New York, Sept. 20.—Ex-Governor Hogg of Texas, once famous as a trust buster, but a millionaire since he struck oil in Texas, has come down to town on a fun trip and to get something good to eat, as he says.

As he referred to the gastronomic purpose of his 2000-mile trip, he patted his five-foot girth, and added: "You think we are all bronco-busters and bad men in Texas, don't you? Umph. If we killed one-half as many men in Texas as you do here in New York you would be getting out a red-headed extra every minute."

"That isn't oversteering the case a bit. You thrust out papers by the cartload every minute about the eternal I don't know what you do it for. Nobody could read 'em all. I don't do anything but sit over 'em, and read and read and try to read them, and it is all I can do to get through the headlines."

And, do you know, half I read is about women being murdered. What in the deuce do you want to kill the pretty things for? I'll bet a million dollars that if you had a million women being murdered, and they called it a baby, I thought it was a bug, with its legs kicking, as a doctor held it on the palm of his hand.

"If you New Yorkers didn't murder your women you wouldn't have to raise your babies in incubators. We don't do it that way in Texas. We have beautiful, healthy women down our way, and families? Gee, you ought to see them. They would kill a barn lot."

"How many? Oh, anywhere from five to twenty; never any less. No, I have only four, but—any, won't you come over to the Waldorf and have something?"

PUBLIC LANDS.

It is difficult to pick up even a score of the public lands in Texas, and the increase, so does the demand for American foodstuffs, chief among which is pillbury's flour, the greatest cereal food that is made from the choicest wheat.

SOCIETY IS SHIVERING

Over Ghost Stories But Appetizing Dinners the Cause.

London, Sept. 20.—English society is shivering with circumspect accounts of ghostly and ghastly visitors to Surrenden, the country house of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Winans. Surrenden is one of the most interesting properties in England. The black deer that roam through the beautiful old park are unique, being of a breed elsewhere extinct.

The interior of the house is beautiful, filled with priceless treasures, but some recent emotional visitors say they will carry its gruesome associations to their graves.

A pretty English girl staying at the house not long ago, on going upstairs in evening dress after dinner, stopped near one of the landing windows to look out on the park. Suddenly a brilliant light illumined the drive, and to her horror the figure of a young woman, all in flames, bearing a child in her arms, appeared tearing down the avenue. The girl nearly fainted with fright, and before she was able to call assistance and to have the facts explained the phantom figure had disappeared.

The second Surrenden horror happened on the same occasion, and probably sprung from the excitement caused by the accounts of her fellow visitor's delusion. A lady of a highly nervous temperament, sleeping in one of the fine bedrooms at the back of the house, woke in terror about 2 o'clock in the morning, feeling as if she were half strangled by a pair of sharp-clawed hands entwined around her throat. At length she managed to give one or two inarticulate cries, which attracted the attention of her maid, who flew to her aid, to find her mistress half dead, lying on the bed.

The lady left the next morning, and the bedroom has not been occupied since then, although these visitations probably are more direct attributions to the richness of Mr. Winans' cuisine than to any supernatural cause.

(NORTH STAR BRAND)
FUR QUALITY.

It requires more than simply workmanship to produce a good fur garment. The experience required to properly select the skins is a matter of very slow growth, and unless one's experience has been very wide, it is well to rely upon a brand of established reputation and in any case this is the safest way. We have been manufacturing fur garments of every description for men, women and children for twenty-eight years and our product is of the best.

ANSWER IS DEFANT

President Openly Fights Against Secret Opposition of Fairbanks.

Senator and His Friends Are Now on the Defensive.

Brooklyn, N. Y., Sept. 20.—An Indianapolis dispatch to the Eagle says: A serious complication, arising from the differences between President Roosevelt and Senator Fairbanks, his running mate, is the sequel to the clash between the diverse interests of the Republican party, the details of which were set forth in the Eagle in a dispatch from Chicago. President Roosevelt, through National Chairman Corbally, has replied to the defiance of Senator Fairbanks, delivered to him through emissaries sent directly to headquarters in New York last week, and his answer is equally a defiance. It has been disseminated among the Republican leaders of both the administration and Fairbanks' camps here within the last twenty-four hours, and it is obvious that the Indiana senator's lieutenant, while writhing under the president's rebuke, recognizes the fact that they occupy a defensive position because they have underestimated the president's courage in dealing with personal or factional party politics.

Mr. Roosevelt has declined to yield to the demand of Senator Fairbanks that the administration keep hands off in the Indiana fight and permit Mr. Fairbanks to fortify himself in every possible manner as a candidate for the presidential nomination in 1908. The president is well aware that his Indiana opponents dare not enter the ticket, no matter how much, on his account, they might desire to do so, and that they should never permit themselves to commit political suicide by such methods to accomplish their ends ultimately the Republicans of Indiana would not act in the treason. With his customary self-assurance, he believes that the Republican party will merely make votes for him in this state, and that Senator Fairbanks' future will be determined by the voters of Indiana, and that he will never attain sufficient headway to get before a convention if the senator does not listen to reason in this campaign.

In a word, President Roosevelt believes he can virtually take Indiana away from Senator Fairbanks, and is willing to incur whatever chances of defeat that course may entail, rather than be dominated in the slightest degree by the candidate of the opposition even in a remote affair of state politics. He recognizes, shrewdly enough, that Senator Fairbanks has many enemies among the Hoosier Republicans, and that Senator Beveridge, his junior colleague, returned from Chicago, where he went to meet the senator Friday evening. Mr. Keating brought back with him the orders of his chief, but the only information concerning those orders is that which may be derived from the expressions of grudge and determination and defiance on the faces of the machine leaders who confronted the senator in the quarters last night. Their first open movement has been to deny indignantly the charges of the senator's reports of the clash between the president and Senator Fairbanks, and through the efforts of the senator's friends, they have been started counter rumors, the most audacious of which is that the president has ordered Mr. Roosevelt to entirely satisfy with the movement to make Representative Henryway a senator, and that Senator Fairbanks no longer has any standing at court—down and out.

It is thus manifest that the Fairbanks people are resourceful and that Mr. Roosevelt, if intent only on being elected this fall, would have been wise had he made terms with them instead of entering upon a conflict that can only result in ultimate disaster to the party, no matter which element is triumphant this year. The president will doubtless, too, be further impressed with the jeopardy of his position when he is hit by the next club the Fairbanks leaders will swing at his devoted head.

It has reached such a point now that Speaker Joseph G. Cannon and the congressional forces can bring to bear on him. Speaker Cannon is not only in close touch with Senator Fairbanks, but he has an affection for Representative Henryway that may be likened only to that of a father for an only son, and he will do anything that will in any way contribute to Mr. Henryway's success as a candidate for the senate. The influence he can bring to bear on the president is great, because, unless Mr. Roosevelt shall succeed in usurping all the functions of the legislative branch of the government, he must keep on good terms with the speaker of the house.

All in all the contest bids fair to grow in interest and in importance with each day the campaign progresses. It has reached such a point now that the Indianapolis Star, an independent newspaper, owned, however, by a Republican, and recognized as the successor of the old Indianapolis Journal, for half a century the champion of the party that bids fair to lose the state to Roosevelt and Fairbanks. The Star has referred to the clash several times and in its last account of it, in which it presents the case and complaints of the anti-Fairbanks forces, says: "A broken against machine tactics has revolted out in the Republican

Were Being Edited By Prince Herbert Who Died Recently.

Berlin, Sept. 20.—The death of Herbert Bismarck puts a stop to the chief labor of his later years, sorting and editing his father's papers. The interesting books issued under the name of Prince Bismarck in the last five years are only the result of digging into his immense store.

At his death seventeen large cases of papers had still to be sorted. It is difficult to imagine to whom the work will now be entrusted, and the Kaiser is desperately anxious on the point. Prince Herbert has no political knowledge and her husband did all he could to keep men of the collateral Bismarck families from knowledge of his father's affairs. Strong efforts will be made by the state to gain possession of these valuable archives, and it is known that there are numerous documents critical of very freely the present Kaiser.

There is also much that illustrates the "blood and iron" side of the great chancellor's character, which millions of his admirers would regret to see published. Either the state will secure the papers or the Kaiser will, and to whom they are left by will, grows up; he is a man who has lived the life of a soldier, and he is a man who has lived the life of a statesman. The death of Prince Herbert is regarded as the marking of a pitiful tragedy in the history of the house of the great "Iron Chancellor." Prince Herbert never succeeded in convincing the world that he was the peer of his famous father; but there were many who believe that he was more to him than the history of his life will show in the matter of performance. He was loyal—intensely loyal—to his father. Even in that period when he fell ill, he was loyal to the Kaiser, and when the old statesman was sent from power, the son, yet loyal, refused all offers under the new regime, saying: "I go with my father," and turned his back upon his political career.

TORMENTING RHEUMATISM

Columbus, Ohio, May 20, 1903.

Six years ago I had a severe attack of Rheumatism. I was bed-ridden for six months, and the doctors I had did me no good. They changed medicines every week and nothing they prescribed seemed to help me. Finally I began the use of S. S. S. My knee and elbow joints were swollen terribly, and at one time my joints were so swollen and painful that I could not close them when opened. I was so bad that I could not move knee or foot. I was getting discouraged, you may be sure, when I began S. S. S. but as I saw it was helping me I continued it, and today I am a sound well man and have never had a return of the disease. S. S. S. purified my blood and cured me of this severe case of Rheumatism after everything else had failed. I have recommended it to others with good results.

R. H. CHAPMAN.
1355 Mt. Vernon Ave.

The poisonous acids that produce the inflammation and pain are absorbed into the blood and Rheumatism can never be conquered till these are neutralized and filtered out of the blood and system. S. S. S. goes directly into the circulation and attacks the disease itself. It purifies and restores the blood to a healthy, vigorous condition. It contains no potent alkalali or other strong minerals, but is guaranteed entirely vegetable. Write us and our physicians will advise without any charge what Rheumatism book or Rheumatism set free.

DRAMATIC STORY

Told By Young Woman
Shot By a Rejected
Suitor.
Vowed His Love as He
Her.

St. Joseph, Mo., Sept. 30.—The story told by Mattie Payne of the attempt made by James T. Stapleton, her jealous sweetheart, to murder her, reads like a chapter from a tragic novel. She tells of the man's pleadings for her love, her rejection of him, his determination to win her back, and what may be called his "gentle" violence during the long scene previous to the instant when he drew a revolver from his pocket and fired at her. She says that she was alone in the room, and that she was sitting at the table, when he entered. He held her hand and tried to kiss her, but she refused. He then drew the revolver and fired at her. She was wounded in the arm and the chest. She did not answer.

"Good-by," he repeated.

With a final struggle she freed her right arm and struck the revolver as it was fired.

Police were standing in the street in front of the building when they heard the shot. They ran upstairs and found Miss Payne with her clothing smoking where it had been set on fire by the shot from the revolver. Stapleton, who had run into the hall, was placed under arrest and taken to the station.

FEARFUL ODDS AGAINST HIM.

DECREASE IN CHILD LABOR

Shown By Biennial Report of State Factory Inspector.

St. Paul, Sept. 30.—According to the biennial report of the state factory inspector, which was made public yesterday, after long weeks of tedious labor in preparing the figures accumulated during the inspection of the mines, mills, and manufacturing establishments, as compared with those of 1902, child labor in the state has decreased 33.9 per cent. during the first nine months of 1904. Seven hundred and seventy boys and girls under 16 years of age were employed this year, against 92 in 1902. The following table shows the number of boys and girls employed, as compared with the same period of 1902:

All industries one child to 1955 total wage-earners; one girl to 793 adult males; one girl to 463 adult females.

Non-manufacturing—One child to 662 total wage-earners; one girl to 463 adult males; one girl to 463 adult females.

Manufacturing—One child to 1281 total wage-earners; one boy to 231 adult males; one girl to 119 adult females.

Mr. Moersch, the state inspector, has made the minute details of the report through the state, dividing the state into three districts, the northern, central and southern, and the other three districts are the southern, central and northern.

The report shows that there were 470 inspections made in 1904. There are 115,000 wage-earners in the state. In 1902, 115,000 wage-earners were employed. In 1904, 115,000 wage-earners were employed. In 1902, 115,000 wage-earners were employed. In 1904, 115,000 wage-earners were employed.

Unfeeling Theater Manager Wanted the Rent
In Advance.

New Haven, Conn., Sept. 30.—The lack of a pair of trousers and bitter opposition on the part of relatives of the man whose widow she said she was, formed so awkward a combination for "Mrs. Clifton J. Morse" in Wallingford that she had to give up the character sketch in which she had announced her appearance as a male impersonator and take the midnight express for New York. Hundreds of tickets had been sold for the entertainment which had been advertised extensively, and there was a riotous scene at the theater when Mrs. Morse was refused admittance by the management and the performance fell through.

Clifton J. Morse, who was widely known in business circles in this city, died last April. His relatives had believed him to be a bachelor, but a month ago a woman known at one time as Miss Annie Dunn of Girardeau, Mass., arrived in Wallingford and registered in a local hotel as Mrs. J. Clifton Morse. She was dressed in the deepest black, and she wore a few strands of money about her neck, and the thick crepe veil which wrapped her from head to foot was the only thing that hid her face from the public.

Her suitcases had been opened and the contents had been examined by the management, and she was told that she must pay the rent in advance. She was told that she must pay the rent in advance. She was told that she must pay the rent in advance.

RISE AND FALL

Of Thomas Waggaman of Washington Was Very Spectacular.
Sidelight on the Character of the Bankrupt Broker.

Washington, Sept. 30.—More than forty years ago a poor boy on his way to school passed one morning before a large, comfortable house whose grounds covered half the block, and surveying it meditatively, he said:

"When I am a man I shall buy that house and have it for my home."

He was a plucky lad, and with faith in himself he held to his purpose. But as the house figured in his first definite aspirations, it grew to be a prime object of his ambition. He was a boy of a few days ago in his financial undoing.

The boy, poor in peace but rich in purpose, and the man of affairs into which he grew, have made way for a man who, though scarcely beyond his prime, is old, shrunken, bowed, who goes into town in a street car and slips like a shadow into the office of a lawyer, who is the ablest legal talent of the country is contending to prove that Thomas E. Waggaman is or is not bankrupt. Among those interested in the case are the creditors of the bankrupt.

The story of the rise and fall of Thomas E. Waggaman, for many years dean of Washington, real estate brokers, in its general aspect is not unlike that of other men who have been wrecked on the rocks of their Utopia. In the wreck, so far as personally is concerned, are his home with its costly and exquisite appointments, a magnificent collection of Oriental ceramics in the country, his automobiles, his stables, and the downtown offices where the whirlwind was sown.

Boxed desire for the old Georgetown home, which, on his way to school, he promised so earnestly, led to his training in judgment of real estate values that he made in Washington property. He was still a young man when he bought the Georgetown house and grounds for $200,000. In 1881 the suburban district of Washington. The scale of prices shot up and he was a millionaire. He was interested in Woodley Park, the suburb where such men as John B. McLean, Alexander Graham Bell and Charles Newlands have estates. All the money that came into his hands went into the development of Woodley. When it did not come fast enough, he turned to the stocks and the high man's earnings. Meanwhile, carrying his immense and ever-increasing fortune, he was waiting for a "boom" such as had troubled in a few years the value of Groceries, the real estate, the stock market. Nearly $600,000 of the Catholic university's lesser sums from various educational institutions, besides the income from his real estate, had gone into Woodley.

As Mr. Waggaman's case stands today, the business men of Washington, who as a rule regard sympathy for him and show interest in his case, are divided into two camps. One camp is in sympathy with his intentions. The other camp is in sympathy with his intentions.

It was a hard case for the landlord to decide, but the affair assumed a simple aspect for him when the woman recovered sufficiently to explain that the customer had omitted to send an essential part of her male make-up. He was called up over the long-distance telephone, and promised to supply the missing part for her. He was called up over the long-distance telephone, and promised to supply the missing part for her.

This new device, which has recently undergone successful tests, consists of a small refrigerating machine for each car, located in an inclosed casing beneath the car, and deriving power by gearing connected with the axle of one of the trucks. The machine includes a compressor for condensing the gas, usually car-hondioxide, circulating pipes which cool the car, and a condenser for abstracting the heat from the condensed gas. The principle underlying is that common to most systems of mechanical refrigeration, and is based on the fact that a gas expanding extracts heat from the body on which the gas being compressed absorbs heat. The function of the condenser is to withdraw the heat from the gas that has been compressed, and for this purpose water is employed, which in case of need can be supplied from engine hydrants, while rain-water from the roof of the car is also employed.

DESERTERS NOT WANTED

Navy Department Refuses to Send For Fred Saulie.

The old method of stringing up deserters by the thumbs, or chopping their heads off, is no longer practiced by the United States navy, as was evidenced by the telegram received at the navy headquarters, about 3 o'clock this afternoon, in reference to Fred Saulie, the deserter, who gave himself up to the authorities last evening. The following is a copy of the telegram: "Release Saulie unless held on civil charge. Must and return to his vessel at his own expense."

Consequently, if the young man still desires to return to the naval life, he will be compelled to pay his railroad fare to Philadelphia and give himself into the charge of the authorities for them to take what action they please in his case.

Saulie was immediately released by the police. Whether or not his longing to return to the sea will cause him to expend $40 or $50 on railroad fare is not known.

PASTOR IS HONORED.

Rev. J. A. Anderson's Parishoners Pay Him a Tribute.

Last evening at the regular prayer meeting at the First Swedish M. E. church, Rev. J. A. Anderson, the pastor, was awfully surprised after he had opened the meeting by the arrival of a large number of people adding to the already large number in the church. In behalf of the congregation John Simonsen expressed their satisfaction at having Rev. Anderson returned to serve year as pastor of the church and gave him a warm welcome. His talk was both witty and eloquent. Simonsen also made a few remarks citing various interesting incidents during the absence of the congregation. There were songs and music at intervals and finally a nurse containing 20 was presented to the esteemed minister.

Mr. Anderson responded expressing his thanks and his warm gratitude for the committee and the gathering was in every way delightful.

MINERS' CABIN SUGGESTED.
A miner's cabin at Central City gave George M. Pullman the idea for the construction of the Pullman palace sleeping cars, says James Kelley, city passenger agent for the Moffat road, according to the Denver Times. In the early days of the state, when Pullman was a poor young man, he came to Colorado to try his fortune. For several months he was located at Central City and Black Hawk, and shared the hard lot of the early-day miners. Ex-Governor John L. Bourke says that he remembers Pullman being here.

The arrangement of the miners' bunks remained in the memory of Pullman as many a night he tossed and tumbled on the hard bedding. In the poorer cabins a six-foot board was hoisted in for a bed, and two husky miners are put in side by side. In an ordinary miners' rooming house there are from six to eight bunks in a room, both sides of the apartment are utilized. The beds are rudely constructed of a board and a pine board, with 2 by 4 scantlings, are all that are required. One bunk is placed above another on the same plan as the Pullman cars are constructed.

After leaving Denver, and while riding in a hussled chair one night in the East, the thought came to Pullman that beds should be provided for the comfort of the road. He immediately remembered the miners' cabins in Colorado and his inventive brain soon had the details completed.

WHAT A BULLFROG WILL EAT.
Many years ago, when collecting birds in Southern New England, I shot on the salt marshes a swallow, which fell in a shallow pool in the marsh, says Forest and Stream. My brother, who happened to be standing near the pool, saw the bird fall and saw a huge bullfrog make two or three sprawling leaps over the mud and through the water and swallow the bird. When I came up the head of the bullfrog still remained above water with the wings of the swallow sticking out of the corners of its mouth.

Recently a story was told me by a friend who resides at Plushing, N. J., of certain happenings at a neighbor's place. This neighbor has some water enclosed in which he keeps some domesticated wild fowl, and not long ago the opportunity occurring to purchase five gigantic bullfrogs, he introduced them into the water.

This spring, as it seemed a possibility that some of his wild duck had breed, an effort was made to get rid of the frogs for fear they might injure the ducklings, and three of them were killed. But the other two could not be found. Some time in May a female pintail duck came off with three young ones, which, after two or three days, disappeared and were not seen again. A day or two after their disappearance one of the missing bullfrogs were seen and killed, and in their stomachs were found the remains of the little pintails. If fancy, there is nothing being that a bullfrog will not eat.

A WAY TO CLEAN PAPER MONEY.
One of the tellers of a prominent savings bank was discussing some peculiarities of his business with a Philadelphia Record. "We get money over the counter in every imaginable condition. Most of the time notes are handed to us in a dirty, crumpled state that makes difficult handling, but there is one depositor who always brings bills in an immaculate condition. This is an old German woman. The bank notes she hands in are as crisp as if they had just left the treasury. It used to puzzle me to account for the crispness of the old notes she brought along—notes that by appearance had been in use long enough to make them as limp as rag. So one day I remarked about it, and found to my surprise that the old lady carefully ironed all her bank notes. I thought her old somewhat foolish at first, but later it occurred to me that it would be a good thing if people everywhere ironed their bank notes. It would kill any germs."

A new system of wireless telephony is being experimented with by G. J. de Gulien Garcia, a Spanish engineer, and his son, says the Chicago Tribune. It was the son who noticed that in the telephone of the Tommasi collector located at the receiving station, there was a sound difference, according to the air gun in the transmitter of the Rihmkorff apparatus. This suggested the idea that a similar apparatus would be susceptible of transmitting the human voice to a distance without the agency of the wire. The arrangement used in the subsequent experiments is simple. At the transmitting station is a Rihmkorff coil giving a spark 1 3/4 inches in length, as well as the necessary oscillation, a small antenna, and a grounded conductor. Between the antenna and a small coil, battery of Grenet cells is a special microphone, acting both as transmitter and receiver. The automatic interrupter of the inducting coil is stopped and the condenser is used for enhancing the oscillator spark. At the receiving station is a Tommasi collector and the grounded conductors. In a telephone receiver the noise produced by the electric current through the primary circuit of the induction coil, the number of sparks at the oscillator thus being varied. The underlying principle, shows, therefore, some analogy with the mechanism of an ordinary telephone. The weak point appears to be the difficulty of getting a microphone of sufficient clear. While with Garcia's condenser the present apparatus transmits singing tones with satisfaction, it leaves much to be desired in its transmission of ordinary speech.

PAYNE IS IMPROVING THOUGH CONDITION IS STILL ALARMING

Is Distinctly Better However Than He Was Friday.

Physicians and Friends
Feel Considerably Encouraged.

Washington, Oct. 1.—Postmaster General Payne, according to information coming from the sick room at 7 o'clock this morning, seemed more restful last night than during the two previous nights, but his sleep in the early hours of the morning was interrupted by waking spells, the most severe occurring at 3 o'clock. Dr. Grayson, who remained through the night, immediately administered moderate doses of stimulants and restoratives and these sufficed to bring about a prompt rally.

Doctors Magruder and Risley called at the hotel shortly before 9 o'clock this morning and joined Dr. Grayson who had remained with Mr. Payne during the latter part of the night. Dr. Osler came in soon afterward and the physicians went into consultation.

Dr. Osler said that Mr. Payne had passed a better night and was distinctly better this morning than he was yesterday, although his condition was still grave.

At 5:30 a. m. the following bulletin was issued:

"Mr. Payne passed a much better night; slept well for a number of hours. Heart action much improved. General condition more favorable."

When Dr. Osler left the hotel after the consultation, he said he would not come back until tomorrow morning, unless the patient's condition grew very much worse. When he called this morning, Mr. Payne asked for the time and when informed said he thought it must be much later. His sleep had been a long one. He also made inquiries as to the direction of the wind.

President Roosevelt called at the hotel shortly before 11 o'clock this morning and remained a few moments in the private apartments. When he came out he said he felt much encouraged regarding Mr. Payne's condition.

Among the morning callers at the Arlington were Attorney General Moody, Secretary Hitchcock and former Secretary of State Foster. Mrs. Shaw, wife of the secretary of the treasury, called on Mrs. Payne. Admiral Dewey sent his aide to the hotel to learn the patient's condition.

Mrs. Payne is hearing up under the strain with fortitude and obtained refreshing sleep last night.

Despite the improvement noted in Mr. Payne's condition, as disclosed by the morning publication, his condition at 1:30 this afternoon has undergone no further change for the better. Dr. Risley remarked that it was about the same and in reply to a question, said Mr. Payne's condition still was extremely grave.

TO BUILD TEN STORY SCHOOL HOUSE

New York, Oct. 1.—Accommodations for nearly twice as many pupils as any other elementary school in the world will be found in a "sky scraper" to be erected within a few months. It will be situated in Grand street on the lower east side. It is planned that the new school shall be ten or more stories high and have about fifty-class rooms to the floor. The entire building will contain at least 150 class rooms, accommodating between 2,500 and 3,000 children. If a fire should occur in a room, it could be closed up until the flames have died out.

Another school building of large type is now in course of construction at the corner of Essex. It is six stories high and will accommodate about 500 pupils.

IMPORTANT DEVELOPMENTS OCCURRING AT SCENE OF WAR

Russian Army Evidently Attempting to Outflank Japanese.

War Office at St. Petersburg Refuses to Give Out Information.

Japs Are Pouring Across the Taitse River In Large Numbers.

While admitting that important developments are proceeding on the east flank of the Manchurian army, the Russian war office withholds details. It is surmised, however, that the movements in progress have for their object the defeat of the Japanese turning movement against the Russian left, which dispatches for the past two weeks have vaguely indicated. St. Petersburg still doubts that Oyama has yet sufficiently rehabilitated himself to drive home this maneuver, although the Japanese are still pouring across the Taitse river to the northeast of Liao Yang. St. Petersburg intimates that should the Japanese commander much longer postpone the offensive it is not impossible that Kuropatkin, with increasing fresh accessions to his army, may himself decide to strike. The report that a decisive engagement had been fought at Mukden is untrue and today's advices say that the Russian army is still there. The same significant silence is maintained in Tokio that prevailed during the days immediately preceding the operations which culminated in the great battle at Liao Yang.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 1.—Important developments on the eastern flank of the Manchurian army are admitted by the war office to be proceeding. The details are, however, withheld. An absolute denial is given to the Shanghai telegram reporting that a general engagement at Mukden has been won by the Japanese. The war office even declares that nothing is known of fighting there. Further communications are continued and indicate that the Japanese are still crossing the Taitse river at Denshu, indicating that the attempt of the Japanese to outflank the Russian position has not yet succeeded in drafting sufficient men thither to drive home their tank operations.

Considerable significance is attached to reports that Chinese bandits are fighting in the Japanese ranks in the Liao river valley. Taken in connection with the attempt of Mukden and Harbin this reveals the existence of a Japanese force in the city limits. It was heard in a police court.

MILT BARLOW DEAD.
End Man of Palmy Days
Passes Away.

New York, Oct. 1.—Milt Barlow, the well known minstrel, died this week in the hospital for incurables. He was sixty-five years old.

In the palmy days of minstrelsy Milt Barlow was one of the end men of Haverly's Minstrels. That time Primrose and West were also part of the same troupe, and they, with Barlow, left to organize a troupe of their own.

For two or three years the new partnership held together, gaining money and fame, and then Barlow left to form the Barlow, Wilson and McNish minstrel company, and he was never heard of again.

He was successful for a while in this, but the next season he and his partner, company in a play called "On the Suwannee River." His last engagement was at Uncle Tom in "Uncle Tom's Cabin."

RED ANTS Attack Unconscious Man and He Is Dead.

Caldwell, Tex., Oct. 1.—Edward Drescher, a young business man, was overcome by the heat while walking in the public road a mile from here Wednesday afternoon, and fell from sunstroke beside a nest of large red ants. Miss Lora Mason passed by an hour later and discovered Mr. Drescher unconscious, his face, neck, hands and head literally swarming with red ants. His features were hardly recognizable. Medical attention was procured, but Mr. Drescher died yesterday. It is believed the ants were responsible for his death.

IN HONOR OF HOAR.
Worcester, Mass., Oct. 1.—Business of all kinds will be suspended Monday at 1 p. m. in honor of the late Senator Hoar, whose funeral will take place on that day. The city hall has been draped in black. The trustees of Clark college decided that the institution will be closed Monday afternoon.

TO REVISE K. P. CONSTITUTION.
Richmond, Ind., Oct. 1.—James E. Esopus, of South Dakota; C. D. Myers, of Illinois; D. C. Richardson, of Virginia; U. G. Cherry, of South Dakota; and others, named by Charles E. Shively, supreme chancellor of the Knights of Pythias, to revise the Pythian constitution.

PURNACES RESUME.
Sharon, Pa., Oct. 1.—Four of the open-heart furnaces of the Carnegie Steel company at Sharon resumed operations today after a two-months' shutdown. About 50 men are affected.

Russians estimate the Japanese force at the following strength: Gen. Kuropatkin, with guards and the Second and Twelfth divisions, a total of thirty-six battalions of infantry, nine squadrons of cavalry, 108 guns and a separate artillery corps of 103 guns; the Guard reserve brigade, consisting of eight battalions of infantry, nine squadrons of cavalry and twenty guns; the Fourth and Sixth divisions, or thirty-six battalions of infantry, nine squadrons of cavalry, 108 guns, one separate cavalry brigade of eight squadrons, a separate artillery brigade of 108 guns, and reserve brigades, comprising twenty-four battalions of infantry, nine squadrons of cavalry and twenty-six guns; total strength of Oku's army, sixty battalions of infantry, twenty-six squadrons of cavalry and 242 guns. Gen. Nodzu commands the Fifth and Sixth divisions, or thirty-six battalions of infantry and six squadrons of cavalry. Including reserve, Nodzu's army consists of forty-four battalions of infantry, nine squadrons of cavalry and 120 guns.

DROVE JAPS BACK.
Gen. Sakharoff Describes Onslaught on Advance Guards.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 1.—The war office has informed the officers of the Japanese force was concentrated in the north of Yantai, and drove the Japanese out of a position held by the Russians at the mouth of the river. The Russians withdrew and then counterattacked and occupied the Japanese position at Yantai. The Russians withdrew and then counterattacked and occupied the Japanese position at Yantai.

TREAT PRISONERS WELL.
Russian Soldiers Say Japs
Are Treated Too Well.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 1.—The army organ, replying to a critic who complains that there is discrimination in favor of Japanese prisoners over Russian soldiers, inasmuch that the former always travel second class and receive an allowance of 20 cents a day, whereas the Russians are often placed on guard duty and are allowed only 8 cents, calls attention to the agreement made at the opening of the war, whereby the Japanese must receive the same treatment as Russian prisoners, by virtue of which, it explains, the Japanese must receive food similar to that which they have been accustomed to. The Japanese officers captured are allowed the pay of their corresponding rank in the Russian army.

Prince Mirsky, the new minister of the interior, has selected Prince Abohi as one of the assistants of the minister of finance, to be one of his chief assistants.

The torpedo boat destroyers Resny, Pronzietze, Prozorly, Gromy and Gromki have been ordered to be prepared to join the Baltic fleet at Revel. Oct. 9, which is considered a sure indication that the fleet will not sail before then.

SITUATION CHANGES.
Japanese Appear Anxious to Act on the Defensive.

Mukden, Oct. 1.—A great change in the situation here has occurred. The Japanese now appear anxious to act on the defensive and have fortified a position northwest of the Yantai mines. According to the best estimates obtainable the Japanese army consists of 100,000 men. In addition there are 600 cavalry and 688 guns. The distribution of the Japanese forces is as follows: One division at Benksanpate, two divisions at the Yantai mines, four divisions on the railway, a little north of Liao Yang, one division westward near Hameidense, and one division at Sandpu.

Russians estimate the Japanese force at the following strength: Gen. Kuropatkin, with guards and the Second and Twelfth divisions, a total of thirty-six battalions of infantry, nine squadrons of cavalry, 108 guns and a separate artillery corps of 103 guns; the Guard reserve brigade, consisting of eight battalions of infantry, nine squadrons of cavalry and twenty guns; the Fourth and Sixth divisions, or thirty-six battalions of infantry, nine squadrons of cavalry, 108 guns, one separate cavalry brigade of eight squadrons, a separate artillery brigade of 108 guns, and reserve brigades, comprising twenty-four battalions of infantry, nine squadrons of cavalry and twenty-six guns; total strength of Oku's army, sixty battalions of infantry, twenty-six squadrons of cavalry and 242 guns. Gen. Nodzu commands the Fifth and Sixth divisions, or thirty-six battalions of infantry and six squadrons of cavalry. Including reserve, Nodzu's army consists of forty-four battalions of infantry, nine squadrons of cavalry and 120 guns.

MYSTERIOUS MURDER OF AUSTRIAN FARMER

George Judnich Shot By Stranger on Farm Near Eveleth.

Was Dead Before His Hired Man Could Reach Him.

Various Rumors Advanced as to Cause of Awful Deed.

Eveleth, Minn., Oct. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—George Judnich, an Austrian farmer living near Wolf station, four miles from here on the Duluth, Missabe & Northern road, was shot and instantly killed, about 6:30 o'clock last evening, by an unknown man.

Judnich was working on the farm at the time and was just preparing to go to his evening meal. His hired man was in the barn bedding the stock for the night. Suddenly the man heard a shot and a cry. Running from the barn he saw his employer lying, face downward, on the ground, and a strange man carrying a smoking rifle, just making his way off across the farm. The hired man was dazed at the suddenness of the tragedy, and hesitated whether to give chase to the stranger or go to the assistance of his employer. He knelt beside the fallen man and saw at a glance that he was dead. Meanwhile the strange assassin fled. Judnich was shot through the body and must have expired almost instantly, as he was dead when his employee reached him. Judnich was an Austrian, about 50 years of age. He was possessed of considerable wealth, and was formerly engaged in the contracting business at Eveleth, dealing in ties, logs and posts. He purchased the farm near Wolf station but recently, and moved his family to it during the past summer. He leaves a wife and six small children.

The identity of the assassin and the cause for the crime are unknown. Judnich had no quarrel with anyone. He was a peace-loving man, and was well liked by all who knew him. The sudden tragedy which ended his life has aroused a great deal of excitement here. Many explanations have been advanced as to the cause of the murder. It is believed that Judnich had a quarrel with one of his fellow-countrymen over a business deal, and that the latter had threatened to shoot Judnich if he did not comply with his demands. JOE JEFFERSON ANNOUNCES
HIS ABSOLUTE RETIREMENT
Veteran Actor, Who Has Spent More Than Seventy Years on the Stage, Will Never Act Again—
Goes to Florida For Winter.

New York, Oct. 1.—Joseph Jefferson, after more than 70 years on the stage, during which time he has become one of the most honored and beloved members of the dramatic profession, has decided absolutely never to resume his theatrical career. Dearest regret was expressed by all who heard him make the announcement.

Mr. Jefferson arrived here from Boston where he had rested a few days, recuperating from his recent illness at Buzzard's Bay, which caused the abandonment of his fall tour. He is now in the city, and will remain here for a few days, before he goes to Florida, stopping in Washington for a time and again in Atlanta.

When the decision was ultimately reached, he quietly announced it to his family. "I never shall act again," he said. "My days upon the stage are ended."

Once the decision was made and its first feeling of solemnity had passed, Mr. Jefferson became more cheerful. "It will seem strange at first to act no more," he added, "but I shall soon get used to that, and I shall begin to enjoy what I have looked forward to these many years—my long, long holiday, in which I shall enjoy uninterrupted nature in out door life, my painting, my books and pleasant companionship with wife, children and dear friends. I begin my holiday at last."

He is estimated that 200 Chinese refugees are now at Mukden, but the natives appear unintelligent. In view of the possibilities of the situation, the native authorities are shipping grain outside of the fighting line, preparing against famine. The natives have food and the wooden ports of their houses have been used for firewood.

BURGLARS MAKE HAUL AT PHILADELPHIA SUBURB.

Philadelphia, Oct. 1.—The safe in the postoffice at Rosemont, a suburb, was blown open by dynamite early today and money and stamps aggregating about $200 stolen. Postmaster Stillwagon says that at the close of each month dividend checks amounting to between $500 and $10,000 are sent to wealthy suburbanites and that many letters containing such checks were stolen.

NEW TACTICS
Rendered Necessary By First Stage of War.

Mukden, Oct. 1.—(By Way of Khabarovsk, Eastern Siberia, Oct. 1.)—The prolonged activity on both sides, emphasizing a new situation, clearly shows that the battle of Liao Yang was rightfully described as a battle of necessary reformation of tactics by the Japanese and rehabilitation of the Russian army. It is therefore, supposed that the Japanese are entering upon a new stage of the war, and that they will still attempt a flanking movement east.

The contest has reached a stage possessing whatever dignity is due in war to antagonists having the highest mutual respect, and has entered upon the more serious application of the uncertain element to meet the proved fact that if the Russians are caught in a decisive conflict it must be on their own ground and with their full knowledge. It is, therefore, supposed that the Japanese are entering upon a new stage of the war, and that they will still attempt a flanking movement east.

REVOLUTIONARY LEADER SHOT BY HIS FOLLOWERS.

Buenos Ayres, Oct. 1.—It is rumored that Gen. Basilio Munoz, leader of the Uruguayan revolutionists, has been shot by his former followers. Gen. Munoz succeeded to the leadership of the Uruguayan revolutionists after the death of Gen. Aparicio Saravia recently. Munoz soon afterwards arranged peace with the government, but eight revolutionary leaders, including two members of the family of Saravia, announced that they declined to recognize the action of Munoz and that they would continue hostilities under Gen. Pamplon.

KING RECOVERS QUICKLY.
Dresden, Saxony, Oct. 1.—King George, who was so ill Wednesday, that his family assembled at Filitz, the summer residence of the Saxon court recovered in a most astonishing manner and went out driving for half an hour on Friday. He drank light wines and champagne for dinner yesterday, and followed it with a glass of beer, according to German custom.

GERMAN PLANS SOLD TO RUSSIA
Designs of Submarine
Boat Have Been Sent Abroad.

Kiel, Oct. 1.—Although the directors of the Germania shipbuilding works said yesterday that Herr Barkner, chief of the confidential bureau of the Germania works, had not been arrested for selling military secrets to a foreign power, it appears to be nevertheless true that he is under suspicion of selling the plans of ships to another German firm, and it is known the German navy departments perfected plans for the construction of submarine boats have in some manner come into the possession of the Russian government, whether through Barkner or not is not clear. The navy department has been experimenting for two years, with submarine boats, and committed a design, some months ago, for a new submarine boat to the Germania works to execute. It is a copy of this plan that is reported to have reached Russia.

A WHISTLE LURED

A Pretty Governess In Massachusetts to Her Death.

Girl's Hand Clutched Stone In Death's Firm Grip.

Beverly, Mass., Oct. 1.—Those who have investigated the mystery of the death of Bessie G. Davis, aged 23, of Beverly Farms, the beautiful young governess and soprano soloist, whose body was found in the breakers off Lee's beach, a stone from the beach clutched in the right hand, are inclined now to the belief that the girl was murdered. Whether she leaped into the sea and was drowned, or whether she was killed and her body hurled over the cliffs, has been puzzling the authorities. Her hat, coat and gloves were found on the beach. There were wounds on the girl's forehead that would indicate that she was slain with some heavy weapon.

One rather peculiar feature was that the eyes of the girl when found were tightly closed. In drowning the eyes are usually found open. There was no evidence of fracture of the skull and the doctors said last night that the wound might have been caused by some instrument or falling from a rock, head downward. The tide was not high at the time that death is supposed to have occurred, and the promontory abounds in jagged rocks which might have caused just such wounds as were found on the body. The girl was found in a perfectly healthy condition, and the doctors said that there was no evidence of an assault. According to Dr. Stickney, associate medical examiner, the wounds were not necessarily fatal. He would not say whether death was caused before or after the body went into the water.

When Dr. Stickney was at the beach he saw pieces of note paper there. It was in fragments. He had it picked up by Chief Ferguson. It read like this:

"Illness . . . You death . . . funeral . . . Other than I should serve you. . . also . . . could circumstances of his life . . . I am a correspondent for . . ."

Whether this has anything or not to do with the case is a question, but the police are keeping it, hoping that it may lead to a clue which would help to unravel the mystery.

Sunday evening about 7 Miss Davis left her home, and it was thought she was going to attend services at the Second Baptist church, of which she was a member. During the evening Mr. and Mrs. Davis were entertaining company, and among those present was Edward Merrill, of Chelsea, a relative. Mr. Merrill asked Bessie if she was going to church, and she jokingly replied, "I have a date."

Nothing more was thought of the remark, and the family supposed that she was on her way to church.

Later in the evening she was seen by George Hawkins, a milkman, and Miss Elsie Williams going toward the beach and they asked her if she was not afraid to be out alone. She replied that it was a fine moonlight night and that she had no fear.

Miss Davis has been employed as governess in the family of Otis H. Lukes, at the Wayside cottage, Beverly Farms, for some time, and when she did not return home at an early hour her family left a light key out for her and also left the light burning in the hall.

The body was found floating in the surf off Lee's beach about 10 o'clock in the morning by Frank Williams, of Beverly Farms, who, with others, was searching for the missing girl.

Hawkins, the milkman, told the following story:

"Shortly after 7:30 o'clock in the evening I was proceeding through West street, when I saw Miss Davis walking hurriedly along.

"Just before I reached her she headed for the path, which extends through the Lee estate to the beach.

"I turned to a man who was with me and said: 'I should think she would be afraid to travel in such a lonely spot.'

"Hardly had the words left my mouth when there came a shrill whistle, seemingly from a clump of trees beyond.

"It appeared as if the girl waved a greeting with her hand, and, thinking it was simply a meeting with a friend, I remarked:

"Oh, I can understand now. There is someone waiting for her."

"I gave no further thought to the incident until Miss Davis' death was reported.

"If a male companion was in waiting the darkness and bushes perfectly concealed his identity, for I was not able to obtain even the slightest glimpse of him."

ASKS COURT FOR DIVORCE

Mrs. Catherine Glader Asks For a Legal Separation.

The marriage experience of Mrs. Catherine Glader has lately made her sadder and this morning she filed papers in district court asking for a decree of divorce from John Aaron Glader, alleging desertion since Sept. 10, 1902.

In her complaint she alleges that she is 48 and her husband 42 years old. They were married at Stillwater, Minn., Jan. 22, 1884, and have no children.

Mrs. Glader asserts that she is destitute and without means of living, while her husband, who is in good health, occupies a lucrative position at Chisholm. She asks for a divorce, alimony and her attorney's fees.

WONDERFUL RESULTS OF CHIROPRACTIC

Drs. Riesland & Konkler Accomplish Marvels in the Cure of Disease.

Convincing Testimony From Reliable Men and Women at the Head of the Lakes.

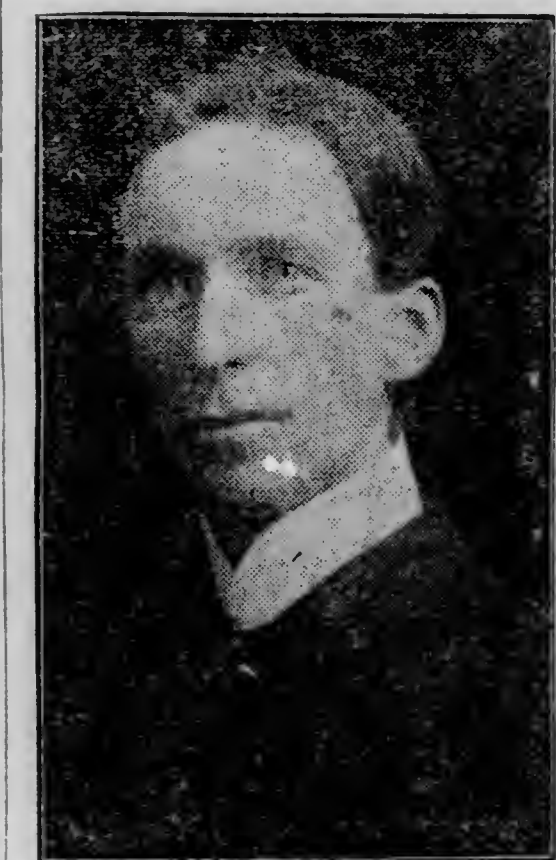

DR. D. W. RIESLAND.

DR. WM. H. KONKLER.

APPENDICITIS CURED.

For several years past, I suffered with a severe pain in my right side, in the region of the appendix. I consulted several physicians of this city but found no relief. I finally had a thorough examination by a surgeon of this city and he pronounced it appendicitis, and said I must have an operation. I decided to try Dr. Riesland first, so began taking his treatments, and began gaining from the first treatment. Am now entirely relieved from the pain and feel well. Drs. Riesland and Konkler saved me from a dangerous operation.

CHRONIC RHEUMATISM.

For over ten years prior to April 25th, I had been a sufferer from rheumatism, being at times completely helpless, and confined to my bed. I was laid up all last winter, after trying all other so-called cures, but no relief. A friend recommended me to go to Dr. Riesland and Konkler, the Chiropractic doctors, No. 340 Palladio building. After four treatments I began to feel relief and was able to raise my arm, and improved right along, and was completely cured in two months treatment. Any one afflicted with rheumatism or any other ailments I sincerely believe that these doctors with their science can cure.

I give this testimonial in hopes that some other sufferer may be relieved, will cheerfully verify this statement to any one calling on or writing me. Would recommend any and all sufferers to consult these doctors free of charge at their office, Palladio building.

This Spine Needs Fixing: So Does Yours If You Are Not In Perfect Health.

OPERATION AVOIDED.

To all who may be afflicted with disease in any form this letter is written with the hope that some one may be benefited thereby.

On August 21st, I was taken with severe pains in my right side in the region of the appendix. After considerable suffering a medical physician was called and he pronounced my case appendicitis, and urged an operation.

After putting it off for a week he told me that in order to save my life, I should be operated on before morning. As the matter assumed a more serious aspect I decided that something should be done immediately.

And not having much faith in the efficacy of modern surgery, and not improving under the medical treatment, I decided to call in a chiropractic doctor, and accordingly summoned Dr. D. W. Riesland of Duluth. I had not heard of Dr. Riesland previously, but that I would consent to an operation as a last resort only.

After Dr. Riesland examined my spine he told me I did not have appendicitis at all, but ovarian trouble, and treated me accordingly. Later symptoms appeared that proved him correct.

The first treatment relieved me, and in three days I was out of bed. In one week from the day I took the first treatment I went to Duluth and received a treatment at the office. I kept up the treatment twenty-two, and while I am not entirely cured, I intend to keep on taking the treatments, until I can say that I am entirely well. And if my recovery continues as rapidly as in the past, I can safely say that it will only be a matter of a short time until I will be cured completely.

One pleasant feature of Chiropractic is, that treatments are not at all painful, and are of only one or two minutes duration.

Also, the courtesy and kindness received from Drs. Riesland and Konkler; I can not let pass by unmentioned, and I assure all that the same kindness I received will be given them—no matter what your ailment may be.

Hoping this will reach some one suffering as I did, especially one who has been led to delusion by the medical doctors, will be interested and benefited, and recommending suffering humanity to Chiropractic the new form of treating disease, I am sincerely,

VERA M. HERBER,
154 Tower Avenue, Superior, Wis., Sept. 21, 1904.

CURED OF DIABETES.

This is to certify that I have been cured of that dreadful disease diabetes by Drs. Riesland and Konkler, Chiropractic doctors, after I had given up all hope of ever being well again. When commenced taking Chiropractic treatment, the disease had reached an advanced form, but the doctors have made me a well man. I am convinced that Chiropractic is a most marvelous science, and earnestly entreat all those who suffer from the diseases of any nature, to go to Drs. Riesland and Konkler, no matter how far advanced the disease may have become. Since coming to the doctors for the first Chiropractic adjustment, I have seen many other wonderful cures effected, and it is my firm belief that if it were not for Chiropractic I would be in my grave today. Will cheerfully give my statement to any one calling on or writing me.

Chiropractic Is Nothing Like Osteopathy.

DRS. RIESLAND & KONKLER,

CURE AND TEACH OTHERS TO CURE.

Chiropractic has proved this fact to be indisputable: No person can remain sick if the vertebrae of the spine are in place. The best constructed machinery will occasionally get out of place, and finally stop running altogether, unless adjusted by a competent machinist. It is the same with the human body—the most perfectly constructed of all machinery and the most abused. Chiropractic adjusts, and nature effects a cure. Perfect health follows perfect adjustment. If your spine is luxated, there are pinched nerves. If a nerve, or set of nerves are pinched there is disease at the end of those nerves. This is as certain as that night follows day.

Many cases of years standing are cured in One Week's Treatment.

There are cases that come to Drs. Riesland and Konkler that are cured permanently in ONE chiropractic adjustment. Other cases are completely cured in a week, still others require longer treatment. But whatever the disease, it must yield finally to chiropractic. If the most skeptical person would spend one hour's time in the doctors' offices any afternoon they would be furnished proof of its marvelous power that would be absolutely indisputable.

When it is considered that those who go to the doctors are generally the ones who have tried medicines and drugs without avail, and who are really almost without a vestige of hope, the work accomplished must be considered almost miraculous. But there is nothing supernatural about it; it is a science, founded on absolutely correct and common sense principles, and the day is rapidly approaching when it will be recognized by all, as it is now recognized by many of the leading men of the medical profession all over the world.

PEOPLE ARE SKEPTICS.

When anything new, in the light of a radical departure from what people have been educated to believe, is brought before them, it is human nature to be skeptical. The man who invented the telegraph, the man who discovered the circulation of the blood were at first both looked upon as lunatics or fakirs. But nothing can down Truth. Many other great discoveries, which at first met only with scorn, have been recognized as blessings for scores of years.

The science of Chiropractic but a few years ago was unknown. Today it is known only in communities where it has accomplished marvelous results in the cure of disease. People must believe the evidence of their senses. If a person comes to a Chiropractic doctor with a disease which medical doctors have failed to cure, and that person is completely restored to health, he must believe. He is not tangled up with long technicalities. The Chiropractic doctor tells him why he is sick, and proves that he is correct by giving the patient treatments that allow nature to restore him to health.

If you are slightly "under the weather," or if you are within the shadow of the grave's dark portal, you need chiropractic; you should see Drs. Riesland and Konkler. The doctors' offices are located in the Palladio building, Suite 707-8-9-10, and they welcome all sufferers or those who desire information of any nature on chiropractic. No charge is made for advice or consultation, and it would indeed seem that to consult Drs. Riesland and Konkler is a duty that every sick and discouraged man or woman owes to himself or herself.

DAVID B. HILL

Denies That He Will Wed May Irwin.

New York, Oct. 1.—Former Senator David B. Hill has denied the report that he was engaged to marry May Irwin, the comedienne.

"That's a campaign lie," he said. "But you don't think it is libelous?" "Oh, no. Any man could be proud to have his name associated with Miss Irwin's, but you know I have been a bachelor too long now."

"Couldn't you fall in love at your age?" "That depends. The poet says love is uncontrollable."

"Did you ever love?" "I have an idea Indiana is going Democratic," said the sage of Wolfert's roost, as though he were answering the question.

CROOKS FOLLOW ONE LINE.

"Criminals seem to be the strongest kind of fatalists," remarked Judge Nott, of Philadelphia, recently. Judge Nott is widely known as an authority on criminology, and his long experience as prosecutor, judge and lawyer, has given him unusual opportunity of studying scientifically the causes and characteristics of crime.

"I have noticed that when a criminal is arrested after finishing one sentence, the second charge is generally the result of a crime almost exactly the same as the one which first got him into trouble. It seems like a strange kind of fatality. Two known instances where one criminal has been arrested and punished five or six times on charges exactly the same. 'What makes them do it?' I don't know. It is to be the case. It has occurred to me, and possibly this is the simplest explanation, that the reason for a criminal adhering strictly to one line of work, is the same as the fascination which holds a gambler to a table although luck is against him.

"Each failure or each loss shows the victim a point which he has hitherto been ignorant of, and it is easy to convince himself that next time he will escape that mistake.

"And so it goes. Even the next time, just one more chance, and then another, ever confident that the luck must change, and that each turn of the wheel leaves him just that much better equipped and that much more likely to win, finally. Then, there is the desperation, the unconscious and gritty determination to make a success of the thing.

"If he fails, and is arrested, convicted and punished, the process of the law simply goes to show him wherein his first job was bungling and poorly carried out. The first feeling of resignation that follows the utterance of the sentence, when he tells himself that next time he will not repeat the error which led to his detention on the present occasion. No sooner is he out of the penitentiary than he begins again to try his luck, this time carefully avoiding the mistake which first brought him to grief.

"It is a well-known fact that no criminal, no matter how expert or how daring, can cover up all his tracks. The very best of them will leave at least one loophole, will commit at least one error which eventually betrays the guilt on him. The poorer criminals leave clues according to their skill or experience. So our imaginary crook, the second time he plans a job, while he carefully avoids a repetition of his error, is almost sure to make some other one. And so on, each succeeding crime and detection pointing out to him the lines of his weakness, so that he is irresistibly led onward to his destruction."

LAWN WAS STOLEN.

Thieves Came at Night and Stole It.

Minneapolis, Oct. 1.—Daring robberies often puzzle the Minneapolis police, but few are so mysterious as the theft of M. Silver's lawn from his place at 571 Sixth avenue north. The thieves came in the night with a wagon, rolled the lawn into a bundle and hauled it away.

Mr. Silver's lawn has been in an im-perished condition all summer and a few days ago he had the entire surface resodded. Thursday morning he remarked to his friends that with the continued warm weather it would get a good start before freezing time.

Next morning his hopes were shattered, for his lawn was gone and nothing remained but the soft black loam. Wagon tracks near the curb told the story. The robbers came some time between 11 o'clock Thursday night and 5 o'clock Friday morning, doing their work well. No one saw the wagon come or go. All that remains for Mr. Silver is to order a new lawn with a burglar alarm attached.

THE GOLD FEVER

Has Laid Hold of the City of Calgary, Alberta.

The Boom Follows Rich Stakes in British Columbia.

"Two men walked into Calgary carrying over $9000 in gold on their backs, just a short time before I left there," said Charles McCallum, of Red Deer, Alberta, who is in the city this week, the guest of his brother Alfred McCallum, private secretary to Mayor Cullum.

Mr. McCallum is engaged in ranching in northern Alberta, having a ranch of about 800 acres of land in that country.

"There was quite a gold craze in Calgary during the summer. These men came from over the mountains in British Columbia from a district which has long been thought to contain gold. They had been in there for several months and they brought out all they could carry on their backs.

"This mining excitement and the rush for lands in Alberta has made the town of Calgary take on a wonderful boom during the past summer. It is next to impossible to get a bed for the night there now. The town is full of strangers hunting for land and looking for a place to settle.

"There have been going up with wonderful rapidity, and some large and substantial business blocks have been erected during the last few months. The people living there claim the population of the city has doubled. I haven't much doubt but that their statements are true. I passed through there about eighteen months ago, and when I came through this time I scarcely knew the city.

"Red Deer, where I live, is about half way between Calgary and Edmonton. The country through there is filling up very fast. When I went in eighteen months ago, I was on the outer edge. There wasn't anybody but me and Indians and wolves. Now there are settlers for twenty miles beyond my place.

"I have a much warmer climate than the country about Winnipeg, and strange as it may seem the people up in the Peace River valley, 600 miles north of us, claim to be able to grow corn. I don't know what truth there is in that story, but there are certainly plenty of settlers going up that way, and taking up land in what was once thought to be about the edge of the world.

"But they say they have earlier springs there than we have between Edmonton and Calgary on account of the prevalence of the Chinook winds from the coast." Mr. McCallum expects to return to Alberta this evening.

HAPPENINGS IN DAKOTAS

Grand Forks Woman Is Thrown From Carriage and Killed.

NORTH DAKOTA. Grand Forks—Mrs. D. McDonald was injured and three ladies driving with her were more or less injured by the shying of a horse. The horse took fright at a roll of wire used in street repairs out of the buggy and threw its occupants out. Mrs. McDonald was killed. The horse and her skull were crushed. Her husband is one of the oldest residents and a prominent business man. Mrs. Van Sickle had her nose broken and the badly cut. Miss Elizabeth Anderson was badly bruised and probably internally injured. The horse, owned by Mrs. P. F. Holmes, escaped with slight bruises.

Ellendale—The State Manual Training school enters upon its seventh year under the most favorable auspices of its history. Two years ago a new $50,000 building to relieve the congestion in the old building, with the growing demands, the board has been obliged to increase the faculty from seven to eleven teachers and to add music and military departments. The attendance is the full complement of the school and all signs augur a successful year.

Wheatland—Mrs. Chloe Fuller wants a divorce from V. L. Fuller, a farmer, for incompatibility of temper.

Fargo—Under the new ruling of the general land department, a special examiner has to be present when final proofs are taken at points other than land offices. Col. Lounsbury, of Fargo, as special examiner, is attending these meetings at different points over the state.

SOUTH DAKOTA. Huron—In the presence of her husband Mr. Robert Weinheim, aged 24, swam a quantity of carbolic acid with suicidal intent. Before doing so she told her husband good bye and he attempted to prevent the act, but physicians believe enough of the acid was taken to cause death. Her face and neck were badly burned. No motive is known.

Sioux Falls—J. H. Wilson, a forger of checks, who in addition to charges of forgery pending against him here is wanted by the authorities of Minneapolis, St. Paul, Mankato and Sioux City, and a man named Ryan, who was in the Lake Superior corporation, it is considered likely that the interested parties will take active steps to carry out the plans announced several weeks ago. At that time it was said the wire mill would manufacture copper wire, and that along with this copper bolts and other small articles would be turned out.

single mill at Manistique, in which he was employed, John Stager, aged 16 years, sustained the loss of his left arm, just below the elbow. While reaching over the machinery for a lever, he slipped and his arm just above the wrist became caught in the gear teeth of two cog wheels. Several employees were near by but were unable to render assistance by stopping the machinery until the teeth had done their work. Scarcely a cord remained unsevered.

Crystal Falls—Crystal Falls' light and water plant, now in its first year, is self-supporting. At the present rate of collections the income is a trifle over $8000 per year, while the current expenses amount to a little over $4000. There is a great deal of construction work being done this year in the line of changing wires, building extensions, etc., that goes to eat up the residue, but another year will see all of that work completed, together with an increased income from the enlarged service. When it is considered that the system is carrying the arc lights, from which there is no revenue, and affording fire protection, the record of the plant is considered remarkable.

Deadwood—Conductor G. L. Sanderson, who was hurt in a Burlington train wreck near Hill City, is dead of his injuries.

Mitchell—The Democrats of the fourth judicial circuit nominated Judge Brown, of Chamberlain, to run against Frank B. Smith, Republican nominee and present judge.

Spearfish—The body of Hiram Dotson, whose death occurred in Omaha, reached Spearfish Tuesday week. The funeral was largely attended. He was one of the pioneers of the Black Hills.

Elk Point—John W. Ryan, proprietor of the Elk Point Telephone Exchange, died at Sioux City, Iowa, of spinal meningitis.

Chicago is claimed as the birthplace of the telephone. At Michigan and Jackson boulevards, on the site of the present Stratford Hotel, in the old Gardner House, the first telephone was used in 1875, says the Chicago Journal.

The instrument was the invention of Henry C. Strong, a journeyman printer and a veteran of the civil war, who had served in the Ninety-third Illinois. Before the war he had learned telegraphy in New York city. It was during the war that the possibility of using a closed circuit on Morse instrument and transmitting sounds of the human voice by it occurred to him. As early as 1872 he interested the chaplain of the regiment, Rev. C. M. Barnes, in his theory.

In 1876 he set up the instrument, which he called "the Goddard single-coil telegraph sounder," in the room of the Howser School of Telegraphy, in the Gardner House. To the amazement of Dr. and Mrs. G. W. Howser, who were present at the experiment, Strong succeeded in securing communication with a station he had established at the stock yards.

In May, 1877, Strong patented his model, which consisted of an electric speaking telephone, a permanent magnet in a coil of insulated wire with a metal diaphragm. In the meantime, in 1876, the Bell company had secured a patent on an instrument which had been invented in the same year. Strong's patent infringed there, in no way, as the principle on which the Bell telephone operated involved the use of an electro-magnet, while the Strong instrument was connected with a permanent magnet.

In September, 1877, there was a fire in the United States patent office. At some time between May and December the Strong model disappeared. In December, 1877, the Bell Telephone company put in commercial use a model which bears a striking resemblance to the Strong.

The case of the Strong patent, vested in the Atlantic and Western Telephone company, against the Bell company, is now pending in the United States circuit court, Omaha. Cameron, the attorney who has charge of the Strong interest, is certain that he will prove the priority of the Strong patent. In the preliminary hearing before Judge Kohlsaat, Strong asserted that he was not only the first to use the closed circuit, but that he also was the first one to discover the possible use of wireless telegraphy.

Chicago is still the home of the predecessor of Bell and Marconi. Mr. Strong resides at 36 North Albany avenue.

THE VOTING MACHINES
ARE TO BE USED IN DULUTHIn Four Precincts For the

Church.REV. S. G. SMITH, OF ST. PAUL,
Pastor of People's church.

Closing words and hymn.
The Minnesota Women's Home Missionary society will hold an important business meeting here at 3 p. m. Tuesday afternoon.

When the date of the November elections arrives, the voters in four of the precincts of the city will have the opportunity of casting the first vote ever cast on a voting machine in a general election in Minnesota.

The voting machine was used in the annual election of the St. Paul Commercial club, but Duluth is the first city in the state to adopt its use, and on their part will depend to a great extent the success of its adoption in the other cities of the state.

Duluth is paving the way for their use in other parts of the state, and the experiment tried here in November will be an interesting one.

At first glance the machine appears a complicated one, owing to the array of keys, but when the method of operation has once been explained it is seen to be very simple, and just as easy of comprehension as the Australian ballot, if not easier.

All the drawbacks to the Australian ballot system are eliminated by the use of the machine. No votes can be lost through the ignorance of the voter. A vote cannot spoil by not being put through the machine.

The accompanying picture shows the machine as it stands ready to admit the voter. The lever at the top must be swung over before a vote can be registered, and the moving of this lever opens the curtain at the same time, shutting off the voter from the sight of the judges, and allowing him to register his ballot alone. Should he be unable, through ignorance to vote alone, a judge will enter with him and vote for him, just as he is allowed to mark a ballot for an illiterate voter.

After the voter is inside the curtain, and the machine is thus unoccupied, he pulls before him the names of the different candidates, rows of keys. Should he desire to vote the straight Republican ticket, all that he has to do is to pull down a lever and all of the keys opposite the names of the candidates on that ticket are pressed down. His vote is not yet registered, however. He must move back the lever that opens the curtain before it is registered, and during the time the curtain is closed, the machine registers his vote as many times as he likes, and any combination of candidates he desires.

For instance, should he have voted the straight Republican ticket and decide later that he wanted to vote for Martin Hughes for congressman in place of J. Adam Bede, all that he would have to do would be to press upon the key opposite Bede's name and then press down the one opposite the name of Hughes. He cannot press down the latter until he has pressed up the one opposite Bede's name, and in this way he is prevented from voting for two candidates on the same ticket.

Should he desire to change his vote and vote the straight Democratic ticket, all that is necessary is to sweep his hand down beneath the keys on the opposite side of the machine, restoring them to their places, and then pull the Democratic lever. He may vote as many times as he desires, and select any combination of candidates, but the machine prevents him from voting for two candidates on the same ticket.

When he has finally selected his ticket, he pulls the lever to open the curtain. This registers his vote, and the machine is locked so that no more votes can be registered until the curtain is again closed.

The machine is provided with two registers, which are visible from the outside. One marks the total number of votes which have been voted during the day. The other cannot be regulated without tampering with the machine. It runs from 1 to 1,000,000 and cannot be turned back until it reaches that number, when it reverses to 1 again.

The number registered on this dial before the polls open is 1,000,000. When the polls close, the number registered is the total number of votes cast. The difference between the two numbers is the number of votes cast during the day.

The whole three judges to open the back of the machine to get at the register. There are three keys, each judge having one, and no one key nor two keys will open the back, so that all of the judges must be present when the machine is opened at night to take the vote of the different candidates.

Small dummy machines will accompany the larger ones, and the judges can explain in a moment their methods of operation before the voters begin to vote. The row of keys along the top marked "yes" and "no" are for amendments to the constitution or charter.

known to the Spanish Inquisition. To add to the horror darkness came down on the mountains.

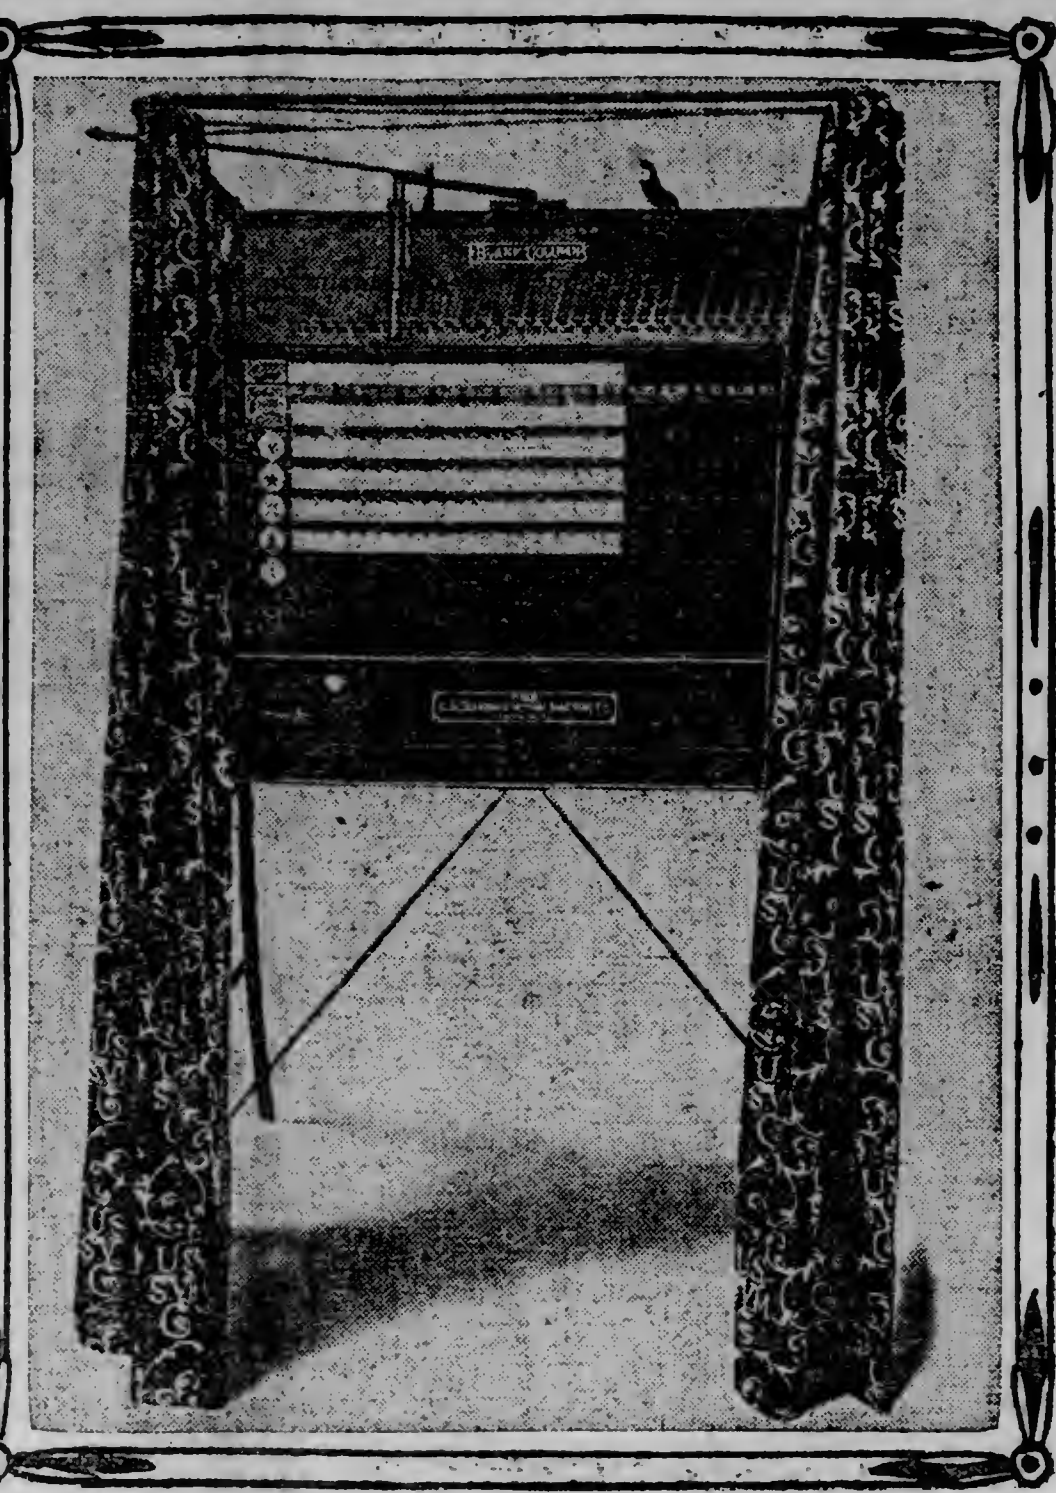

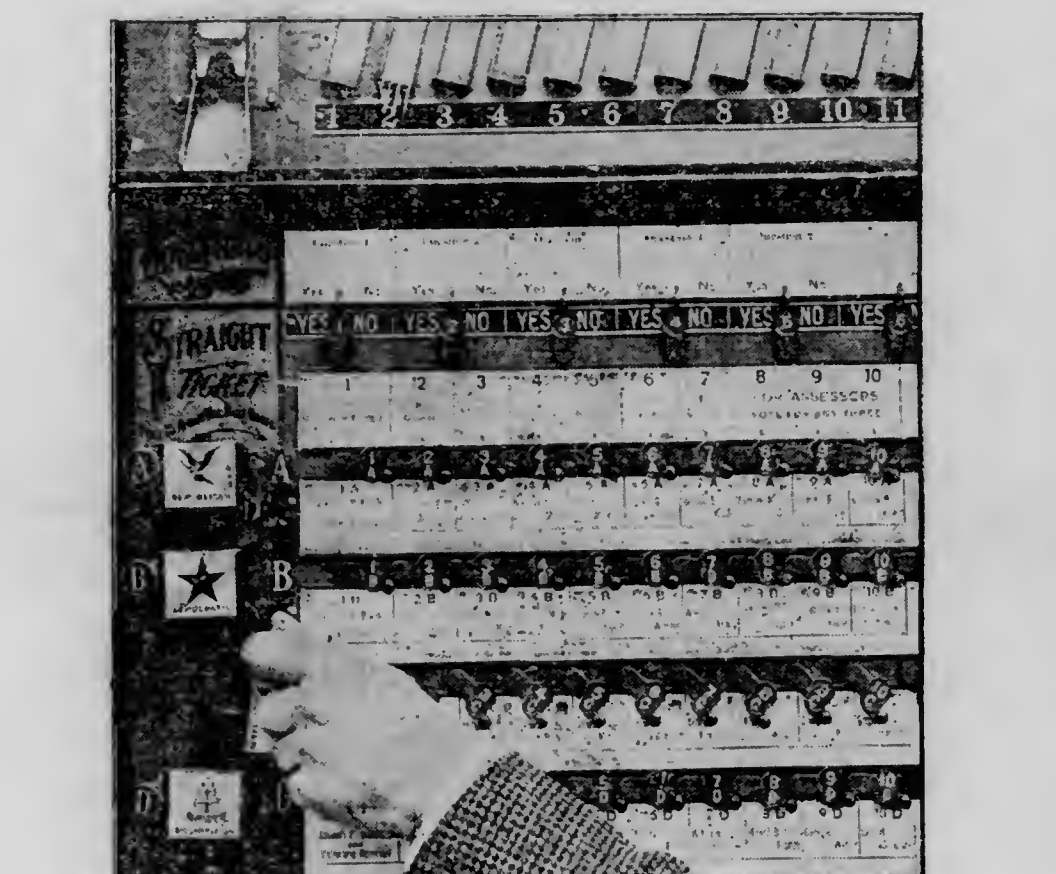

For twelve awful hours they held out. Then, when they felt that human nature could withstand the awful strain no longer, a welcome cry ran out. Light shone over the zinc. Their sister and brother helped.

Not till 11 in the morning—and she started for supper at 2 in the night before—did the rescue party reach the courageous girl and release her from her trying ordeal.

PET KITTEN
Brought the Coppers Out on Riot Call.

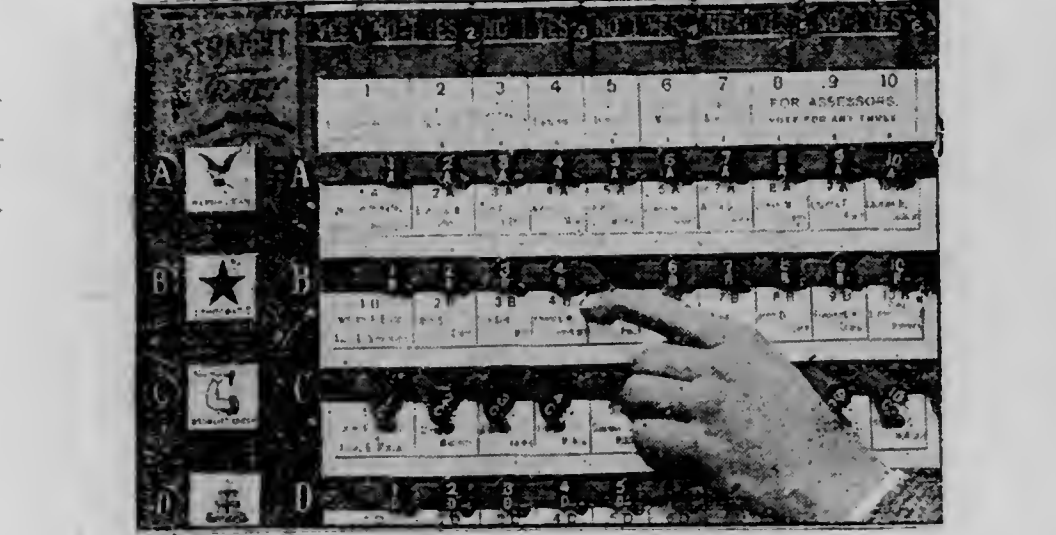

Pittsburg, Penn., Oct. 1.—A pet kitten belonging to one of the sergeants at central police station called out the reserve police force and sent in riot call, which brought all the officers sleeping in the station rushing in half dressed.

The electric buttons with which the calls are turned in are at the side of the sergeant's desk. The kitten, while in the vacant chair at the lunch hour, began playing with the buttons, with the result that both calls were sent almost simultaneously. Business was slow, but in a minute the officers were started to see two patrol wagons dash up from the stables, while half-dressed policemen ran in from all directions, carrying the remainder of their uniforms in their hands.

VIEW OF VOTING MACHINE, FOUR OF WHICH WILL BE USED IN DULUTH AT THE NOVEMBER ELECTION.

VOTING STRAIGHT TICKET.

Having closed the curtain, the voter pulls the lever bearing the name of his party over to the right until the bell rings. This turns down all of the pointers on his party to a voting position. He then moves the curtain lever back to its original position, which opens the curtain and records his vote.

VOTING SPLIT TICKET.

The voter pulls his party lever as in the case of voting the straight ticket. He then turns the lever to its original position the lever of the candidate he wishes to cut. In the view above he is shown doing this. In the view below he is pulling down the lever of the candidate for that office for whom he wishes to vote.

When he has done this in as many instances as he desires, he throws the curtain lever as before and leaves.

STOCKINGS AND LIMBS
Displayed By Fair Litigants on Judge's Order.

Columbia, Ga., Oct. 1.—There was a pretty display of hosiery in Judge Ray's court in the case of Mrs. Emily Richards against Mrs. Lizzie Armstrong. The women, who are young and handsome, were at odds regarding the ownership of a dozen pairs of silk stockings. Mrs. Richards alleged her washerwoman stole the stockings and sold them to Mrs. Armstrong. This the latter denied.

"I can't decide," said the judge, "unless I see the stockings," whereupon Mrs. Armstrong elevated her dress to a point just above the knee, saying: "These are my stockings."

"Why, they are my stockings," cried Mrs. Richards. "They match a pair I am wearing," and she elevated her dress to the knee, displaying stockings similar to those worn by Mrs. Armstrong.

"It's a pretty display of limbs and hosiery," said the judge, "but I'll have to dismiss the case. I suppose there are many ladies in Columbus wearing similar stockings."

RAILWAY WRECKS
FEW IN SWEDEN

Swedish Officials Claim That the Americans Are Too Careless—Probable Explanation Is They Employ So Much More Help There.

Storlien, Sweden, Sept. 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—They have at the larger stations a neat little trick of getting a few extra pennies out of the traveling public. This is by the sale of platform tickets. No one is admitted through the station to the tracks without a railway ticket or a platform ticket. These are sold in slot machines, same as chocolate and newspapers, and cost 10 ore, or nearly 3 cents. There is one advantage, it keeps the astounded crowd of loafers away, and by reducing the number of people, simplifies the transportation problem. But the main object is no doubt to get at the 12,000 crowns, the amount which the government collects last year from this source. The idea is, no doubt, imported from Germany or Italy where they know pretty well the way to the traveler's purse.

"Another big railway accident in America"—thus runs a stereotype heading in the Swedish newspapers. And in this respect we are unquestionably in the lead. There is probably no country in Europe, with the exception of Spain, where there are so many and disastrous accidents. To my question the American almost always gives the explanation or excuse that the trains are slower here. In this country they claim the Americans are too careless. It seems to me neither answer is correct.

It is true that our average train speed is higher. But their average is raised by the fact that their trains are nearly always on time. In Denmark they are never behind, it is said. Then, too, they rarely make shorter stops than a minute at a station. But grant the lower speed, there are still two other things to be remembered. They do run some trains with as high a speed as ours, and in England, even greater, but without accidents. Moreover, our accidents do not, as a rule, occur on the fastest trains, but on the excursion trains, freight trains and extra trains, which run with a comparatively low speed.

The explanation seems to me to be that here they employ too much help, perhaps fully twice as much. It would certainly be worth while to have a comparison based on the per passenger per mile ratio of the two continents. As a partial help, in comparison, I might take a country town in Illinois, where for many years there was an old man, over fifty years of age, who sold the tickets. He also acted as a baggage master, freight agent and express agent, and for all I know had to keep the fire in the stove going. The result was a terrific head-end collision, with loss of life and property, that drove the poor old man nearly crazy.

In Southern Sweden there is a small station where, I am sure, the traffic does not exceed the amount referred to in Illinois. And yet there are employed four men, a full grown man, a boy, a girl and a woman. It is true that they also attended to the mail, what little there was of it. Now, may have selected extremes, if so it is unintentional, but the force of the comparison remains. From a pure business standpoint it might seem to be just as cheap to employ more help and avoid accidents, big and small, to say nothing of endless law suits for damages.

Aside from the question of expense, there is no doubt that human life is around the railway station. In one instance a long well kept hedge with low trees, shrubs and a narrow lawn extended to the station. The hedge, to prevent trouble and to retain the help they have.

As an instance, it is worth mentioning that no walking is allowed on the railway track. Trespassers are immediately arrested, and the fine is quite an item. Under certain conditions yearly permits are sold—another source of revenue neglected by our railroads. These cost 3 crowns a year and cover a portion of the road. Such harmless sport as stealing a ride on the freight is, of course, intolerable. I would be sorry for the little boy caught in the effort, and the tramp is summarily dealt with.

In general our railway coaches are far superior. Being long and heavy, they have an easier swinging motion. The ordinary European coach is about one-third as long as ours and has only two pairs of wheels. In Germany I saw a variety with a third pair in the middle of the car. But these jolted worse than the others. The cars are divided into compartments, each with a door on both sides. These compartments are not, as a rule, connected by closing the hall door and seat while the train makes a short stop is quite ludicrous.

But in these latter days the Europeans have invented a combination of our through corridor cars and their own, called the "pullman." These coaches are used only on express and limited trains, are about as long as ours and consist of compartments for six to eight people in each. Along one side of the car runs a narrow passage enlarged at each end to a fair sized vestibule. A small party can thus quite often secure privacy in a compartment by closing the hall door and by drawing the curtain. For ladies this is especially advantageous and at the same time they need not have the advantage of being boxed in with a thief or maniac, as happened quite readily in the old style car. The same system is used in the sleepers where the lack of privacy in our Pullmans is certainly a bad feature. But so far I have failed to find any sleepers as smooth running as our best Pullmans. It seems to me that they are so heavy and have better springs.

Many a railroad in Sweden is built on a peculiar plan, a combination of private and public capital. Thus cities and towns or communities will subscribe for a block of shares in a projected railway through its territory. It is not always directed that the trains, which run with a comparatively direct benefit of better transportation and employment for more people is quicker than the roads would have been built in no other way. Then again in section of the country where it is impossible the government has built long stretches. It is now easy to go by rail nearly to the North-east corner of the country. The midnight Express, a special train, the Lappand Express, is run for the tourists who sold the tickets. They also tell me that if they prefer, they can return by steamer along the Norway coast.

This place, Storlien, as the heading gives it, is the highest point of the state railway forming a line that runs across Middle Norway and Sweden and the more southern portion. It lies nearly two thousand feet above the sea level. As the air is a peculiar and bracing mixture from sea and mountains, various popular summer resorts have been established. Even in the middle of August, we have at these a temperature near the freezing point. But the climate keeps one guessing. Rain and sunshine take turns several times an hour and on the top of the hill, about 800 feet high, we had a snow-fall fight the other day. But the season is short. Even now most of the guests have been down.

A charming feature of the trip to this place is the never failing plantation life around the railway station. In one instance a long well kept hedge with low trees, shrubs and a narrow lawn extended to the station. The hedge, to prevent trouble and to retain the help they have. As an instance, it is worth mentioning that no walking is allowed on the railway track. Trespassers are immediately arrested, and the fine is quite an item. Under certain conditions yearly permits are sold—another source of revenue neglected by our railroads. These cost 3 crowns a year and cover a portion of the road. Such harmless sport as stealing a ride on the freight is, of course, intolerable. I would be

BRAVE LITTLE
MONGOOSEIt Saved the Life of a Man Who Had Treated It Kindly—A Remarkable Story.

One sultry afternoon a gentleman who was staying in India was lying in a hammock swung on the veranda of his bungalow, says Pearson's Weekly. He was whiling away the time eating fruit and biscuits, when all at once he saw a little sharp-nosed, bright-eyed creature, all covered with smooth fur and looking something like a handkerchief and some thing like a squirrel, come creeping slyly along the floor. He threw it a bit of banana, which at first startled it, and it acted as though it was going to run, but pretty soon it seemed to think better of it, and turned back and snatched up the morsel. The gentleman grew interested and gave it some biscuit crumbs, which it ate, by degrees becoming more familiar and inclined to make friends. Just then someone approached and the creature ran away.

Then the gentleman was taken very ill with a fever, and one day when he was just beginning to recover he sent his servant away and composed himself to take a nap. Just as he was about to doze off into dreamland he saw a horrible sight. Describing it, he says:

"Creeping into the room from the veranda, a coil after coil, was a huge hooded cobra, the deadliest snake in all India, more than seven feet long, and as thick as a man's arm. It was moving with a fairly dumb with horror, and then, although I knew it was no use, I instinctively called for help, but my voice was so weak that it couldn't even have been heard in the next room."

"On came the snake, rearing up its horrid spotted head just preparing to crawl up, when I heard a skirl of tiny feet across the way, and I saw my faithful rat friend, little Tommy, the brave little fellow never hesitating a moment, but went right at the cobra like a tiger and gave it a bite that drew blood like the cut of a knife."

The result of the matter was, Tommy and the snake fought a duel, and upon his victory depended the life of the sick man. Again and again the rat-squirrel attacked the reptile, biting and biting, and always escaping the cobra's blows, until at last the rat-squirrel actually bit off the snake's head. But just as this happened, the snake in its flopping knocked some glass off a table and the attendant in the house, hearing the crash, came rushing in.

As it turned out, the little rat-squirrel was what is known as a "mongoose." The creature is the greatest serpent-killer in the world. Thus this gentleman, by making a pet of the little mongoose, had found a friend that actually saved his life.

DOZEN SNAKES
In Dress Suit Case Station Agent Opened.

Janesville, Wis., Oct. 1.—Car cleaners at the Northwestern yards discovered a black dress suit case under a car seat. The station agent attempted to open the case in the waiting room.

When the lid was raised, a large, full-grown rattlesnake was seen coiled up and emitted a warning hiss as he attempted to bury his fangs in the agent's hands. A dozen snakes uncoiled themselves before the lid was thrust down.

Several women in the waiting room at the time fainted, and it was not until the snakes were locked in a closet that peace was restored.

WENT THROUGH TRYING ORDEALGirl Holds Man Hanging Over Edge of Crevasse For Thirteen Hours.

The heroic records of ancient Greece contain no tale of bravery or endurance more worthy of remembrance than the act of a modern Circassian maiden—Mile. Hadjiazar, says the London Standard.

On Saturday M. Hadjiazar, a member of the Circassian section of the Alpine club, set out with his two sisters from Zinal for the mountains. Relying upon his experience as a climber and great knowledge of that part of the range he did not take a guide.

For five or six hours all went well with the intrepid three. Roped together, they successfully scaled the Grand Cornet. The difficult piece of climbing did not leave them. They felt sure of themselves. The girls were innocent of thought of danger, so completely did they rely upon their brother, who was first on the rope.

They looked forward to the descent of the Glacier de Saury. It is not regarded as difficult, but all glaciers have one epic of danger—a crevasse. At the height of 12,000 feet, or less, they were some hours of mounting before they had reached the crevasse.

M. Hadjiazar, anxious for his sisters' safety and feeling the heavy responsibility upon him, was just preparing to crawl up, when I heard a skirl of tiny feet across the way, and I saw my faithful rat friend, little Tommy, the brave little fellow never hesitating a moment, but went right at the cobra like a tiger and crevasse. He bent forward to test the foothold. Securely he was on his hands and knees before the treacherous snow gave way beneath him. His sister, who was on the rope had but a few seconds to blink and her life was over. Her nerve never left her. She pulled her full, over the crevasse, she braced herself with one leg on each side and tore her brother's weight upon her hips.

What could he do? M. Hadjiazar called that he could not climb up. He did not even try, lest his sister's strength should give out as he tugged at her in the effort.

Rapidly the sisters made up their minds. The one at the end of the rope undid her belt and threw it over the edge. "Would she get there safely? The brother, in danger, the sister supporting him upon her hips as she stood astride the crevasse in an attitude only a woman could have kept for long, while the brother clung to the rope as if the strain would send her mad. The rope cut into her hips and the pain was excruciating.

Her brother tried to ease her by sitting down on to them, but he dare not attempt to climb. A slip would mean death for both in the depths. As he looked and heard encouraging words to her the water fell drop by drop upon his forehead, in imitation of the greatest torture greatest significance to the public. The light here, is elsewhere, he finds, is for self-government, representative of all the people. He keenly analyzes the opposing forces and defines the issues. He tells us that the "new era" is the did history of "Enemies of the Republic," and the disturbing stories of civic and commercial disgrace which will mark the new era. The author tells us that he is inspired by the sketch of George William Curtis—"Friend of the Republic," the editor well states him—by Carl Schurz. Here is a most attractive and interesting portrait of a German American gentleman, the ideal citizen, written by one who knew and appreciated his great worth. It affords a welcome contrast to the portrait of a German American scoundrel.

Within the very attractive cover of the October Popsicle magazine you will find a wealth of reading matter far above the average of the other magazines devoted wholly to fiction. There are two interesting complete novels, My Sister Sam and My Sister Sam, both of which has a synopsis, for the convenience of new readers. Among the many writers represented in the one hundred and thirty-two pages are: Pemberton, E. Phillips Oppenheim, Louis Joseph Vance, Richard Marsh, Scott Campbell, Charles Steinfort Pearson, and Sam Bernard are among the theatrical celebrities who contribute entertaining bits of personal reminiscence in this month's "Little Stories of the Stage."

Ainslee's novelette in the October number is by Anne Warner, who, though a comparatively new writer, is already the author of a successful book, "A Woman's Will." The novelette is sure to make a hit, and a big one, for it is one of the most entertaining stories, long or short, that has appeared in a long time. It title is "The Maid and the Widow." It has the great advantage of novelty, for it takes the reader far from the beaten tracks and familiar fields of fiction into an entirely new atmosphere, among new people and new scenes. It is an extremely clever piece of work.

"Some Japanese Superstitions" is the title of Helen Hyde's latest letter to the Argonaut. She writes of some of the quaint customs employed by the little brown people to ward off danger in battle, and tells some of their legends. The letter, as usual, is very human, and gives a good picture of a peculiar phase of Japanese life. It appears in the issue of Sept. 26.

The first article in the October number of the Four-Track News is a very interesting little sketch of beautiful Ceylon, under the heading "Where Every Prospect Pleases," from the facile pen of Kirk Munroe: "Governor's Island," by Jane W. Guthrie; "Johnson Hall," by R. J. Honeywell; "How the Atlantic Greyhound Runs," by H. H. Hancock; "Trollhattan and the Get-a-Elf," by Grace Isabel Colbron; "The 'Ben Hur' Room," by William MacLeod Ralme; "The Shakers of Mount Lebanon," by William Wait; "The Pyramid of Cholula," by George F. Paul; "Elmwood," by George F. Paul; "Home of Love," by James Melvin Hughes; "Ancient Bruges," by Charles B. Wells are interestingly written articles whose titles are self-explanatory.

The first installment of David Graham Phillips' new novel, "The Plum Tree, or the Confessions of a Politician," is a study in the art of concealment. It starts out in a strong, vigorous, epigrammatic manner, and the author's style is as good as things. George Brooks, the noted English journalist, contributes a somewhat favorable opinion in the London Times of American Affairs. Mr. Brooks declares that there are living in British America four or five men who know more of our principal cities are located in the United States than any publisher who recently asked Justin McCarthy if the Mississippi river flows into the Gulf of Mexico. Brooks contributes another of his articles on American industries. This time he has a chapter on the cotton industry in relation to the financial centers of the world. Some of the facts that he gives are very unusual when they are regularly remarkable.

Lady Henry Somerset, who is prominent in philanthropic work in London, contributes an article to the Youth's Companion for Sept. 29 on "Children of the Slums." She tells of the distressing conditions amid which some London children are reared, and of the efforts made to acquaint them with lovelier aspects of life.

One of the most amusing things of the month is a story in the October issue of the 10 Story Book, by Hon. E. K. Harris, "The Honorable Member Who Remained Single." The humor of the congressman is always bizarre. Kenneth Harris has a strong social satire bent. He writes about "the Honorable Eggs," Another clever conceit is "Fooling Ned Eye Gulch," by William Hamilton Osborne. The story smacks a little of Bret Harte's "The Luck of Tim Nugus" and "Sabre C. Whitehurst," is seasoned for the taste of the jaded. Hayden Carruth makes fun in his own peculiar way in "The Courtship of the Fishwife." The cover is decidedly odd, inscribed with the 10 Story Book's watchword, "No essays, no serials, nothing heavy, just 10 snappy stories."

In the October Issue of Suggestion (Chicago) a magazine of the New Psychology for thinkers, will be found articles relating to rational hygiene, psychic research, suggestive therapeutics, personal magnetism, the development of will power, mental science, advanced thought and kindred subjects. The prominent idea advanced by the editors of Suggestion is that health, happiness and success may be secured by the proper exercise of natural inherent powers within the reach of all.

Collier's for Oct. 1 is a harvest number. It contains a striking article by Arthur Ruhl on "The Drama of the Harvest." The writer pictures the marvels of the great American harvest and shows how little our own people realize the real source and reason of our national supremacy. Collier's is running a series of articles on the forecast in doubtful states. In this issue the writer discusses the outlook in Illinois and concludes by saying that "while the politicians measure chances and discuss possibilities, the most noticeable thing about the people of Illinois in general is that they are attending to their various businesses and spending little time or thought on the coming election."

The new and notably high standard set by the Pilgrim for September is admirably maintained in this issue. While without any partisan leaning towards either the departing or the incoming year, the departure of Green touches upon the various phases of political and social life, and the new year, without neglecting topics of interest in the arts and sciences. The departure of the month is resumed the month's activities along all the lines that are of interest to the general reader. The new year's article is by Ada L. A. Marcutt, who may be called the most widely traveled of our contributors. She has spent Miss Marcutt dwelt with the family of a Japanese farmer in the very heart of the country, and has seen and treats of a little known and less appreciated phase of modern Japan—the agricultural life of the country, and especially of the farmer, his work, his home, his wife and his children, his pleasures and his religious beliefs by every one. The illustrations are among the most striking this excellent issue has. The new year's article which will make a direct appeal to mothers is by Staude Murray Miller, who has been a resident of Japan for papers under the general title, "The Child in the House," of which this

The leading feature of the current Harper's Weekly is, as usual, George Harvey's political comment. Other features of the current issue of the Weekly, which is a special World's Fair number, describing the New York state exhibit at the exposition, are a timely article on Frank Wland Higgins, the Republican candidate for governor of New York; an article on the "Commanders at Port Arthur," by Charles Johnson; an interesting character study of John Morley, the English statesman and author, who is soon to visit America; and some graphic photographs of current events.

The October number of the Review of Reviews covers not only the latest political news, but also the latest political opinion, including the Republican and Democratic conventions in New York State, but also the latest world news, together with a masterly survey of the war in the far East and its reultions to the United States, and the relations of the Russian peoples. In addition to the editorial discussion of the Democratic charges of extravagance against the President's administration, of the President's letter in acceptance of the election results in Vermont and Maine, and of the election in New York, there is a most interesting sketch of Thomas E. Watson, the Populist candidate for Governor of Georgia, and of Walter Wellman, the well-known newspaper correspondent.

that at the recent meeting of the Society of Chemical Industry, is set forth by Dr. Professor Charles Baskerville. The triumph of Swiss engineers in constructing an electric railway up the steep incline of the Jungfrau is described by Dr. Hugo Frischen. The most completely automatic system in account of Japan's present financial condition that has appeared in any country, in any language, is contributed to this number of the Review of Reviews by Dr. J. H. Pomeroy. On the other hand, the details of Russia's industrial and business depression, as intensified by the present war, are most ably presented by Dr. E. J. Dillon, the famous correspondent and traveler.

Two entertaining and instructive papers are that on "The Problem of the 'servant girl' problem," by Frances A. Kellon, and "The Closed Shop," by Charles C. SHE SMOKED CIGARETTES

In an Auto and There
Hangs a Woeful
Tale.

New York, Oct. 1.—The cigarette that Miss Elaine Van Cortland Selover smoked on Sunday night spinning up Fifth avenue in an automobile, cost Frederick Norton, of London, England, £2 in Jefferson Market court. Perhaps it is not fair to say that Miss Selover's obacco roll was entirely responsible for the troubles of Mr. Norton, but it was the cigarette that shocked Bicycle Policeman Rensselaer and got him called a "booby" and a "blawsted nuisance" by Mr. Norton.

Mr. Norton was in haste to answer to the charge of disorderly conduct, referred by Rensselaer. Miss Elaine and Corliss Selover was not. Neither was Lillian Carlton. Neither was Tracy Farnum of Yale, who is staying at the Hotel Manhattan with his friend from London.

Norton is, if anything, a bit more than the typical Englishman. Dressed in a loose-fitting suit of tweeds, he looked like a college boy. Pool, through an eyeglass, turning his glance now and then coldly to the policeman.

"What's the charge against this man?" asked Magistrate Pool, briskly, then the Englishman's turn came. "Disorderly conduct," replied Kenschel.

"Well, I said," put in Norton.

"One moment," interrupted the magistrate. "Tell your story, officer."

"I was on duty on the corner of Thirty-third street last night," said the policeman, "when an automobile came along and I saw a young woman sitting all by herself in that machine, but I saw one of the ladies smoking a cigarette. I saw her throw away the burning end of smoke at me and then made my face. They wouldn't stop when I called to them. I went on to the corner of Thirty-fifth street I got to them and I said to the young woman that she was smoking a cigarette and she threw a cigarette on the street. Then they all pitched into me and I never got such a beating as that. I was hurt all over. I pointed to the Englishman was the worst of the lot. He told me, your honor, that I was a damned fool and that I'd get my damned head cracked if I butted in. Then they were all laughing at me."

"Well, about that, Mr. Norton," asked

"Why it was nothing but a folly rank on the part of one of the ladies. Really, I can't see why it was necessary for this person to interfere with me. I shall fine you $2," Mr. Norton," said Magistrate Pool, "for not respecting the uniform of an officer."

Miss Van Selover, who was at her apartments in the Belmont yesterday afternoon, said she had given a name for the judge to fine Mr. Norton. "He is just as nice a gentleman as can be," said she. "Any man worth enough to blow him up could have given that policeman a good thrashing. We were riding up the avenue and the gentlemen were smoking. Somebody bantered to light a cigarette. Well, I never saw a dare, and I only intended to make a puff or two just for the sport of the thing, but when I saw the collector, I was so plainly shocked by my 'undelicate conduct,' I couldn't resist having fun with him. I was laughing at him, and he was very angry. He was very rude and very wicked about it all, and I really felt that I was being treated very badly. I don't think it is anybody's business a lady wants to smoke on the street. I was just sitting there, and he tried to settle with her own sense of the decency of things."

"Anybody that sticks to a certain street a long time will see a lot of things. There ain't no night things, but there are day things. Smoking is usually it is in a bad carriage of some sort, and I never thought it was my business to stop anybody from smoking in their automobiles. It's too immoral. I'm going to pinch every woman who ain't lady like, and I'm going to pinch every one out of her mouth in a public place. The Police Commissioner McDow says that if a woman smokes in a car, she's a Britisher, women may smoke as they choose as they choose while riding in automobiles, but if they smoke in a car, that's point was only an incident in the generally disorderly character of those in the automobile," said the collector.

BEMIDJI MAN

Falls Heir to Fortune Left By Aunt.

Bemidji, Minn., Oct. 1.—George Duran, who has been employed at various occupations in the city for the past three years, has received notice, through Attorney H. J. Loud, of the death of an aunt, who lived at Hull, England, and that in her last will and testament she had bequeathed all the fortune of which she possessed to her two nephews, the estate to be shared equally between them.

The estate upon which the old lady lived previous to her death, is the only remaining property of which she was possessor and is valued at $25,000. In addition to this she has on deposit in an English bank $8000 cash. Thus it will be seen that each of the heirs will receive $16,500.

Mr. Duran is known to a large number of Bemidji people and has made his home here for three years. He has many friends in the city who will be pleased to learn of his good fortune. He will leave about Oct. 15 for England to take charge of his share of the fortune.

THE ROMANCE OF A MINER

Pretty Scotch Lass Comes Across Atlantic to Wed Him.

Owosso, Mich., Oct. 1.—A romance which had its inception in Bonnie Scotland has just culminated here in the marriage of Miss Euphemia Brown Edinburg, to David Love of this city. The Rev. Mr. Clark, of St. Charles, Mich., officiated at the nuptials.

Two years ago in Scotland's ancient capital young Davy, an humble technician, sought the hand of Miss Brown, a beautiful and successful oil company capitalist. His suit was acceptably to the girl, but far from being a triumph, it was a disaster. He was firmly objected to an alliance between the daughter of his house and a poor boy from the north. His suit was forbidden access to the Brown home, and in sorrow, he crossed the ocean to find a new life in the oil business. The success of hard work in the coal fields of Michigan.

But the girl could not banish from mind the handsome and sturdy young workman who had won her heart. Letters came and went between them, and one day the girl returned to his side and told her his father had been swept away. They were married.

"No, dear papa," cried the girl her eyes moist and her cheeks aflame with love, "I have never loved any other man."

Undaunted by reversal of fortune, Uplumphia Brown applied for work in a factory where girls of her own age were employed in the manufacture of vests. She worked hard, but her work hurt her unaccustomed fingers, so she kept braving on until one day a member of the firm told her that for her efficiency she was to be the new superintendent. The next week she dashed off a letter to Davy in America, asking him to come once. But Davy wrote back that he had no money.

"I'll come to you then," wired the married man.

That is why the couple are receiving congratulations from their friends in wasso today.

THE WORLD OF SPORT AND ATHLETICS

IN AT THE FINISH

Chicago American Team Rallies and Pulls Up to Leaders.

New York, Boston and Chicago Running Neck and Neck.

The wonderful rally made by Comiskey's bunch of pennant-chasers is the all-absorbing topic among the baseball fans of the country, who are asking themselves whether the Chicago team can still win out in the American league race.

The race appeared to have narrowed down to the New York and Boston clubs, but just at the eleventh hour Chicago again decided to take a hand in the race, and during the last week has pulled up within halting distance of first place, the winners may be called. Yesterday's games still further increased the lead, and with but nine more games to play, the Chicago team is now in a position to win the pennant.

In Duluth the fans for the most part hope to see the Windy City bunch win out, although many are anxious to see New York lead the pennant, in order that the bluff being put by McGraw's bunch of pennant-chasers may be called. The season will come to an end next Saturday. New York has two more games in Chicago, and then Boston comes to three games, while New York goes to St. Louis. The Benneaters and the Yankees then return to New York to finish the season, while St. Louis goes to Chicago for three games. The winner is not likely to be known until the last game has been played.

The action of McGraw and Brush in refusing to play the winners of the American league is arousing the whole-sale condemnation of the fans, and will undoubtedly lose them more prestige than a defeat at the hands of the American league champions would.

The statement that the National league cannot recognize a "minor" league's claims to recognition is absurd, in the light of the fact that the aggregate attendance at the American league games during the season has exceeded that of the National league.

The champion Boston Americans were victorious last year in the post-season series with Pittsburgh, and still have a right to the championship of the country if they win out in the American league race.

The fans hope that sufficient pressure will be brought to bear on McGraw and Brush to make them play the season series with the American league champions, to settle the question of the supremacy of the two leagues.

BEST OF WESTERN FOOTBALL PLAYERS IS CAPT. HESTON

Hardest Kind of Practice Never Exhausts This Muscular Michigan Halfback.

Of Michigan's seven returning veterans, Football Capt. Heston, nicknamed "Touchdown" Heston, is the greatest. There was never before at Michigan a football player quite like Heston.

It is not the fact that last year he was the only western gridiron warrior to make the all-American eleven, nor the fact that of three western championships won by Michigan he has made nearly half the touchdowns, nor for any of these reasons that Heston is the Gibraltar of Michigan in 1904. His own teammates make most nearly to voicing Michigan's sentiment about "Touchdown" Heston.

"Gee," is the common expression of these men, "I wish I had a constitution like Heston's." They envy their captain's energy, and it is something wonderful. On the practice field, when men of greater muscular bulk stand exhausted by Yost's strenuous "hurry-up" drills, when even the veterans cannot speak for being winded, Heston will be singing a football song or turning handprayers.

Combined with this tireless nerve force, the Michigan captain has, the speed of a deer and carries around the gridiron, when in condition, about 200 pounds. His build conspires with these unusual qualities to make Heston a peerless half back. From shoulders to knees he is straight-hipped, built like a tree three feet thick.

Other ways and their prospects were recounted. Now that they have been nearly two weeks, and are getting in condition to do a little real work, the value of the men can be somewhat better estimated. Some of the new and likely looking candidates are already proving the futility of high school reputation as an index of football merit, while others of unsuspected possibilities are taking readily to the coaching and coming on fast.

HANDICAP
Must Be on Pitchers, Says Chicago Man.

The coming winter will see some changes in the rules of football in all probability. Either the abolition of the foul play or the abolition of some rule to offset it by handicapping the pitcher is a practical necessity if the game is to continue its prosperous career, says the Chicago Tribune. With the pitcher in the role of absolute monarch, the action of the game has become largely mechanical, so far as the average spectator is concerned. The game is fought and won by skill and science, which is lost when the pitcher is the only one who is confined to the curves and other wiles of the absolute monarch. There is not while the players are changing sides.

NEBRASKA TEAM'S BIG CENTER

GOPHERS STRONG

Chances For Fast and Heavy Team Are Good.

Hunter Is Hailed as a Second Eckersall at Quarter.

It is still too early in the season for the hope depends to commence figuring chances on the different football squads, but they all admit that Minnesota is again going to have a wonderfully heavy and fast team, if the men continue to show the good form and steady improvement of the last two or three weeks. The warm weather of the last week has had a depressing effect on the men, and has taken the glaze off of their work on the field, but in spite of this they rolled up a score of 14 points against the game players from the St. Luke's preparatory school, who played like a band of wildcats, bucking the heavy Minnesota line and showing all kinds of dash and spirit in their endeavors to lead the game.

Fred Hunter at second is hailed as a close end, and not an end at all, as the wonderful quarterback pulled by the Chicago team last season. Twice during the game against St. Luke's he scored touchdowns from the kick-off by wonderful dodging dashes down the field, made in spite of the fact that he was almost exhausted from the hard play in the sultry weather that prevailed. With Current, Kremer and Varco back of the line, Hunter is a trio that will give the St. Luke's team a hard time. Varco is showing surprising speed, and is showing a kicking ability that will make him a valuable asset to the team.

Some of the most remarkable misdeeds during the game, but this was doubtless due to the depressing effects of the hot weather, and they have fully recovered the ball in time to save themselves, although the kicking would have been disastrous against more formidable opposition.

This afternoon the Gophers are lined up against the Carlton college eleven. Chicago has a rather difficult proposition in the shape of Indiana, while North Dakota is a team that will give the Gophers a hard time. The Wolverines play their first game this afternoon, meeting the St. Luke's team. The American league games were short enough without the foul play of the National league. STRONGEST TEAM
Among the Big Four of 1904 Appears to Be Yale.

Is Playing the Major Portion of Her 1903 Eleven.

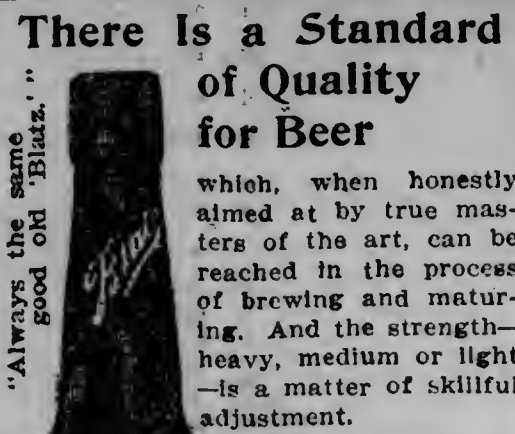

A superlative view of the prospects of the various Eastern football teams for the season of 1904 leads one to think that Yale has the best chance to capture the championship on the gridiron. Of course, everybody is aware of the fact that to pronounce a decision like this is final, and so, but from the reports in reference to the available material that the different Eastern teams are making, it is probable that Yale will be the team to watch.

The Princeton, which won the honors of the gridiron last season, has to develop almost a whole new team, and Harvard, Pennsylvania and Cornell are just about eligible to be entered in the same stakes. Yale, however, has the advantage of playing once more the major portion of her 1903 eleven.

This is indeed a great bunch to have on the other universities, and is one of the main reasons why any one who argues the changes in football is wrong.

Again, the amount of raw material that is accredited to Yale this year is no less than that of the other members of the Big Four. The training camps of the colleges contain a wealth of recruits, none of whom, no matter from what one of the camps, are considered as yet phenomena players. There may be "diamonds in the rough" in all of the training quarters, but at this period they have not reached the stage of development.

While the enthusiasts of Princeton may well mourn the loss of Capt. Dwyer, whose kicking abilities contributed in a great measure to elevate the Tigers to the highest pinnacle of football glory, still a large mass of consolation will find to them when they

The Experiences of Thomas Cat.

BY FLORENCE MAY.

Thomas was picked up on the street by Miss Mary. She had been out for a walk, and was just returning to her fine, comfortable home, when Thomas, seeing her, ran up and said: "Fellow-me-o-o." Miss Mary looked down, and seeing the drabbed, yellow kitten, with its rough, unkempt fur, drew back her foot to gently kick it away from her skirts, exclaiming: "Oh, you ugly, mangy, yellow thing! Scat!"

But before Miss Mary's foot could strike Thomas he gently rubbed himself against the friendly foot upon which Miss Mary balanced herself, and said: "Pur-pur-r-r." Miss Mary trod and the threatening foot down to the pavement again without damage.

Strooping, she examined him more closely. Seeing that Miss Mary was a well-dressed lady, with a warm place in her heart for poor suffering cats, Thomas looked up at her meekly and said: "I'm a poor, poor, poor cat. What's your name?"

But Miss Mary did not finish the sentence, she only hurried along with the shivering Thomas in her arms. Now this was better luck than Thomas had expected. All he had to do was to say that this lady would not beat or kick him, for he was already half dead with cold, and she had said she would let him follow her to her home.

But Miss Mary did not finish the sentence, she only hurried along with the shivering Thomas in her arms. Now this was better luck than Thomas had expected. All he had to do was to say that this lady would not beat or kick him, for he was already half dead with cold, and she had said she would let him follow her to her home.

"Oh, come Bridget with a plate of milk, coaxing them toward her."

her home, where she might pitch him a crust of a bone. And here he was, tucked snugly in Miss Mary's arms, warm against her soft, warm fur cape and muff.

Miss Mary turned into a spreading yard filled with great, noble trees—no stripped bare of foliage by the winter's blast—and passed up the walk to the old house. Thomas had never approached such a elegant place before. Indeed, in all his life he had never gone near to a front door of any kind. He had kept to back yards, crawled along rear-yard fences, shivered behind old ash cans and hid in dark, foul-smelling alleys from antagonistic people, dogs and ferocious members of his own kind.

All living things had been ill now his enemies, for from his earliest recollection he had been forced to run and hide for his life. He had not been endowed with fine lives he must long ago have succumbed to hunger, cold and cruelty.

Just this morning, a few minutes before Miss Mary came to his relief, he had been crouching in the arway of a flat, when a man came along, and seeing Thomas, landed him against the opposite stone basement wall with a kick of his great cruel foot. Thomas had fallen back to the ground on all four paws, jaws that were stiff with cold, when the man came toward him again, lifting the other foot to repeat the punishment. Hereupon Thomas leaped up the steps and fled down the street. Suffering terribly from the hurt he had received, and tortured by cold and hunger, he crawled into the shelter of a stone fence and sat down to his aching paws to warm them.

Many people were passing, and Thomas kept his eyes on their faces, hoping to find one among them whom he would dare to approach. He was on the point of giving up to despair when around the corner came Miss Mary, a white-haired, pink-faced little woman, tured to a back door—led thither by the odor of food and the sense of warmth—some sharp-tongued woman would yell "Scat," and throw water all over them; again, some brutal man would kick them from the back door, and then, for the foot, or perchance some mischievous boy, knowing no better (for never having been taught) would tease, torment and torture the poor, homeless four.

One day they had all entered a yard, over the high alloy fence, to search the frozen garbage barrel for food. While struggling with each other over the meat gristle, there sounded a woman's voice from the back door. But this time the tones were kind and gentle and did not say "Scat! Oh, will, dear," said the voice, "look at that batch of kittens! Isn't that little gray one cute? May I bring it in and make a pet of it?"

Although Will's answer was not heard, it evidently was made in the affirmative, for in a minute out came Bridget with a plate of milk, coaxing them toward her. At first they felt too much frightened to let her approach them, and were on the point of fleeing when Bridget set the plate on the ground and withdrew to a safe distance. Then their hunger forced them to the plate, and they lapped the warm, delicious milk. While thus busily engaged Bridget cautiously crept upon them, and before they knew that she was near she had grabbed one of Thomas' little sisters. A wee, gray, graceful kitten, with innocent wide eyes and pretty pointed ears, and was carrying her off captive. Thomas and the others fled to the top of the fence and sat waiting further developments, wondering when next would happen, and feeling that they, too, would like to get into the nice warm place where Bridget had carried their sister, and where, in all probability, there was more of the sweet milk to drink, when Miss Mary, Bridget, crying "Scat! scat!" and frightened them away. "Out old top!" she yelled, as they ran along the top of the fence, and can't have but one peep at a tome in the house, and if I was questioned regarding it, I'd say down the whole peep batch of yez. It's only the mistress as is to blame for catchin' one of yez. Scat! I!"

Down from the fence they jumped and ran along the alley. Most of the three kept together, the words of Bridget. "Can't have but one peep at a tome in the house, and if I was questioned regarding it, I'd say down the whole peep batch of yez. It's only the mistress as is to blame for catchin' one of yez. Scat! I!"

"Oh, mamma, mamma!" she called, "here's three dear little kittens in the back yard. May I have them in the house?"

Then a lady's face appeared at the window. "Why, darling, said the lady, 'you don't want that ugly yellow cat!' and she pointed at poor Thomas. 'And sides, there's three of them, we couldn't be bothered with so many in the house.' 'Then let me have the white and black one, please,' pleaded the little girl."

The lady withdrew from the window, and in another minute Thomas saw her come out at the back door. Like Bridget, she carried a plate of milk, which she gave to the white and black kitten, and then she called "Kitty, kitty." Remembering the sweet taste of the delicious milk in the morning, they all sprang to the plate and lapped greedily. At this moment the occurrence of the morning was repeated. The lady quickly reached down and took the little black and white kitten. Thomas' other sister in her arms. Of course, they were all very much frightened, little black and white struggling to get away, but the lady spoke softly to her, stroking her coat to assure her that there was nothing to fear.

Now there were only the two left out in the world homeless—Thomas and his brother, a scrawny, mottled cat of undecided color. Thomas, with cat philosophy, was glad of this, for it meant less division of the scanty findings in the garbage barrel. Only two, where there had been four, to wrangle over a chance bone. Then Thomas felt to thinking some more. It seemed that no one had room for more than one cat at a time alive house, with a seven or eight cat, so decided that this was a suitable reason for Thomas to decide on a separation from his brother. So when his brother took a little uncomfortable nap on the south side of an old ash can that evening curled up in the snow Thomas stole away. Once in the alley he ran many, many blocks, often falling in the way of others of his kind, cuts full of ill temper and viciousness caused by the lives of hardship and suffering. These would sometimes stop, as Thomas and strike him with their sharp claws. Being only a kitten and new to the ways of the world, Thomas fell into the way of his own kind and spat and struck back.

All that night he froze, froze, froze. Every place he sought out in which there was the barest bit of shelter from the biting cold, that he had spoken and ache, he invariably found some other cat already installed there, and he was driven away by a sharp blow on the nose.

When morning came he was very miserable and discouraged. All day he hunted for another friendly back yard, hoping to be taken in like his sisters had been, but his search was fruitless.

Then followed a week of this miserable tramp life, this life of hunger, cold, and fierce fighting with his fellows. And not only was he attacked by his own kind, but by the human family as well. Broomsticks and old bottles were hurled at him whenever he entered yards to search for food from the garbage barrels and boxes. Great, heavy kicks sent his emaciated little body hurtling through the air whenever he was caught hovering on a back-door step to get out of the way of a wheel. No voice spoke to him, save to say in angry tones: "Scat!"

This it was that on the morning 10 days after he had parted company with his brother poor Thomas had left the alley and back yard and was taking his life in the open streets. He knew that his treatment there could be no more cruel than it had been under shelter of fences, ash cans and garbage barrels. Still suffering from the kick inflicted on him while seeking food in the alleyway of the fat, he was, as has been told in the beginning of this story, warming his numb paws under himself when Miss Mary came round the corner.

After entering the house with Thomas in her arms, Miss Mary went at once to the kitchen and placed for him a spread. It consisted of a beaten egg and some sweet, rich, warm milk. Thomas ate till the cavity in his stomach was completely filled. Then he walked up against Miss Mary's ankles and purring his grateful thanks, Miss Mary looked him again in her arms and went up a broad, beautifully carpeted stairs to the second floor. "Now," she said, talking to herself, "we'll see what the other stray will do when he sees us to have another share of his domain. I hope they won't fight."

Softly she opened a door leading into a cozy apartment and put Thomas down on the floor just inside the door. Then she watched proceedings. Thomas turned round to view his new quarters, when his eye fell on a familiar form. There, lying in front of a cheerful grate fire, was none other than Thomas' brother, the poor, scrawny, miserable kitten from whom he had been parted 10 days. But how changed he was, for five days of struggle and strife he had been with Miss Mary—had worked wonders in his appearance. He was now a very respectable fellow, well fed and sleek.

With a joyful, playful leap Thomas bounded on his brother, and the two rolled over and over in play together. About the room they scampered, now hiding behind furniture and now behind the doorway curtains to leap out and catch one another in the wildest frolic. "Upon my soul," exclaimed Miss Mary, "I never saw strangers so friendly before." Then she went to a door leading into another apartment and called: "Sister, come here."

In another moment a young lady came and looked at the rolling kittens. "Why," she said, "where did that other one come from?"

"I picked it up on the street," answered Miss Mary. "I just now brought it in. But the strange part of it is these two cats like to each other. I was so afraid they would want to fight at first."

"Do you mean to keep it here, too?" inquired the sister, with some misgivings.

"Well," answered Miss Mary, "it could not be heartless enough to bring it in and give it a taste of comfort and pleasure and then turn it out to freeze and starve. Besides, it is company for Jonathan. (Jonathan was the name Miss Mary had given to Thomas' brother.)"

"And what do you mean to call the newest?"

"Well, as he's such a plain fellow I'll call him Tom for short, but his baptismal name shall be Thomas. And I'll warrant you that by the time these cats are in the house six months there'll be no more complaints from cock about mice in the cellar. I can walk up against Miss Mary's ankles and purring his grateful thanks, Miss Mary looked him again in her arms and went up a broad, beautifully carpeted stairs to the second floor. About the room they scampered, now hiding behind furniture and now behind the doorway curtains to leap out and catch one another in the wildest frolic. "Upon my soul," exclaimed Miss Mary, "I never saw strangers so friendly before." Then she went to a door leading into another apartment and called: "Sister, come here."

In another moment a young lady came and looked at the rolling kittens. "Why," she said, "where did that other one come from?"

"I picked it up on the street," answered Miss Mary. "I just now brought it in. But the strange part of it is these two cats like to each other. I was so afraid they would want to fight at first."

"Do you mean to keep it here, too?" inquired the sister, with some misgivings.

"Well," answered Miss Mary, "it could not be heartless enough to bring it in and give it a taste of comfort and pleasure and then turn it out to freeze and starve. Besides, it is company for Jonathan. (Jonathan was the name Miss Mary had given to Thomas' brother.)"

"And what do you mean to call the newest?"

"Well, as he's such a plain fellow I'll call him Tom for short, but his baptismal name shall be Thomas. And I'll warrant you that by the time these cats are in the house six months there'll be no more complaints from cock about mice in the cellar. I can walk up against Miss Mary's ankles and purring his grateful thanks, Miss Mary looked him again in her arms and went up a broad, beautifully carpeted stairs to the second floor. "Now," she said, talking to herself, "we'll see what the other stray will do when he sees us to have another share of his domain. I hope they won't fight."

Softly she opened a door leading into a cozy apartment and put Thomas down on the floor just inside the door. Then she watched proceedings. Thomas turned round to view his new quarters, when his eye fell on a familiar form. There, lying in front of a cheerful grate fire, was none other than Thomas' brother, the poor, scrawny, miserable kitten from whom he had been parted 10 days. But how changed he was, for five days of struggle and strife he had been with Miss Mary—had worked wonders in his appearance. He was now a very respectable fellow, well fed and sleek.

With a joyful, playful leap Thomas bounded on his brother, and the two rolled over and over in play together. About the room they scampered, now hiding behind furniture and now behind the doorway curtains to leap out and catch one another in the wildest frolic. "Upon my soul," exclaimed Miss Mary, "I never saw strangers so friendly before." Then she went to a door leading into another apartment and called: "Sister, come here."

BROKEN AXLE PUTS AUTO OUT OF RACE

Chicago, Oct. 3.—A broken axle today frustrated an attempt on the part of Bert Holcomb to lower the automobile record between Chicago and New York. Thirty-two miles out of Chicago, while the distance was covered in fifty minutes, the rear axle of the touring car snapped in two and the vehicle was overturned. Holcomb and two companions were thrown upon the ground, but none of them were seriously injured. The car was so completely wrecked that a return to Chicago was necessary. On the previous occasions Holcomb was forced to give up the trip on account of bad weather. Upon returning to Chicago today Holcomb announced that another attempt to lower the record would be made tomorrow.

West Duluth

Rev. Dr. Robert Forbes, whose reputation as an eloquent speaker is known far and wide, was the featured speaker at the West Duluth church, corner Forty-sixth avenue west and Hattie street, on the occasion of the formal changing of its name to the West Duluth Methodist Episcopal church, and the unveiling of the tablet erected to the memory of Rev. Lucien F. Merritt, who, as pastor of the church, was instrumental in having the building erected, and was its first pastor.

Dr. Forbes was for many years a warm personal friend of Rev. Merritt, and he was well fitted to eulogize him. Dr. Forbes spoke at length of the admiral personal qualities of his friend, and of the events in his life, telling of the good he had accomplished, and the warm friends he had made by his kind and generous ways.

B. N. Wheeler read an interesting paper on the life of Rev. Merritt, dealing with the events in his life from the time of his birth until he died. The tablet erected to the memory of the beloved minister bears the following inscription:

IN MEMORIAM.
The Rev. Lucien F. Merritt,
Pastor of this church from 1889 to 1931.
Born June 11, 1835.
Died Sept. 1, 1931.

There was a very large attendance at the church both morning and evening. Dr. Forbes also spoke in the evening, telling of the work of the board of church extension, of which he is one of the secretaries. The Ashbury Methodist church congregation attended the evening services in a body, filling the building to overflowing.

Rev. Merritt was pastor in Onondaga from 1860 to 1884. The church was built in 1889. Two years ago it was voted to change the name to the West Duluth Methodist Episcopal church, but yesterday was the first time that the change received formal recognition. Hereafter it will be known by the last name altogether.

Mr. Gurney, however, has still to do battle with the foreign office in London. He made a blunder, and a diplomatic blunder is on a par with an undiplomatic crime. Mr. Gurney's usefulness as a member of the diplomat in Washington, at least, is ended. He will, without doubt, be ordered back to England. The general opinion in diplomatic circles is that the young man will be given an indefinite leave of absence and that his name will eventually be stricken from the British diplomatic list. THE WINNER

Hilbings, Minn., Oct. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—The last games of ball of the season were played here yesterday between a team composed of the White Sox and Fashions, of Duluth, and the Hilbings team. The first game was for a side bet of $200. The visitors put up a good game, but at the opening the home team made several errors that gave the Duluth combination four runs. After the first inning both sides settled down to good playing, and the game closed with 10 scores for the visitors and 4 for the locals. Over 1000 spectators in attendance, and the betting on the game was very heavy.

The Duluth team won by superior batting. Freeman was touched up freely by the home players, but nothing was anything of a mystery to the home players in all but one lining. Randall, Shepard, Bennett and Quillan hit safely in the first inning and completed the circuit. Ghering fanned three of the home batters, but he was not a much feared pitcher. The hopes of the fans were at low-water mark. Duluth added another in the second inning on a spell of bad throwing by the home players, and Ghering again retired the side.

The home players developed a batting streak in the third and fourth innings, however, and succeeded in getting four men across the plate, coming within one of tying the score.

During the remainder of the game, however, Gehring was invincible, and retired the home players in easy fashion. The visitors went after Freeman again in the sixth and hammered out three runs, clinching the game. Two more came in the seventh as the fans gave up hope of pulling the contest out of the fire.

The sensational feature of the game was Randall's stealing from third base. The score was:

Duluth	4 1 0 0 0 3 2 0 0—10 14 0
Hibbing	0 0 1 3 0 0 0 0 6—4 8 2

Batteries—Duluth, Gehring and Wagon; Hibbing—Freeman and Kleffman. Umpire, McFadden.

As the game was called at 4:30 with Duluth at the bat. Lovell and Potter had taken the place of Gehring and Wagman. The locals proceeded to pound Lovell pretty well over the field, but no runs were obtained until the second inning, when the home team scored two runs, three and Duluth two. At the end of the sixth inning, the game was called on account of darkness and the score stood 2 to 8 in favor of Hibbing. The score was as follows:

Hibbing.....	0 2 0 0 0-2

Batteries-Duluth: Lovell and Potter; Hibbing, Symonds and Kleffman. Umpire, Bend.

The Duluth mine, a small producer of the Oliver Iron Mining company, has a small strike on at present. About 100 men went out demanding $2 per day instead of $1.75. The ultimatum issued by the mining company is if the men do not resume work at once, the mine will be closed until next spring. This will affect the business interests of the village.

Samuel Spencer, president of the Lachmann Trust, trustee of the Atlantic and Pacific, and of the Atlantic and Pacific Marine Insurance Company, and of the New York Central are among the contributors. The board will draw salaries of $5,000 a year. John R. Jessup, Jr., of the Washish, is credited with $250,000, and John C. McLean. There are a large number of other railroad presidents who have contributed $25,000 and $55,000 a year.

In the matter of salaries the larger trust companies have been the leaders. In the case of the railroads, S. C. T. Dorsey, general solicitor of the Standard Oil Company, has been paid $100,000 a year salary as any other person in the country. He is said to draw a salary of $100,000 a year. J. C. Schuyler was president of the United States Steel corporation he drew a salary of $100,000 a year.

Mr. Schuyler resigned the salary of the president of the Standard Oil Company.

This reduction was made because of the fact that many of the duties that had been performed by the president were turned over to various committees at his resignation. In addition to the salary of $100,000 a year, Mr. Schuyler makes

SOCALLED PROPHECIES.

Any man of lively fancy, who knows enough of human nature to realize its possibilities, can find many "prophecies" covered by the dozen with a fair chance that perhaps one in a thousand may come true. The prophet of the London Spectator. To the same class belong the curious anticipations by native tribes of the future of their own people, known, when by no conceivable means they could have been foretold through ordinary channels. The present writer believes that this phenomenon, which has so long puzzled philosophers, is simply a form of anticipation. The natives, as inevitable guests, and hence his hosts, are invited to the feast of the future; he makes enough attempts to get a glimpse of it, stumbling now and then on the truth.

TWENTY-SECOND YEAR.

DELEGATES TO PEACE CONGRESS DEFLORE TENDENCIES OF U.S.

Has Yielded to Temptation to Become a Naval Power.

Indulges in Old Ambition to Command Respect By Force.

Robert Treat Paine Is Again Elected as President.

Boston, Oct. 4.—The first formal business meeting of the Thirtieth international peace congress was called to order in Tremont temple today. Three deliberative sessions at which the delegates are expected to enter into a free discussion of the subjects looking toward the general attainment of peace which the congress has assembled to consider will continue through Friday morning.

An opening address by Edwin D. Mead, of Boston, was the first in the order for today's meeting. This was to be followed by the election of president and an address by him, responses by representatives of each of the countries having delegates in the congress, the election of the other officials, and finally by the presentation of the report of the international peace bureau, on the events of the year. Another special matter to be brought up for consideration, was the cablegram received last night, from Sir Thomas Barclay, of England, by President Robert T. Paine, of the American peace society, referring to the desirability of a treaty of arbitration between Great Britain and America.

The accredited delegates occupied seats on the floor of Tremont temple, where today's meeting was held, quite filling that part of the auditorium, while hundreds of spectators were in the galleries. Mr. Mead opened the meeting and extended welcome in behalf of the American peace society. Mr. Mead continued:

"We do not forget, to be sure, none remember so constantly that our own republic, from which it was intended your right not to expect it, has yielded in these days to the temptation to make herself also a great naval power and indulge the hoary old ambition of commanding respect by force."

"We do not forget, to be sure, none remember so constantly that our own republic, from which it was intended your right not to expect it, has yielded in these days to the temptation to make herself also a great naval power and indulge the hoary old ambition of commanding respect by force."

On concluding his address, Mr. Mead nominated Robert Treat Paine, of Boston, president of the American international congress. Mr. Paine was elected unanimously. In the same way Dr. Benjamin F. Trueblood, of Boston, the secretary of the American peace society, was elected secretary of the international peace congress.

President Paine responded in a short address referring to the work of the congress. President Paine offered the suggestion which was received with marked favor by the audience that all should look forward to and plan for an international congress of all nations, at which the peace of the world might be assured.

For Insurance on Cargoes of Contraband of War.

New York, Oct. 4.—Marine underwriters here are putting up rates on steamers carrying railroad material for Japan. The rate recently current has been three-quarters of one per cent. This premium has now been raised to the Cape with rails and locomotives on board. This change in the insurance situation has caused several of the China and Japan lines from the port to announce that they will omit Japan altogether or refuse railway material if the steamers make Japanese ports.

JENKS SAYS CHINA WILL ADOPT GOLD STANDARD.

San Francisco, Oct. 4.—Prof. J. W. Jenks, commissioner on international exchange, who was sent by the president to China to study the monetary systems of the Orient and suggest the needed reforms, returned on the steamer Mongolia. Although disinclined to talk on the subject of his investigations until he had submitted his report to the president, he professed to declare his belief that in a very short time China would formally adopt the gold standard and thus place itself upon a level with the leading nations of the world.

Issues Stirring Address to Association of Democratic Clubs.

Shows Special Reasons Why Democrats Should Act Unitedly.

WILLIAM R. HEARST,
President of the National Democratic Clubs.

Washington, Oct. 4.—Those who were at the bedside of Postmaster General Payne, last night, marvelled at the fact that life remained this afternoon. His wonderful recuperative power was remarked by Dr. Magruder this morning. Early today it was stated that Mr. Payne's condition was up and down, that he first would be conscious, then unconscious, that his pulse would go down to an extremely low point, then rise. His pulse was at the bedside this morning when Mr. Payne awoke. He recognized her and spoke to her. He also recognized the physicians and drank a small quantity of coffee, delirium with cream, which he retained. When Dr. Osier reached the bedside he asked Mr. Payne how he was feeling. "First rate," was Mr. Payne's reply.

As Dr. Osier was leaving for his home in Baltimore, after a consultation he said he would not return this evening unless Mr. Payne grew very much worse. Secretary Wilson was an early caller at the Arlington today, seeking the latest news from the sick room. Secretary Hitchcock also called, as he has done daily.

Washington, Oct. 4.—8:15 a. m.—It is stated that Mr. Payne's pulse and respiration are as good now as they were yesterday at this time.

9:15 a. m.—Dr. Magruder, Rixey, Osier and Gerson are now holding a consultation. Reports from the sick room are to the effect that Mr. Payne is conscious and that he asked for and drank some coffee which he appeared to relish.

The following bulletin was issued at 9:30 o'clock:

The postmaster general has again rallied. Heart action very feeble. Condition grave.

Dr. Magruder left the sick room for a few minutes about 10 o'clock. He said that while Mr. Payne's condition, as stated in the bulletin, was grave, that did not mean that his dissolution was imminent.

Private Secretary Whitney at 11:45 o'clock, said on the authority of Dr. Grayson, that Mr. Payne's condition was about the same as at the time of the issuance of the 9:30 bulletin, but that he was somewhat weaker.

EMPEROR POSTPONES TRIP.

Peterhof, Oct. 4.—The emperor has postponed for several days his trip to the Baltic coast. He is intended to bid farewell to the Baltic coast.

Lieut. Gen. Gripenberg, who is to command the Second Manchurian army, has arrived here. He will be received in audience by the emperor tomorrow.

"The Democracy party believes in expansion—it is the party of expansion, as Jefferson was America's greatest expansionist. But it is opposed to imperialism."

"We denounce protection as a robbery of the many to enrich the few, and Democrats mean exactly what the platform says."

"They know that through protection, the trusts rob the public, workmen and business men alike. And Democrats if elected, will find a way to pull away from the trusts their protecting cloak—the tariff."

"These, with a heartily pledged support of the Monroe doctrine, a demand that the service of the old soldiers be fairly and generously recognized, a vigorous protest against the attempt of President Roosevelt to stir up racial hatred as an engine of political advancement, constitute the main features of the latest Democratic platform, worded to meet the especial conditions and emergencies of the day."

"We Democrats hold now, as we did one hundred years ago, to the doctrine of equal rights for all and special privileges for none; while Mr. Roosevelt's party and Mr. Roosevelt with every appointment in his gift bestowed on some trust puppet, hold to the doctrine of special favors for those who have money and will pay."

LIEUT. GOV. HIGGINS FORMALLY NOTIFIED

Of His Nomination as Candidate For Governor of New York.

Nominee Makes Speech Pledging New York to Roosevelt.

Olean, N. Y., Oct. 4.—Lieutenant Governor Frank Wayland Higgins, the nominee for governor, and his associates on the Republican state ticket, were today formally notified of their nomination.

In reply to the speech of notification by State Senator Malby, Lieutenant Governor Higgins spoke in part as follows:

In the present year, state and national interests are inseparably related. The prosperity of the nation cannot continue unless the national administration is an efficient one, unless the policies which have brought prosperity and employment are continued, and the principles of the Republican party are given full force and effect. The people of this state and other states, therefore, are to be congratulated in that the Republican party, represented in national convention, selected as its candidate for president Theodore Roosevelt.

Opposed to Theodore Roosevelt is a man whose chief claim for merit seems to be a telegram—sent too late to change the result of a convention, that had almost adjourned—defining a position which was well known to those responsible for his nomination, but which they refrained from communicating to their fellow delegates.

As between the records of the two presidential candidates, having before it the results which have been accomplished by each, the Republican party, in its convention at Saratoga, did well to promise the support of the Republican party.

HOLE IN CONNECTICUT'S SIDE BORED FROM OUTSIDE BY DIVER

New York, Oct. 4.—That the latest attempt to injure or destroy the battleship Connecticut, was, according to the Herald, made from the outside, has been established to the satisfaction of the officials of the navy yard.

It is believed that the hole which resulted in flooding one of the water tight compartments of the ship was bored by a diver.

This narrows the field of investigation and an important arrest in this case is expected. Following closely upon the arrest of the diver, it is believed that the culprit will be identified.

Rear Admiral Frederick Rodgers, calling on the patriotism of the employees to protect the Connecticut, a man who said he had been a workman in the yards was arrested.

MORE REASSURING

Are Reports From Northern Part of Shantung.

Pekin, Oct. 4.—Further information regarding the unrest in the northwest part of Shantung province is of a reassuring nature. The British legation is of the opinion that there is no cause for anxiety. This opinion is confirmed by Bishop Pavier of the French Catholic mission, who is exceptionally well acquainted with the Chinese.

A dispatch from Shanghai, Sept. 27, said that the Shantung boxers were openly distributing prospectuses, circulated before the uprising of 1900. These prospectuses fixed October 17 of all foreigners.

NO ATTEMPT TO BLOW UP CZAR.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 4.—The authorities of the police department make absolute denial of the story published in Vienna on the authority of Polish newspapers that an attempt was made to blow up the train on which Emperor Nicholas was traveling during his recent visit to Southern Russia.

TO RUN AUTO TRAINS.

Berlin, Oct. 4.—Automobile trains are to be run on the wagon roads in Poland and German East Africa as feeders to the railway lines. The colonial administration is now improving the roads and building bridges with this object in view.

TWENTY MILLION DOLLARS FOR TAXES RECEIVED IN ONE DAY

New York, Oct. 4.—All records for the amount of taxes paid to the city in one day have just been surpassed. Those who went to the tax receiver's office in person were so eager that officials appealed to the police to hold them and their money in line. The city treasury was nearly fifteen million dollars wealthy when office hours were over than it had been in the morning. It is thought, that including the piles of checks and currency which there was not time to enter, the total receipts were not far from twenty millions. The earliest tax payers appeared at a break in the line and inside of a few hours, more than 200 persons were in line. The largest amount received came from the New York City Railroad company and from the Vanderbilt family. These amounted to $400,000 each.

FRANK WAYLAND HIGGINS,
Republican Candidate For Governor of New York.

Of the state of New York to the election of Theodore Roosevelt, and in furtherance of that pledge I promised to be a hearty co-operation. More than this, Republican success in the state of New York, of far greater importance is Republican success in the nation. Mr. Higgins said he would not, if elected, be deterred by political considerations from a full and conscientious discharge of such duty. Suggestions would be welcome, dictation refused, and in the end his individual judgment alone would determine his official actions.

Senator Chauncey M. Depew made an address, in which he eulogized Mr. Higgins and discussed the national candidates and the leading issues of the campaign.

Condition of Affairs Around Mukden Show No Change.

CONDITIONS UNCHANGED.

Japanese Scouts Rout Small Bodies of Russians.

Tokio, Oct. 4.—The following official report has been issued:

The Manchurian headquarters reports by telegram that a body of scouts sent by our advance detachment on October 2, consisting of a company of infantry and a troop of cavalry, attacked and routed a detachment of the enemy's cavalry, sixty strong, occupying Paoshingtung, thirteen miles north of Liao Yang and nine miles west of the Mukden road. While further considering in the vicinity a force of Russians. After fighting for some time the Japanese returned. The enemy's loss was about thirty. We sustained no casualties.

The state of affairs at the front of our army remains unchanged.

ONLY TWELVE ESCAPED

Out of 4000 Japanese Who Made Sortie.

London, Oct. 4.—The Daily Telegraph's Nagasaki correspondent cabling under date of Sept. 25, says:

"Terrible artillery conflicts are adding to the horrors of the situation at Port Arthur. On Sept. 22 and 23, the Russians made sorties against positions held by the Kanagawa regiment, and desperate fighting ensued. The Japanese force was practically annihilated, only a few noncommissioned officers and eleven men remaining alive out of the 4000 who went into the engagement."

SLIGHT SKIRMISH

Breaks Lull in Operations Around Mukden.

Mukden, Oct. 4.—The complete lull in the operations was broken Oct. 2 by a slight skirmish, a few miles east of the bridge over the Shakke river, where a company of Japanese came up, exchanged a few shots with the Russian outposts and then retired, carrying off their killed and wounded.

The weather on the whole is good. The days are fine and warm, but the nights are bitterly cold. Snow has fallen at Hing Chang.

The Chinese corn, which has been a splendid crop, is being rapidly harvested.

QUIET AT VLADIVOSTOK.

Vladivostok, Oct. 4.—The town is quiet and many families who fled to the interior in the season, are returning. It is an excellent fishing season, but there is a considerable scarcity of salt. Navigation on the Amur will close this week.

MANY ARRIVE AT MUKDEN.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 4.—A special from Mukden, dated October 2, says the population of that place has been greatly increased by arrivals from all quarters. Chinese who have fled from the south say the Japanese are administering affairs in Southern Manchuria with a high hand and many complaints of ill treatment of the natives by them are made. There is a great scarcity of provisions among the Chinese population.

MAY BREAK RECORD

Year of 1904 May Show
Low Average Temperature.

Average For Eight Months
Has Been Below Normal.

For coats, fur caps, heavy mittens and all other wearing apparel designed especially to withstand the rigors of a Northern winter will be in active demand in Duluth earlier than usual this season. If the record of the first nine months of the year for coldness is kept up during what remains of 1904. From all indications, this will be the coldest year, taken as a whole, which the Zenith city has experienced since the establishment here of a weather bureau thirty-four years ago.

All of the nine months past, with the exception of May, have had an average temperature lower than the normal, and on the warmest day of the summer the thermometer stood at only eighty-five degrees. On one other day eighty-four degrees was the record, but nearly every other day the mercury in the government thermometer stood below eighty.

January started the year with an average temperature 5.5 degrees below the normal for the month. February went on to show a still lower average, showing an average of 12.5 below the normal. The records at the government bureau show there have been but five colder Januaries and one colder February in thirty-four years at the head of the lakes. None but the one February showed so low an average in this length of time.

March fell in line with 5.1 degrees below the normal. This was pretty cold but there have been five years when lower averages have been registered during the month, and two when the average has been as low. At the end of May, when 2 degrees above the normal was the average of the month, Duluthians began to fear that the cold spell had been broken, but these fears were dispelled when the close of June showed a deficit of 1.7 degrees, as compared to the normal. There have been three colder Junes, and five as cold, according to Forecaster Richardson.

When July showed an even lower mean temperature, 3.3 degrees below the normal, the people gave up all idea of a warm summer, and not without a certain degree of pleasure, for they were willing that the summer should be under the normal, if the winter weather would have just the opposite trend, but it begins to appear that all hopes in this direction are unfounded. In the time mentioned there has been one July colder than the last, and two when as low an average was shown. The August average was 3.6 below the normal, and, as was the case with July, only one colder August is on record, and two as cold.

September showed an average of 2.9 under the normal. There is but one September on record when so low an average was maintained. As a rule in the past, when one portion of the year was below the normal in temperature, some other season balanced the deficit by showing an average temperature above the normal. To make the average for the year reach the normal the remaining three months will have to be warm indeed.

STAR COURSE ATTRACTIONS

First to Be the Great Companari Early In November.

The sale of tickets for the Star lecture course for the season which will open next month has begun. The seat reservation will take place in the early part of November and the same plan will be followed as last year. The drawing will be by lot and all persons will thus be placed upon equal footing. The tickets as well as being in the hands of canvassers are at Chamberlain & Taylor's store.

The course for the coming year is believed by the management to be by far the finest ever offered. Like that of last year it consists of eight entertainments and they are the pick of the offerings of the lecture bureaus of the country.

The opening number will be the Campanari company, headed by the greatest of baritone, Signor Campanari, whose name is among those most familiar to those who have heard the great grand opera companies of the past decade. He has been on the concert stage during much of the time he has been not engaged with his operatic engagements, and in that way has come to be known in a still wider circle. Everywhere he is acclaimed the greatest baritone of the age.

Supporting him is Miss Ruby Citter Savage, soprano; Miss Dorothy Hole, violinist; and Ward Stephens, pianist and accompanist. Their date is Nov. 12.

All of the other attractions will be lectures, some of which will be illustrated in one way or another. Senator J. P. Dolliver of Iowa, who is now one of the strongest men on the stump for the Republican party, will speak on "A Poor Man's Government and Poor Boy's Country." Congressman Landis, of Indiana, who is regarded as very likely to succeed Senator Fairbank in the event of the latter's election as vice president, will speak on "The Mission of the State."

DeWitt Miller will speak on "The Use of Ugliness." Robert Stuart McArthur, author of "The Great Bear of the North," and George R. Wendell on "The Man of Color." A picture which many still believe to have been the finest ever heard in the Star lecture course, having been heard here about ten years ago.

Two little plays will be given. Leland Taft, the noted sculptor, will speak, illustrating his talk by modeling in clay. John P. McCutcheon, one of the foremost cartoonists of the country, will give a lecture which he will illustrate by drawings in the view of the audience.

NEW YORK DAY AT THE FAIR

Speeches By Odell and Others Features of the Day.

St. Louis, Oct. 4.—The most successful state day celebration at the exposition, both in point of interest and attendance, was that of New York state, observed today. Beautifully decorated and crowded with its brilliant assemblage, the New York building was the mecca of the plateau of states.

Addresses were made by Director of Exhibits Staff and Commissioner Edward L. Ryan, to which Governor Odell responded. After reciting the events and diplomacy which led up to the acquisition of the Louisiana territory, the governor said: "New York is here today by its official representatives to testify first to its loyalty to the purpose for which this exposition was conceived; to show the people of the West that in their progress we are interested, and that to them we look for such aid and assistance as will give to our nation men of energy, of right impulses, of the highest character, and of the highest ability. Our efforts will be to aid you in every way possible, and to stand behind you in all that means the prosperity of our common country. You have here an exposition of which you may be justly proud. Nothing like it has ever been known in the annals of the world. Skilled workmen from all parts of the earth are here to aid in its success. Here you witness not only the steady progress that has been made in the sciences, the arts, and agriculture, but you have before you also exhibits from the demand solution at the hands of the American people. Our flag has been planted in a far off land, and we must take responsibilities which it would be unwise to shirk. A message must come to us as to all other nations, to do the Master's bidding and to spread Christianity and civilization into the remotest parts of the earth. To us have been entrusted the duties that have cost us the blood of some of the bravest men of the North and of the South, of the East and West. Here we may see something of that which has been accomplished, as well as a presentation of those conditions which it is our duty to correct. It is our privilege to give to others the same liberty which we enjoy ourselves, to establish some form of government such as ours whenever these people are ready for it, and it is our duty to protect them in their weakness until they are prepared for it. It was the dream of our forefathers that our country should be confined between two magnificent oceans, but despite these hopes, in later years additional responsibilities have come, which the American people are too proud to shirk, and too courageous to abandon. There is no one who has seen the progress which is here represented who does not believe that the work for civilization which is ours to perform has already had such an impetus that the time shall come when we shall bless those who had the courage to stand for it against those who dominated another solution of this important question. To our credit it is said that no true American demands the surrender of these possessions, and that the only question of difference between the people of our country is whether they shall be given their independence now, or when they are in a condition to enjoy it. This exposition stands, not only as a monument to our progress, but to our belief in the future of the world. We owe that which we are at present to the devotion and heroism of the men of the past, and to protect and guard the inheritance of the future, to us should be our aim. To be broad and conservative in our conception of our duties and responsibilities should be our purpose. To instill into the minds of our youth a determination to meet every question with true American courage should be our object. The duty of the future is a fitting tribute to the national policy which has taught us that there is no responsibility too great for our citizens to bear, and that in the future, the progress of civilization America recognizes her duty and will not fail in the duty of her citizens.

Addresses were made by Director of Exhibits Staff and Commissioner Edward L. Ryan, to which Governor Odell responded.

After reciting the events and diplomacy which led up to the acquisition of the Louisiana territory, the governor said: "New York is here today by its official representatives to testify first to its loyalty to the purpose for which this exposition was conceived; to show the people of the West that in their progress we are interested, and that to them we look for such aid and assistance as will give to our nation men of energy, of right impulses, of the highest character, and of the highest ability. Our efforts will be to aid you in every way possible, and to stand behind you in all that means the prosperity of our common country. You have here an exposition of which you may be justly proud. Nothing like it has ever been known in the annals of the world. Skilled workmen from all parts of the earth are here to aid in its success. Here you witness not only the steady progress that has been made in the sciences, the arts, and agriculture, but you have before you also exhibits from the demand solution at the hands of the American people. Johnson, of Minneapolis—who is looking for laborers," Mr. Adson said. "He is a contractor and is doing some work at Houghton, where he wishes to have more men on the job. I've got a standing order for some men for a firm out in North Dakota who are doing some contracting. Our road is anxious to get more laborers to help construct a piece of road which we have building near the Sault Ste. Marie. It is a spur of track to run from Sault Junction."

ANOTHER CARLOAD GOING.

Fourth World's Fair Party in Private Car.

A. E. Hathaway, city passenger agent of the Great Northern railway, said this morning that his line would have another party of people to go to the St. Louis exposition in the private car, "Joe M. Jr.," to leave for St. Louis this morning. This will be the fourth of the kind of excursions to be run over the Great Northern.

"We had a very delightful trip," said Mr. Hathaway, speaking of the last excursion, which he conducted, "and not only did we enjoy the fair, but the beauty of the country traversed. The crops along the road looked splendid, and we could not have asked to see them better. There was some of the finest corn I have ever seen, miles across—corn as far as the eye could reach. All of Iowa and Northern Missouri looked fine."

UNDER DANCE ORDINANCE

New Pavilion at Lester Park Would Become White Elephant.

Should the proposed ordinance forbidding public dances within 500 feet of the public parks of the city pass, it will involve the sacrifice of several thousand dollars which have been invested by the owners of the Lester park pavilion.

One of the pavilions was rebuilt last spring at a heavy expense, and should the ordinance be passed and the public dances be forbidden this money will be almost a total loss. Should the ordinance be passed and the pavilion be closed, the matter will very likely be fought out in the courts and the legality of the proposed ordinance tested.

The matter was brought up at the request of a number of West End property owners who do not wish to see the Lester park pavilion rebuilt. They claim that it has made the park a resort for disreputable characters and had a very bad moral effect in the community. The purchase of the land on which the pavilion stood, would, however, prevent any likelihood of rebuilding, as there is no other available site for the structure.

The proposed ordinance will probably meet with considerable opposition from those who do not wish to see the owner of the Lester park pavilion lose his investment.

THE GOSSIP OF GOTHAM

Camping on His Small Income Riled Merchant Against Bride's Sisters—Final Carousal Ended With Roaring Scene—Officer Guarding Disabled When Hubby Came Home.

New York, Oct. 1.—That chance flitting leads to mischief has just been pointed in the case of a West Side dealer in cordage. The incident, very interesting to those who are interested in the life of the city, is a story of a man who, in the name of a married woman who boarded in his chamber's house, and who talked so incessantly that he hadn't a chance to get in a word edge-wise with his dear, or he must assent to the companionship of the homely dame. She was more quiet, but had so fine an appreciation of the cooking other folk provided that she was a mighty expensive accessory to the "supper after."

Elsewhere it was much the same, and the girl gave him only enough of that to keep him hot in chase of more of it. It was successful strategy, and the girl was out. In the annals of West Side life, there is of record no finer wedding—than was that. And they went to housekeeping with two servants, a point that in the boarding house colony was a more than seven days' wonder.

LOOKING FOR A GOOD THING.

She was within 200 feet of her boarding house, anyhow. It was a very decorously conducted establishment, so with her at his first meeting. She was in the stenographic way, self-supporting and independent, but mind you, she came to the big city to make her living, her little head was quite as full of intention to look some good thing of the male persuasion, as it was of a diligently studied course in a business college of her native state. She wasn't a low schemer, and after this unconventional meeting her acquaintance proceeded in strictest propriety. If she was to know him, she must know all about him, and she even recalled his references to the boarding house insisting, for the town's youth. They had won prizes for their "best" waltzers. They regularly had blown all their available funds and more or less of that of giddy youths in gowns and jewels that were even cheaper than they were lacking in modest taste. In short, they were as knowing and forward as a pair of young chicks as you'd see in a long walk over the hills.

CAMPED ON HIS MONEY.

And didn't they camp down on sister's ready money husband for a sweet time. He should have known better, but their relationship permitted certain license between them, and when the blue-eyed sister-in-law, with a huge wisp of hair over her forehead, met him as he came home with a hug, and the sister-in-law, who was a love, or the blue-eyed one passed him a meaningful wink from under her immense veil, he began to think that it was a grand thing to have married a family of pretty women. Birdie witnessed a lot of this sort of thing, and did no more than chide her sisters for their conduct. Birdie, however, was a different matter. What she said to hubby isn't on the record, but soon she brought forward a number of presentable young men for her visitors' consideration, and thereafter the sisters' attention to hubby were much less marked. By the time the damsel had picked out of the masculine offering a half dozen or so sufficiently lively of disposition and inclined to pay for the girls' good time, the bridegroom began to realize that their tastes in young men were not of the safest. And as they had been camped on him for a month without giving sign of any intention to return to the sweethome, he gently broached the subject to Birdie.

THE FORTHCOMING EVENT.

It is a delicate business this suggesting to wifery that her relatives need not get yet can't stay round much longer, and he approached the subject warily. Somewhat to his surprise he found that his spouse met him quite half way. Sisters should go home, she opined; they would go, he agreed positively. But an event was forthcoming. Friends of Birdie's up in Harlem were about to give a function. It was to be a remarkable affair, combining card games, food and dancing, when liberal promise of originality in the way of favors and like accessories. It was to be very select, too, but Birdie felt sure of an invitation, and was not without hope that she could secure one for herself. Her hope held strong until ten days before her own card came to hand. Then it was dashed. Great was the fall not for herself, but for the Connecticut chips, who by some one had been let into the original list. Birdie had been let into the original list, and that it was to be a glorious shindy, and that it was to be a wind-up for their visit.

WERE LAYING PIPES.

The girls outwardly acquiesced in all these arrangements at last, but really were laying pipes of their own. So it happened that when on the night of the parties the married couple started about 9 o'clock for their first night of the married couple had appeared. There was another lot, more select, according to candy-shop standards waiting round the corner. And before the cordage merchant and his spouse were more than out of the block as many more guests of the sisters' special invitation came to the house in a bunch. They were the lively picked ones, mostly by the girls as good spenders, and they had brought with them, by very special request, certain lively refreshments. It consisted chiefly of champagne, American made, but the real thing to the Connecticut damsel. And the bunch didn't wait for supper before sampling it. There was a liberal provision of it for the entire party, but before midnight the original list became much depleted, some of its members retiring in disgust and alarm from the affair, which was degenerating rapidly into an orgy.

ROD STRONG FOR THE COOK.

The cook, incidentally a good woman, had striven to stay the storm, but after one or two essays had retired to the kitchen in much alarm. By 3 o'clock in the morning supper was over, but she dared not go to bed and sat in the kitchen boiling with wrath and fearing every minute that some carnal would come to herself. The champagne still held out upstairs, though the frolics had been at a low ebb. A half dozen sat at a table, shouting popular airs and still drinking. At the piano, in an adjoining room, was a young man, the keymasterly part of the couple. A couple or two, the Connecticut chips inclining, gave a private saloon round the table. Over in a corner near a dresser lay a couple, down and out. He had slipped off his chair, and was in the drinking and had been dragged to a window. A majority was in favor of putting him to bed in the corner of the merchant's chamber, but one girl, not the one the drunken chap had escorted, protested. She, not much better off than himself, declared that she'd take him in hand and sober him up so his fun wouldn't be spoiled. So she knelt beside him, caressing him for a minute and ended by falling asleep, with her blonde curls spread over his shirt front.

BROUGHT DISASTER.

It was this pair who caused the trouble. Such pairs do sometimes, but the one brought about disaster in a singular way. They lay so their feet were in the path round the table of the prize waltzers. One of the latter stepped on the prostrate woman's foot, and she responded with a jerk that left her ankles exposed. It was a mean shame, some of the ladies opined, but the youngsters insisted that they were nothing to be ashamed of, and there being something in that statement, the matter would have dropped had the "incident" not somehow enforced on the mind of the young fellow who had escorted the girl to the house the fact that he was left without a dwelling. In that stress he bethought him of the cook, who several times, out of loyalty to her employers, had downed her alarm enough to appear in the doorway and try to look the shameless crew out of countenance. So, recalling the good colored woman, the chap beret seized a pint of wine and a cork-screw and staggered for the kitchen. Cook wouldn't drink, not even to a toast extolling herself, nor would she permit the youth to kiss her, though he persisted until she cuffed him roundly. So he retired upstairs, with half of his low vest hanging down the front of her back and with his shirt almost as badly ripped.

A FIERCE ROAR.

The shout that greeted his return to the others was easily audible to the frightened woman downstairs, and she was driven almost to frenzy of fear when she heard the sound of many feet on her stairs. She rallied enough to bolt the door at the foot of the flight, but to think of her master's telephone. But her special line in life was Southern cooking, and she had little knowledge of such contraptions as that talking box, of which she stood almost in fear at all times. Now, in her rattled state she had a hard time getting central to do anything for her. Finally she thought of an acquaintance she might be able to reach, a chap who was night porter in an all-night drug-store on Broadway, and so after a spell she got him on the wire. Two minutes later he staggered the store's night manager by announcing that a lady friend of his was in trouble and that he must require permission to go to the police station in her behalf. By the time he had cleared himself of the ridiculous request, the unusual request aroused, and had put the case as he understood it, and that was far from clearly, the sergeant in the West Twentieth station, more time was lost. Meanwhile the roisterers had taken alarm.

THEY LOPED.

Some one had had enough sense left to realize that the cook's essay at the "phone portended trouble, and announced that it was time to lode. And lope they did, most of them, though the sleeping couple was left behind, and with them was a mauling girl still in her teens, who declared between coughing sobs that she'd stick by 'em and see 'em through, though it proved she couldn't walk herself.

When hubby and birdie came home from a perfectly sweet time in Harlem they found a corpulent policeman sitting in front of a half-filled bottle of champagne (mere coincidence, of course) and surveying judiciously the scene of the night's rioting and the three disabled rioters. The Middletown chips had got to bed. Cook was in view, hysterical and protesting that the poor children didn't mean it. There would be no complaints, the cordage man said gravely to the officer, and the latter withdrew with a lingering glance at the remaining fizz. On the morning Connecticut recovered her own. Blue eyes was in almost as bad shape as when she went to bed, but the other had recovered well. She looked up under her bun of hair at her brother-in-law as she left the house, tilted her head and told him that he was a mean old thing, and that he had missed the time of his life. And it's small comfort to him to reflect that the mischief's done and can't possibly happen again.

GOLF PLAYERS IN CONTEST
Sides Led by President Walker and Vice President Richardson.

On Saturday October 3, there will be a golf contest at the golf course, between two teams representing a side, which has been chosen as the president's and a second side representing the vice president's. The players representing the president, W. W. Walker, are in the first column, and those of the vice president, W. E. Richardson, in the second, as follows:

$35 per six months, in place of $50 as at present. The ordinance was given its first reading.

The light and water committee reported that the light fund is sufficient to pay for sixteen additional lights, and it was decided to appropriate these among the different wards. Each ward will be granted two additional lights, to be placed in the positions designated by the aldermen from that ward.

The council decided to increase the appropriation for the park fund as made by the conference committee, by the sum of $300. This was done as a result of the statement of Alderman Barnes, that the balance for this fund on January 1, would be considerably smaller than estimated by the conference committee, and in order to allow the fund the amount intended by the committee, would be necessary to increase the allowance, especially since the board was anxious to purchase the site of the Lincoln park pavilion.

In accordance with the suggestion of Mayor Callahan, City Attorney Pester was instructed to draw up an ordinance covering assignment houses, and fixing a jail sentence for the conviction of their proprietors, and also fixing a punishment for street walking.

Permission was given C. F. Hartman, who has the contract for the city ferry on Park Point, to substitute the tug Annie L. Smith for the Carrington, when the ice becomes too heavy for the latter.

Preliminary Work For Completion of New Pier Underway.
No more concrete will be laid this year on the outer end of the new south pier at Superior street. This decision has been reached by Major Charles L. WHEAT IS LOWER Nervous and Erratic Market Finally Resulting In Decline.

Duluth Sells Another Cargo to Chicago—Flax Is Dull.

Duluth Board of Trade, Oct. 4.—Wheat was nervous and erratic throughout the day. It opened fairly steady and had a bulge, after which it reacted sharply. Two or three times it neared high level, only to fall back again and finally shortly before the close it fell away and dropped below the opening prices and closed lower than yesterday. Duluth December lost 1/2¢, while Chicago the same lost 1/2¢. In Minneapolis 1/2¢ and in New York 1/2¢.

Northwestern receipts were heavy, but the total of primary receipts was below that of last year. Clearances continued very light. Minneapolis reported a sale of 50,000 barrels of flour for direct export, the first sale for months. Duluth shippers had the Eastern demand no better, but sold a cargo of wheat for shipment to that market. The foreign inquiry shows no better tone. The Liverpool market closed last lower. Car receipts at Duluth were 65, against 72 last year, and at Minneapolis 58, against 59 last year, making a total for the Northwest of 123, against 131 last year. Winnipeg received for two days 58 cars.

Primary receipts of wheat were 1,500,514 bushels last year, 1,507,000 bushels this year. Shipments, 1,017,000 bushels last year, 1,014,000 bushels this year. Clearances of wheat and flour aggregated 77,731 bushels. Breadstuffs reported an increase of 87,000 bushels in the world's visible supply. East of the Rockies there was an increase of 1,460,000 bushels. Europe's demand of 4,500,000 bushels. While the amount of increase was large, the same was in a year ago there was an increase of 12,000,000 bushels. The Liverpool market closed unchanged. In the Chicago market December wheat closed 1/2¢ higher. Primary receipts of wheat were 28,500 bushels last year, 28,500 bushels this year. Shipments, 28,500 bushels last year, 28,500 bushels this year. Clearances were 32,500 bushels. Breadstuffs reported a decrease of 87,000 bushels in the world's visible supply of corn.

Trading on the Duluth market was active and the market was a nervous one. The December option opened unchanged at 1.12, sold up to 1.13, and then fell back to the opening price at 1.12. The market was active in the following minutes, fell to 1.11, and then advanced again to 1.12 at 10:30, dropped to 1.11 at 11:00, and then fell steadily until the close, which was at 1.10. The low was 1.10, and the high was 1.13. The market was not quite so weak, losing 1/2¢ and closing at 1.12.

Cash wheat continued at 25¢ over December option for No. 1 northern, and 2¢ under for No. 2. Flax was dull and sluggish in its movements. The October option opened unchanged at 1.12, fell to 1.11, and then advanced again to 1.12 at 10:30, dropped to 1.11 at 11:00, and then fell steadily until the close, which was at 1.10. The low was 1.10, and the high was 1.13. The market was not quite so weak, losing 1/2¢ and closing at 1.12.

CONGREGATIONALISTS
IN STATE SESSION

Inspiring Address By Prof.

Graham Taylor of Chicago.

A. A. Miller of Crookston,

Moderator, Reports—
Women In Session.

The large audience which attended last evening's session of the General Congregational association was given two treats, first the annual report of the moderator, Hon. A. A. Miller, of Crookston, Minn., and second, the scholarly, entertaining and inspiring address delivered by Prof. Graham Taylor, D. D., of the Chicago Theological seminary.

Professor Taylor's topic was "The Emphasis Which Evangelism Lays Upon Nurture," and he analyzed carefully and in detail the two branches of arms, as he termed them, of church service. He is a man of wide experience in Christian work among the masses both in the rural districts in New England cities, and in Chicago. His experiences have given him a splendid fund of personal recollections to draw on and his address was embellished throughout with humorous and pathetic incidents that held the closest attention and drew an enthusiastic round of applause when he completed his talk. He is a man of decided convictions and with the habit of stating them just as decidedly to other people.

Especially interesting was his story of the work that is being accomplished by the Children's League, of Chicago, of which he is a very active member, in purifying politics in that city, without regard to partisanship. His expression "Really, I ought to be in Chicago canvassing tonight, instead of standing here talking to you saints," provoked a general smile. He urged that Christian workers mix more in politics than they do and declared that it was just the place for them. In beginning his address, Professor Taylor said:

"Christianity is dependent on evangelism and nurture for life itself, for growth and development. Alexander Duff once said that the church which is not evangelistic will not long be evangelized."

"The bible is a sealed book to those who have use for it in working on no other lives than their own. The two arms of church service, evangelism and nurture, are dependent each upon the other. There is no such thing as a specially evangelized or a specially nurtured church. If we substitute evangelism for nurture or nurture for evangelism, we are left with the churches. If we try to make the substitution a sort of parallel fallacy of the non-missionary church."

"Any church that takes the position that it is a class church declares itself to be less than a church of Christ, which is a church of all classes. I never took any stock in the expression once made by a noted divine that the congregational church is for the cultivated classes."

"Evangelism and nurture are not only dependent on each other, but they are mutually interdependent. Both are necessary and scarcely to be distinguished from each other, especially among the conditions that we find in this northern country. We find we cannot say here evangelism ends and nurture begins."

"The emphasis of which I am speaking is that of the exigencies of the needs in which I have served and the men and women with whom I have been brought face to face. It is my province to be brought face to face with the people, I cannot be a successful teacher of young men preparing for the ministry unless I keep in close touch with the workers, and more than that, the professor of chemistry can do good work and keep away from the laboratory."

"For seven years my territory was in the rural districts. For another twelve years in the heart of the New England states, and now for the past twelve years in the heart of the city of Chicago. You must take into consideration the scope of my field when I give you my idea of emphasis as to evangelism and nurture."

Professor Taylor here gave a number of incidents illustrating his field work through the medium of evangelism, and said that some people could not be reached except through that form of service. While he was in the East he went to the streets, on the corners, under trees, on the docks, in the police courts, the ball grounds, picnic grounds and even the prisons. Everywhere he reached the great outlying mass of humanity.

"I found the title of my life," declared Mr. Taylor, "I found it better to be a mass man than a class man. Yet I did all this at the sacrifice of my own more or less trained to be aesthetic, that had been developed in the nurtured church of my father."

"Nurture is the normal method of bringing souls into the church of God, and even the prisoners, wherever there is more recourse than evangelism. Evangelism seems to appeal to people of certain temperament on the one hand, or to people of certain antecedents on the other. We found in our evangelistic work that we could not hold some of the men with less emotional natures. It nearly broke up our work before we discovered that it was not the fault of the service, but simply that the converts had become weaned and needed the nurture."

Professor Taylor claims that the statistics will show 75 or 80 per cent of the young men that are entering the theological seminaries in the East and Middle West are those who have been nurtured Christians rather than evangelized. He claimed there are hosts of people who do not know the date after evangelism is the exceptional thing, and that the church and home training is really the best method. He criticized severely the idea of the association, shown in permitting children who ought to be in their beds, making sensational prayers from the platform.

"I never saw the time that nurture was not the basis for the effectiveness of evangelism," said Professor Taylor. "Nurture really lies back of the negative plate which evangelism develops. The results of evangelism are conditioned by nurture. Evangelism work, to be successful, must either be preceded or followed by nurture work. There are some churches that are all gate and no way, but it is pretty nearly as bad if they are all way and no gate. Evangelism may be compared in one sense with the get-rich-quick idea. It is all enthusiasm and bright light, but remember that the bright lights cast deep shadows."

Professor Taylor deprecated the strong belief expressed by some in personal conversation. He explained that men who are confident from their fellow beings for a period of time naturally become somewhat emotional in nature but that it is apt to wear off when they get outside the prison walls and mix with the world again. He believed that the converted convict should be held on sort of a probation plan for a time after he gets out of confinement. He argued that the religion gained by a convict unless matured was in much danger of losing its hold.

"There is an inferno in our industrialism," declared Professor Taylor, and it's a matter that the churches must look to. There must be something more than talk thrown into the evangelism or nurture to make either effective.

"And I warn you, Christians, to look well to it that the union leaders and the walking delegates do not pass the gates of heaven ahead of you. They have been down among the people. They have seen the infernal grind of the sweatshop where the lives of men and women have been crushed out in the hot close rooms in which they are made to work. It would be worse than a crime to ask to be good. Talk is so cheap and there is so much work to be done, and there are people to whom you can not preach, or teach, or pray, or sing religion. They are entitled to all there is in you and in these creatures of God the truth must be lived out and loved in."

"Some churches have been galvanized so often that they won't even twitch," was the trite expression made by Professor Taylor in speaking of the evangelistic methods employed by some church organizations to build up membership.

He held that the adolescent period of life in the young woman is the time for the Christian church to enter her harvest and said it was astonishing to know the small percentage of persons that are saved here before the age of 18 years.

He placed emphasis on nurture shown by the educational institutions that have sprung up under the care of the church and closed his address with a splendidly optimistic outlook for Christianity.

MODERATOR'S REPORT.

A. A. Miller of Crookston Addresses the Association.

The annual report of the moderator of the association, Hon. A. A. Miller, a prominent attorney of Crookston, was a new feature with this year's session. He had having such report having been adopted at the previous annual meeting. The report was a splendidly evoked the progress of Congregationalism in Minnesota.

Mr. Miller, some time ago sent out letters to the pastor of the church or clerk in 50 of the congregations of the state and received replies from about 25, but he said that he had a return for the first time.

After reading the report, Mr. Miller said he came to the conclusion that the religious outlook for Congregationalism in this year is more encouraging than that of the progress which will be made by the church in the future. He said that the church will be able to do more for itself than it has ever done before.

All of the reports reaching him either told of substantial progress being made, or that the churches are at least holding their own. Mr. Miller mentioned several special instances where the work of Christ has been moving a great deal for the uplifting of His cause through the church. Assuming that the church has made progress, he said that the church has made progress in the past year, and that the church has made progress in the future.

The work of the church in this state he divided into three heads: First, the work in the north part of the state, second, the work in the south part of the state, and third, the work in the west part of the state. He said that the church has made progress in all three of these fields.

He said that the church has made progress in the north part of the state, and that the church has made progress in the south part of the state. He said that the church has made progress in the west part of the state, and that the church has made progress in the future.

MENAGERIE LOOSE

Wolves and Bears Terrified Countryside In Massachusetts.

Women and Children Are Locked In Houses—School Closed.

Lexington, Mass., Oct. 5.—With a whole menagerie turned loose upon it, this town and entire countryside was in an uproar all day in an effort to round up the animals and return them to the zoo in Lexington park.

By night all the beasts were back in their cages, with the exception of four or five of the most dangerous—couple of bears and three half-grown timber wolves that never permitted anyone to come near their cages without making a dash for it.

As a result of the fear of these wolves, women and children have locked themselves in, while armed men and boys are searching the woods with lanterns.

The zoo keeper admitted that if they are rounded, and the only thing to do is to shoot them, as they are fierce and do not doubt hungry. Since darkness set in, no one could see down the streets toward the woods.

Apparently the wolves were the first to be released, and kept together either for offense or defense, as an early rising farmer reported three "ferocious things" trotting around the outskirts of his place near town. He said he couldn't catch them, but they only stood still, with their hair bristling in defiance, and looked at him in his house until dawn.

Not an animal was left in the park when the keeper got there in the morning, except four deer. The wolves were tame and they could have been easily caught, but instead of doing so they were found, covering in a corner, evidently greatly frightened by the wolves and bears prowling around before making off.

A farmer and his wife who went to a meadow with milk pails in the morning light were amazed at seeing their head of four or five feet high. Then they got closer and saw that two were buffaloes. They took on the woman for the house and the farmer all the way to police station, where he was out of breath he couldn't explain what was wrong. The buffaloes proved to be tractable and were easily driven back to their enclosure.

Of course, school was out of the question.

DREAD OF HUMANITY

I am compelled by a sense of gratitude to tell you the great good your remedy has done me in a case of Contagious Blood Poison. Among other symptoms I was severely afflicted with Rheumatism, and got almost past going. The disease got a firm hold upon my system; my blood was thoroughly poisoned with the virus. I lost in weight, was run down, had sore throat, eruptions, spots and other evidences of the disease. I was truly in a bad shape when I began the use of S. S. S., but the persistent use of it brought me out of my trouble safe and sound, and I have the courage to publicly testify to the virtues of your great blood remedy, S. S. S., and to recommend it to all blood-poison sufferers, sincerely believing if it is taken according to directions, and given a fair trial, it will thoroughly eliminate every particle of the virus. JAMES CURRAN, Stark Hotel, Greensburg, Pa.

Painful swellings in the groins, red eruptions upon the skin, sores in the mouth and loss of hair and eyebrows, are some of the symptoms of this vile disease. S. S. S. is an antidote for the awful virus that attacks and destroys even the bones. S. S. S. contains no Mercury, Potash or other mineral ingredient. We offer $1.00 for proof that it is not absolutely vegetable. Home treatment book giving the symptoms and other interesting and valuable information about this disease, mailed free. Our physicians advise free those who write us.

HORRIBLE CRUELTY

Worse Than Indians' Deeds Charged to King Leopold's Agents.

Congo Atrocities Are Unchecked and Conditions Grow Worse.

London, Oct. 5.—Advance proofs of letters reporting the atrocities in the Congo region reach here just at the time the honorary secretary of the distinguished body known as the Congo reform association is preparing to set out for the United States to ask President Roosevelt to take a hand in stopping the horrors connected with the Congo rubber industry.

By comparison with the atrocities of which the inhabitants of Belgium in the Congo district were the victims, the worst cruelties perpetrated by American red Indians in the old colonial days, seem almost deeds of mercy.

It should be understood that the poor natives of Belgium had done nothing to offend the Belgians. They had no particular use for rubber themselves, and after the fashion of benighted heathen, saw no good in the thing. They were simply forced to do it by the Belgians, who were in a region where rubber trees abound.

One feels impelled to apologize to the Belgians for the methods employed to enforce the lesson—devils, by the names of two trustworthy witnesses, by whom, he says, his statements will be confirmed.

In charge of a sentry of a body of men in the employ of the Belgians who had been improved in their treatment, to enlighten the people of Belgium on the subject of rubber.

"The Belgians," says the chief of his people, including some of his wives.

"A little child had its brains dashed out and was cut in half. The upper portion of the body was impaled on one stake, the legs and abdomen on another. The little solitary then at it so incessantly that life for them becomes a ceaseless, hopeless grind.

The Belgians are not only cruel, but they are also dishonest. They are cunning and they are also dishonest. They are cunning and they are also dishonest.

man over the head with a club, leaving the soldiers to finish murdering him. Among the other victims were a woman and a boy.

On the return journey a hunter was encountered who had committed the heinous offense of killing some wild animals. It made no difference to the officer that the man was a British subject—he was still "only a nigger," for all that—and orders were given to bind his hands and legs and then hang him. To expedite his death the white man fired a shot into him, and after the soldiers had inflicted unspeakable mutilations on the corpse it was left to be devoured by hyenas.

Another example of the methods adopted by the Congo Free State officials in dealing with the helpless inhabitants, hardly less revolting, is revealed in the following incidents: A native chief took a large truck of ivory to a Belgian station as part of the tribute which had been levied on his village. He received in return four yards of cloth, which was factiously termed "payment," that the transaction might appear less like undisguised robbery. He was then ordered to line up his wives, that the soldiers might make selections from among them. On his way home a soldier took from him the four yards of cloth that he had given him for the truck. Another native chief entered British territory and hid himself because a Belgian official had demanded that his last remaining wife should be given up. His other wives had previously been taken from him and distributed among the soldiers. At a Belgian market three young native girls were seized and retained by Belgian officials.

This same missionary states that in the Congo his journeys he saw thirty young men and boys, tied together with ropes fastened round their necks, being marched to a Belgian station as recruits for an army of native soldiers. Yet according to the Congo Free State reports of the system of enlistment is entirely voluntary.

At the village from which the missionary sends his account he says that a Belgian official declared he was ordered the score of soldiers who accompanied him to fire indiscriminately into the houses of any of the men who attempted to hide from him. The wretched natives are in the habit of running to cover whenever a Belgian official comes along, and the authorities, it seems, are determined to put a stop to such a reprehensible practice.

Embracing the Christian faith affords them no protection from their white tyrants. Christian chief, because he could supply only eight men for "voluntary" labor, was tied up, stripped of his clothes and imprisoned. He was released only when some other chiefs sent in the additional men needed.

Women are equally subjected to subjugation and imprisonment and cruel treatment for failing to bring in rubber. A Mr. Jeffrey, writing from Baringa, said he saw seven sentries, each armed with a gun, with thirteen prisoners in charge, eight of them were women, and two of them had babies at their breasts. On another occasion he saw a steamer filled with natives who were being transported to the High Lagoon for failing to satisfy the greed of the Belgians for rubber.

So far from exposure of the cruelties inflicted on the natives having wrought any improvement in their treatment, John H. Harris, writing from Baringa last July, declares that they are worse than at any time during the past six years that he has lived in the Congo Free State. Apart from the risks they are running of being killed or maimed by their rapacious taskmasters, the work demanded of them involves great danger and hardship, and they are so incessantly that life for them becomes a ceaseless, hopeless grind.

The Belgians are not only cruel, but they are also dishonest. They are cunning and they are also dishonest. They are cunning and they are also dishonest.

ever been brought to that hospital. The surgeon went to work on the man and patched him up the best they could. They took a deep interest in the case on account of the remarkable character and seriousness of the man's wounds which he bore. He hovered between life and death for a long time, but finally his condition began to improve, and, to the surprise of all who were acquainted with the case, the man recovered. He was badly crippled, to be sure, but he was able to get around and was the envy of his Filipino acquaintances. Whether he ever married the brown beauty, who caused the trouble I do not know.

SAW A DUEL WITH BOLOS

Officer Describes How Filipino Was Cut to Pieces.

Austin, Tex., Oct. 5.—Col. John A. Hulen, adjutant general of the state, has one of the largest collections of arms and instruments of battle of that kind ever owned by natives of the Philippines islands there probably is within this country. Col. Hulen served two years in the Philippines as an officer, and he has seen a great deal of the life of the Filipinos.

"I was a witness to one of the most desperate and horrible duels that I have ever seen," he said the other day. "The affair of honor took place between two Filipinos of unusual large stature. It seems that they had quarreled about a woman, and the one who felt that his feelings had been outraged challenged his rival to a duel to the death. The challenge was accepted, and both were selected for weapons. I was taking a ride one morning when I unexpectedly came upon the two men and their seconds just as the duel was about to begin.

The bolos had been sharpened and polished for the occasion until they shone like silver. At the given signal the two men rushed at each other with a terrific and well-planned blow. He struck his antagonist squarely across the chest with a knife through the body like a knife through butter, and the man fell, with his body severed into two parts. I fired the other wounded man taken to the military hospital.

"I don't see how the fellow can pull through, but he is a good case for experiment on," said the hospital surgeon when the unconscious Filipino was taken into the hospital.

Crampton Song Recital.
George Crampton, who will be heard in song recital tomorrow night at the Temple Recital hall made his debut at the Royal English Opera, Covent Garden, singing roles in English, Italian and Wagnerian opera with much success. In 1885 he had the honor of appearing before Queen Victoria, at Windsor Castle, in grand opera, and was also a member of the private choir of the state concerts, Buckingham Palace. He appeared with the greatest success in many productions of the Elizabethan Stage Society in London, and later toured with the principal grand opera companies throughout the United Kingdom.

In Ontario his most notable successes have been in "Elizah" and "St. Paul" (Mendelssohn), "The Messiah" (Handel), "Stabat Mater" (Dvorak), "The Grail Scene" (Parsifal Wagner), "German Requiem" (Brahms), "Hilwatha's Departure" (Cotteridge-Taylor).

Throughout America he has made a fine impression in song recitals, his versatility, dramatic power and artistic cultivation give him a special aptitude as a recitalist. A remarkable feature of Mr. Crampton's work is that he presents all his programs entirely from memory.

THE AFTERMATH.
Summer Girl Must Now Take Beauty Course.

These are sad days of reckoning for the summer girl. After dancing merrily through two months of outdoor life, she now takes a full-length view of herself in the mirror and discovers that she will have to pay the price by a course of beauty-doctoring. The face that looked merely healthy and boyish in its tan in the country appears here, in the environment of her dainty room at home she becomes possessed of a sudden desire to get rid of her tan. Hands which were supple and graceful on the tilter of a sailboat seem suddenly to be clumsy and awkward when back in town. The hair that blowed and tumbled coquettishly about her face on the shore looks bleached and coarse above her evening gowns. Her figure has lost some of its finer curves. Her voice is a bit too big and her ankles look large and unshapely above her dainty dancing shoes. More than that, she has a general feeling that she needs grooming.

As a matter of simple comfort, she takes a course in the constant use of canvas shoes and walking in the sand have caused her feet to swell. Before retiring at night she bathes her feet in very hot salt water. This will reduce the swelling, and if she will add to her salt bath a few drops of Epsom salt, she will have a tendency to make the flesh firm. She should immediately lay aside her low shoes and strap her ankles very tightly by means of the laces on her high shoes. Rubbing the ankles at night with any good liniment and bandaging them tight with surgical tape will tend to reduce their size.

As the result of this change of food to Grape-Nuts the awful disease which I suffered with for more than 20 years disappeared entirely in about three weeks. I have regained my health, strength and vigor and about 22 pounds in weight. All of this is due only to the thoroughly nourishing and completely digestible character of this food—Grape-Nuts. "And we were awfully once—yes, sweethearts," he added, with just a tinge of a smile, and in tones that were carelessly tender.

"I should say, you will come to me now. Will you not? I have asked you again and again, Nellie, but will you not answer?" he pleaded. "I want you for my wife. I would have you come to my lonely house, and find cheer and comfort in them, where now is loneliness and gloom. I am plain and blunt with you. And as you say, I know full well I cannot give you that which she and the little baby look upon as the grave of the dead there in the old churchyard; down there where we two used to chase fireflies on such evenings as these."

"I loved that little girl with all the fire of youth," he continued after a sigh. "I loved her, and she loved me. And she was not always a youth and maid. And, then, poor thing, she died, and she lay dead, and—"

He stopped abruptly. The big, calm lawyer, when people called a man of iron, who had often stood relentlessly against the force of writhing seas of poverty, of crime and of misery, was indeed deeply moved.

"You need not explain," she said quickly. "I understand you. I have always loved you, and I will always love you. I love you."
